PRESENTATION OF FINANCIAL AND CERTAIN OTHER INFORMATION

Financial Information

The division of the Company was registered with the Estonian commercial register (the “Estonian Commercial Register”) on 23 November 2011 (the “Division”). Please read “Division of the Company” in Section 9 (Material Contracts) of Part XI (Business) in respect of the terms and conditions of the Division. The Division resulted in a significant gross change in the size of the Company. For that reason the following has been included in this Prospectus:

- AS Pro Kapital Combined Financial Statements For Financial Years ended 31 December 2011, 2010 and 2009 (the “Special Purpose Combined Financial Statements”) and the Independent Auditor’s Report on Combined Financial Statements which are incorporated hereto by reference (please see Part XVIII (Information Incorporated by Reference)); and

Due to the Division, the Interim Financial Statements contain un-audited adjusted financial information for the interim period ended 30 June 2011. Such un-audited adjusted financial information is intended to give prospective investors a better understanding of what the Company’s financial position and results would have been, had the Division taken place at the commencement of the period being reported on or at the date reported.

For reference the consolidated annual reports of the Company for the financial years ended 31 December 2009, 2010 and 2011 are available on the website of the Company (www.prokapital.com) and in the Estonian Commercial Register. However, each investor should note that the financial information set out in the consolidated annual reports of the Company for the financial years ended 31 December 2009, 2010 and 2011 is incomparable with the financial information contained in this Prospectus due to the Division and the financial information contained in this Prospectus has not been derived from such financial statements for the given reason.

The financial information relating to the Group, as set out in the Part I (Summary), Part VI (Capitalisation and Indebtedness), Part VIII (Selected Financial Information), Part IX (Operating and Financial Review and Prospects) and the Financial Statements incorporated hereto by reference (please see Part XVIII (Information Incorporated by Reference)) have been prepared in accordance with the International Financial Reporting Standards (the “IFRS”) issued by the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB) and the interpretations of International Financial Reporting Interpretations Committee (IFRIC) as adopted in the European Union (the “IFRS-EU”) and the Estonian Accounting Act. The Special Purpose Combined Financial Statements have been audited and the Interim Financial Statements have been reviewed by the Company’s independent auditor AS Deloitte Audit Eesti, as set forth in their audit reports incorporated hereto by reference.

IFRS-EU differs in certain respects from IFRS as published by the International Accounting Standards Board. The preparation of financial statements in accordance with IFRS-EU requires the use of certain critical accounting estimates. It also requires the Management Board to exercise judgement in the process of applying the Group's accounting policies. The areas involving a higher degree of judgement or complexity, or areas where assumptions and estimates are significant to the consolidated financial statements as well as management's judgements and methodology used to implement them, are disclosed in respective notes to the financial statements. Please refer to Part IX (Operating and Financial Review and Prospects) for further information.

The financial information relating to the Group, as set out in the Part I (Summary), Part VI (Capitalisation and Indebtedness), Part VIII (Selected Financial Information), Part IX (Operating and Financial Review and Prospects) and the Financial Statements incorporated hereto by reference (please see Part XVIII (Information Incorporated by Reference)) was not prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the U.S. ("U.S. GAAP"), not audited in accordance with the auditing standards generally accepted in the U.S. ("U.S. GAAS"), or the auditing standards of the U.S. Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "PCAOB Standards"). No opinion or any other assurance with regard to any financial information was expressed under U.S. GAAP, U.S. GAAS or PCAOB Standards, and the financial information relating to the Group is not intended to comply with SEC reporting requirements. Compliance with such requirements would require the modification, reformulation or exclusion of certain financial measures. In addition, changes would be required in the presentation of certain other information. Potential investors should consult their own professional advisers to gain an understanding of the financial information relating to the Group.

Certain financial information presented in this Prospectus has been obtained directly from the audited Financial Statements of the Company, while certain other financial information presented herein have been recomputed by the Company from amounts contained in the audited Financial Statements or have been derived or recomputed by the Company from un-audited records. Financial information obtained from or recomputed on the basis of the audited Financial Statements should be viewed only together with the respective audited Financial Statements as a whole. Financial information obtained from or recomputed on the basis of the unaudited Financial Statements should also be viewed only together with the respective unaudited Financial Statements as a whole.

The tables below set forth selected financial information that has been derived from the Group's Special Purpose Combined Financial Statements for the three financial years ended 31 December 2009, 2010, 2011, and from the Interim Financial Statements for the six months period ended 30 June 2012 (the "Financial Statements"). Section D – Risks

Element	Title	Disclosure
D.1	Key risks	Risks relating to the Group's Business

specific to the Company or the industry	The Group is exposed to various risks due to long duration of real estate development projects. The Group's acquisition and development activities are subject to significant risks of non-completion and loss due to: (a) changing market conditions; (b) competition from other market participants; (c) the Group's inability to acquire land at commercially acceptable terms or obtain detailed planning; (d) budget overruns and completion delays; (e) the Group's potential inability to obtain financing on favourable terms or at all; (f) failure to meet the covenants in financing agreements; (g) defects in the legal title to land acquired by the Group, or defects in approvals or other authorisations relating to land held by the Group; (h) defects in acquired or developed properties; (i) potential significant amendments to the existing governmental rules and regulations or fiscal or monetary policies; and (j) potential liabilities relating to the acquired land. Ability to acquire appropriate real estate on commercially acceptable terms Should the Group need to acquire additional real estate for the development, it needs to identify and secure such real estate on a timely basis and/or for commercially acceptable terms. There can be no assurance that the Group will successfully identify, lease and/or purchase suitable properties on acceptable terms. Ability to obtain construction rights, construction and environmental permits and other approvals In order to develop real estate, detailed planning must have been adopted for respective land unit. The detailed planning approval process by local municipalities is an administrative process and is subject to strict statutory requirements. Depending on the results of the process, the intended use of the land, the maximum number of buildings on the land, the maximum height of the buildings or other details of the plan could be restricted by the authorities. When the detailed planning has been approved or the lease agreement signed, the Group still needs to apply for a building permit from the municipal authorities before construction can commence. Therefore, the Group may experience difficulties or delays in obtaining detailed planning and building approvals from the various governmental or municipal authorities required to undertake the planned development and construction. Should the Group fail to obtain approvals and permits on reasonable terms, it may have to give up the project and sell the land at a sales price which may be lower than the purchase price. Changes in intended use of land Municipalities may change the intended use of the land that the Group has acquired or is considering to acquire. That may have an adverse effect on the business and the financial position of the Group. In case the land the Group has acquired is needed for public purposes, e.g. for road construction, the state or the municipality is to acquire the land in question from the Group for compensation that may not be lower than the usual value of the land. However, such compensation may not be sufficient to cover all the damage caused to the Group. Dependency on small number of large projects A relatively small number of large projects in or near the capital cities of the Baltic States form substantially all of the Group's development business. Concentration of large projects may increase the volatility of the Group's results and increase its exposure to risks attaching to individual projects. Larger projects may also lead to proportionally larger cost overruns. Geographic focus on three capital cities of the Baltic States makes the Group vulnerable in case of a downturn in the property market in any of those cities. Inaccuracy of the forecasts The Group's profitability depends on its ability to forecast market prices, rents, property related costs, anticipated working capital needs, availability of financing, property values etc. If the Group's projections of development costs, property values at the time of sale, future market rents, availability of financing and anticipated working capital etc. are inaccurate, it could experience lower profits, which could have a material adverse effect on its results of operations and financial condition. Potential inaccuracy of the appraised investment value of the Group's real estate portfolio In total 11 projects, buildings and sites in the Group's portfolio have been valued in the Group's real estate portfolio investment value summary regarding Company's property portfolio in Estonia, Germany, Latvia and Lithuania (the "Appraisal Report") prepared by Newsec with investment value of EUR 180.0 million (10 projects located in Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania were valued in April 2012 at EUR 172.5 million and one project in Germany was valued in June 2012 at EUR 7.5 million). The Appraisal Report was prepared separately from the preparation of the Financial Statements. In producing the Appraisal Report, certain assumptions, techniques and methodologies specified in the Appraisal Report were used, which differ from the assumptions used by the Group when preparing its Financial Statements. Therefore, the values indicated in the Appraisal Report differ from the values for the same properties used in the Financial Statements. In addition, the assumptions used in the Appraisal Report may not reflect the true position of the Group's portfolio. The valuation of property is inherently subjective due to the individual nature of each property and is based on a number of unconfirmed assumptions. The real estate markets of the Baltic States have a limited liquidity and amount of publicly available data and research as compared to more mature real estate markets. Relevant property values may have changed since the dates on which the data were applicable. As a result, there can be no assurance that a valuation at a more recent date would not produce a different value for the appraised portfolio. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Company confirms that (a) to the best of Company's knowledge and belief, the information, assumptions and documentation, which were given to Newsec by the Company, was correct and complete and (b) there have been no material changes to the properties valued pursuant to the Appraisal Report as from the date of their valuation. Market values of properties in the countries in which the Group invests may decline in the future. Lack of insurance cover and specific reserves for indemnifying damages The properties of the Group could suffer physical damage caused by natural disasters, fire or other causes, resulting in losses which may not be fully compensated by insurance. The Group has obtained insurance coverage for its properties, which it believes to be in line with standard industry practice. However, insurance coverage is subject to limits and limitations and some risks are not covered by insurance for various reasons. The occurrence of any of the above referred harmful effects or insufficient insurance coverage may have a material adverse effect on the business, results of operations and financial conditions of the Group. This inter alia means that the Group could: (a) lose capital invested in the affected property as well as anticipated future lease income or sale proceeds from that property; (b) be held liable to repair damage caused by the event or (c) remain liable for any debt or other financial obligation related to that property. The Group does not also maintain separate funds nor does it set aside reserves for the above-referred types of events. Dependence on building contractors The Group relies on third party building contractors. If the Group cannot enter into construction arrangements with third party building contractors on acceptable terms or such construction arrangements are not honoured fully as a result of the financial position of the building contractor or any other reason whatsoever, the Group will incur additional costs which will have an adverse effect on its business, results of operations and financial condition. The contractor's or subcontractor's failure to perform may result in legal action by the Group to rescind the con- struction agreement or to enforce the contractor's obligations, which may result in a delay of the project. Furthermore, any delay in the completion of construction may result in an additional cost, which the Group may not be able to pass on to the purchaser of the property. Furthermore, pursuant to Lithuanian law, in case of a bankruptcy or liquidation of the contractor, the developer of the real estate project would be held liable against purchasers of the real estate for any defects that emerge during guarantee period in case of default of the contractor. Thus, in case of bankruptcy or liquidation of any Lithuanian building constructors of the Group companies, they may be held liable as indicated above, which may have a material adverse effect on the results of operations and financial condition of the Group.

Indebtedness and availability of external financing

The Group operates in capital intense industry and needs substantial working capital to support acquisition and development of properties. Therefore, if internally generated cash flow or cash flow received from sales of developed real estate is different than anticipated or money available from either local or global lenders is under liquidity pressures, it could have a material adverse effect on the business, results of operations and financial conditions of the Group.

In order to develop intended properties, the Group may need to raise debt financing from external sources. The projects may need to be postponed if there is limited funding available on commercially attractive terms. This could have a material adverse effect on the business, results of operations and financial conditions of the Group.

Management Board believes that the current leverage ratio of the Group is lower than what is typical for a real estate development company in the Baltic States. However, the Group has substantial indebtedness. As at 30 June 2012, the Group had EUR 20,673 thousand of consolidated long-term borrowings and EUR 6,898 thousand of consolidated short-term borrowings. Among other things, the Group's indebtedness could potentially: (a) limit its ability to obtain additional financing; (b) limit its flexibility in planning for, or reacting to, changes in the markets in which it competes; (c) place it at a competitive disadvantage relative to its competitors with less indebtedness; (d) lead to a partial or complete loss of control over its key subsidiaries or properties; (e) render it more vulnerable to general adverse economic and industry conditions; or (f) require it to dedicate all or a substantial part of its cash flow to service its debt.

The Group's ability to make payments on its indebtedness depends upon its ability to maintain its operating performance at a certain level, which is subject to general economic and market conditions and to financial, business and other factors, many of which the Group cannot control. If the Group's cash flow from operating activities becomes insufficient, the Group may take certain action, including delaying or reducing capital or other expenditures, restructuring or refinancing its indebtedness, selling its investment properties or other assets or seeking additional capital. The Group may be unable to take any of such action at favourable terms or in a timely manner. Furthermore, such action may not be sufficient to allow the Group to service its debt obligations in full. A failure by the Group or the Company to service its debt may have a material adverse effect on its business, results of operations and financial condition.

Risks relating to external financing

The Group has raised external debt financing by borrowing from banks and by issue of convertible bonds. The financing agreements entered into by the Group include several negative and positive covenants and requirements to obtain the lender's consent for, among other things, further financing, providing security or creating charges over its assets, concluding lease, rental or other agreements with regard to encumbered assets granting rights to third persons, changes in the Group's corporate structure, consolidating or merging with another entity, changes in its share capital, changes in its main field of activity or in competence of its management board, making investments to other enterprises or transfer of business or part thereof. Some financing agreements of the companies belonging to the Group (the "Group Companies") also set forth the obligation of the relevant Group Company to retain certain financial levels and ratios throughout the term of such agreements.

The financing agreements concluded by the Group Companies contain customary events of default, including cross-default provisions. These cross-default clauses expose the Group to default risks based on contract performance under other agreements with the lender or with other creditors. In addition, under the financing agreements, it is an event of default if the borrower incurs significant additional financial obligations or if there is a change of control in the borrower without the prior consent of the lender.

In addition, the Group's financing agreements require the Group Companies to pledge their immovable property. Most of the Group's immovable property has been encumbered with mortgages for the benefit of relevant lenders. Furthermore, certain of the Group Companies (including the Company) have issued guarantee letters whereby they have guaranteed the performance of the Group's obligations arising from the financing agreements. This allows the financial institution to demand performance under the financing agreement from the issuer of such guarantee (e.g. the Company), if the borrower fails to perform its duties under the financing agreement. As a result, the Group as a whole is exposed to risks related to the failure by a subsidiary to perform its obligations arising from financing agreements. As at 30 June 2012 the total amount of the guarantees issued by the Group Companies (including the Company) was EUR 26,484 thousand. In addition, the Company has issued a guarantee to secure (jointly with Pro Kapital Eesti AS) possible claims against Taismaja AS arising from a loan contract. The guarantee letter is limited to maximum amount of potential claim. The guarantee is effective until 2 May 2017. Moreover, certain financing agreements set out subordination of intra-Group loans. Thus, certain Group companies may not repay any part of the loan or interests to other Group companies prior to repayment of the credit to banks. Consequently, these provisions limit the flow of funds among the Group companies, which may have a material adverse effect on the financial condition of Group companies or on the Group as a whole.

Dependency on cash flows from subsidiaries

The Company is a holding company, which conducts its business through its subsidiaries. The Company itself does not own significant assets other than the investment into its subsidiaries. Therefore, in order to be able to pay dividends to its shareholders and meet its own obligations, the Company is dependent on the receipt of dividends from its subsidiaries.

Each of the Estonian, Latvian, Lithuanian and German laws set out capital maintenance and other relevant rules, which limit the Group Companies ability to pay dividends or make other distributions. According to Estonian law, a company may only pay dividends or make other distributions, if its current profits and retained earnings are sufficient for such distribution. According to Latvian law, dividends may be declared only once per financial year by a decision of the annual General Meeting of the Shareholders on the division of profit based on the proposal of the Management Board on the distribution of profit. Dividends may not be determined, calculated and paid out, if the net value of the own funds of a company at the time of the end of the accounting year fall below, or as a result of this payment would fall below the total amount of the share capital of a company. According to Lithuanian law, dividends may be declared by a decision of the General Meeting of Shareholders on the division of profit. Dividends may be paid for the financial year, in this case dividends shall be declared by a decision of the annual General Meeting of Shareholders based on the proposal of the Management Board on the distribution of profit. A decision to pay dividends for the financial year may not be adopted if the company has liabilities, which are overdue at the adoption of the decision regarding dividend payment, if the company suffers losses at the end of a respective accounting period, and if the owners' capital of the company is below or as a result of the dividend payment would fall below the total amount of the registered capital and reserves formed in the company. In addition, dividends may be paid for the period shorter than a financial year. In this case, the shareholders holding not less than 1/3 of all votes shall request payment of dividends and an interim financial statement shall be prepared. Decision to pay dividends for the period shorter than a financial year may not be adopted if the company has liabilities, which are overdue at the adoption of the decision regarding dividend payment or the company will be not able to fulfil its financial obligations for the current financial year, or if the company suffers losses at the end of a respective accounting period. According to German law, German limited liability companies may pay dividends and make other distributions to shareholders only if the payments do not violate the capital maintenance rules. Pursuant to such capital maintenance rules, payments to shareholders may not be made to the extent that the funds are needed to maintain the company's registered share capital unless a domination or profit and loss pooling agreement within the meaning of Section 291 of the German Stock Companies Act (Aktiengesetz) has been concluded. Therefore, the Company's financial position is dependent on the subsidiaries' ability to pay dividends. Furthermore, the ability to pay dividends is also restricted by contractual covenants binding on the Group companies.

Risk related to customers' and other counterparties' financial position

The Group is exposed to the credit risk. The Group is continuously monitoring the payment behaviour of its customers and other counterparties. Moreover, in addition to contractual monetary obligations, the counterparties may not be able to compensate the Group for the damages caused as a result of breaches of their non-monetary obligations. Such defaults by counterparties could inter alia result in the Group Companies defaulting under their other contracts and being obliged to pay compensation to their other counterparties without being respectively compensated by the counterparties that initially defaulted, which could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations and financial condition.

Risk related to lease agreements

The Group's lease agreements are divided into two categories: fixed-term lease agreements and lease agreements entered into for an unspecified term. The Group seeks to use both types of agreements, depending on the market situation and the properties in question.

Lease agreements entered into for an unspecified term involve nevertheless a risk that a large number of such agreements may be terminated within a short period of time, and this risk is even further emphasised in an uncertain economic environment. In order to prevent tenants from terminating the lease agreements, the Group may need to agree on the reduction of rent. The reduction of rent payable to the Group under a large number of lease agreements and/or concurrent termination of a large number of lease agreements could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations and financial condition.

Currently lease agreements account for EUR 886 thousand, which forms relatively minor part of the total Group's revenues. Portion of lease related income is expected to increase significantly after the completion of the Peterburi Rd. Shopping Centre, which at first is planned to be leased out and managed for stabilizing the rental cash flow, and thereafter sold once the conditions are favourable.

Contractual risks and legal proceedings

A dispute may arise between the Group and its contractual counterpart on the interpretation or the validity of a contract or fulfilling of contractual obligations, which can lead to arbitration or litigation with an unfavourable outcome for the Group.

The Group may from time to time be involved in a number of legal proceedings, which may also have an adverse effect on business, results of operations and financial conditions of the Group. Currently there are several on-going legal proceedings. The most significant of the on-going legal proceedings is the claims from Aprisco B.V. under a guarantee letter given by the Company. Aprisco B.V. presented two alternative claims against the Company to the court in the Netherlands: (i) claims for compensation of damages in the amount of EUR 2,300,000 or in the amount as ruled by the court; and (ii) EUR 904,106 plus fine for delay or EUR 524,000 plus fine for delay. The District Court in Rotterdam ruled on 4 July 2012 that the Company shall pay EUR 1,409,265.20 to Aprisco B.V. The Management Board of the Company plans to appeal the court judgement.

The Group is exposed to environmental liability

The Group's activities are and will continue to be subject to laws and regulations relating to environmental protection. Such laws and regulations typically cover a wide range of matters, including, among other things, waste handling and protection of ambient air and use of water. Furthermore, such laws are subject to possible future changes (please also read the risk factors "Risks relating to doing business in the Baltic States" and "Increased cost of complying with government regulations"). Failure to comply with the laws, regulations, permits and contractual terms and conditions (including failure to adjust the Group's activities to the amended legal requirements) could result in substantial costs and liabilities, which could adversely affect the Group's business, its financial condition and results of operations.

The land units, which have been or will be acquired by the Group, may subsequently be found to be contaminated. Environmental laws and regulations often impose liability on the current property owner whether or not the owner knew of, or was responsible for, the presence of such contamination. In relation to this risk, please note that: (a) when the Group has purchased land, it has not always required the seller to warrant that there is no contamination on the land; (b) the Group has not carried out environmental investigations in respect of several of its land units; (c) should the Group fail to detect or remedy contamination, this may adversely affect the Group's ability to sell or lease property and expose the Group to claims and (d) upon sale of the property, the purchasers have required and are likely to require the Group to warrant that there is no contamination on the associated land.

The cost of complying with environmental regulations or of decontamination of any land by the Group or the cost associated with a successful claim for damages could have a material adverse effect on Group's financial condition and results of operations.

The Group is dependent on key personnel

The Group's performance is reliant upon the efforts, diligence, skill and network of business contacts of its senior management team. Even though the Groups has agreed with key personnel (except for Olga Rudzika, the Managing director of AS "Pro Kapital Latvia", and Neringa Rasimavičienė, the General director of Pro Kapital Vilnius Real Estate UAB) regarding their non-competition obligation applicable for six months after the termination of their employment, the Group may not always be able to impose competition covenants or other contractual restrictions on a key manager and the Group has to give additional remuneration incentives in order to secure the loyalty and continued employment of such managers. Currently the Group does not have share-linked incentive system. Should the Group lose one or more key managers and fail to find a replacement quickly enough, or should such key manager or managers join a competing business, this could adversely affect the business and results of operations of the Group.

The Group's reputation may be damaged

The Group's ability to attract purchasers of property, attract and retain tenants, raise the necessary financing for the development projects as well as retain personnel in its employment may suffer if the Group's reputation is damaged.

Dependence on IT systems

Property development and operating of hotels are not generally considered high-tech or technology-intensive industries. However, rapidly developing technology is nevertheless one of the determining factors of success in such business and advanced technology and sophisticated IT solutions are critical for project management of large and complex development projects as well as operations of hotels.

Potential tax liability

There is a significant number of intra-group transactions and contractual arrangements (such as lease, credit and service agreements between Group Companies). The Group is therefore subject to a transfer pricing risk in relation to any transactions between related parties that are not conducted on an arm's length basis. This could involve an adjustment to the tax results for entities involved to take account of arm's length pricing, which could have an adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations and financial condition.

Transactions with related as well as unrelated parties may carry a risk of requalification, should the tax authority challenge the economic substance of the transactions, e.g. under the „substance-over-form“ rules. Considering the wide interpretation given to „substance-over-form“ rules by the Estonian, Latvian or Lithuanian tax authority in various cases, requalification of transactions and corresponding adjustment of tax results, such as prohibition to deduct input VAT or additional income tax charge, may have an adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations and financial condition.

Liability for obligations transferred in the Division

The division of the Company was carried out in 2011 (the “Division”). According to Estonian law, companies participating in a division (e.g. the Company and AS Domina Vacanze Holding) shall be jointly and severally liable for the obligations of the company being divided which arise before entry of the division in the Estonian Commercial Register (i.e. 23 November 2011 in case of the Division of the Company). In relations between solidary debtors, only persons to whom obligations are assigned by the division plan are obligated persons. A company participating in a division to whom obligations are not designated by the division plan shall be liable for the obligations of the company being divided if such obligations become due within five years after entry of the division in the Estonian Commercial Register. The above means that the Company is jointly and severally liable for the obligations transferred to AS Domina Vacanze Holding to the extent such obligations become due and payable within five years as of the registration of the Division (i.e. until 23 November 2016).

The maximum potential liability of the Company for the obligations transferred to AS Domina Vacanze Holding is EUR 8,957 thousand, of which EUR 6,844 thousand are obligations arising from the convertible bonds of the Company that were split in the course of the Division. However, should the Company perform any such obligation it will have a right of recourse against AS Domina Vacanze Holding. In addition, on 30 September 2011, owners of convertible bonds issued by the Company delivered to the Company a waiver, whereby they waived their claims against the Company arising from the convertible bonds issued by AS Domina Vacanze Holding as a result of the split of Company's convertible bonds that was carried out in relation to the Division. However, it cannot be excluded that after the disposal of the convertible bonds of AS Domina Vacanze Holding, the Company may be required to satisfy claims of respective bondholders that they have against AS Domina Vacanze Holding arising from the convertible bonds.

Real estate developer's liability

Pursuant to Estonian, Latvian and Lithuanian law, the Group Companies may be held liable as real estate developers towards their customers for, among other things, legal or construction defects in the property sold to the customer.

Estonian law allows claims connected to the deficiencies in buildings to be made against the seller of a land unit under general rules of statute of limitations for an extended period of 5 years (the general limitation period for contractual claims is 3 years). The law provides for the possibility of agreeing upon a shorter claims period in a sales contract. Latvian law allows making claims related to the deficiencies in buildings against the seller for 2 years as from conclusion of sales contract. Lithuanian law allows making claims related to the deficiencies in buildings against the contractor for the following periods: (i) 5 years for open works (e.g. visible works, such as roof, windows, doors, facade, walls), (ii) 10 years for hidden works (i.e. works, which require specific assessment, such as engineering networks, insulation, etc.) and (iii) a certain period of time (usually between 1 and 5 years) specified by the producer for any installed items (heating, electricity systems, etc.). However, in case of bankruptcy of Lithuanian contractors, such claims would be directed towards the real estate developer (please also read the risk factor “Dependence on building contractors”).

The Group seeks to cover its exposure for warranty claims mainly by requiring the main contractor of the project to obtain insurance cover against all construction risks for the whole duration of the project. Such insurance must be made for the benefit of the financier of respective project (the bank), respective Group Company and, if relevant, other Group Companies. However, this may not always be sufficient. The Group passes the warranty liability on to its contractor and subcontractors, but they may not have adequate financial resources to fully indemnify the Group. Losses may arise from risks not addressed in the Group's indemnity agreements or insurance policies, or it may no longer be possible to obtain adequate insurance coverage against some risks on commercially reasonable terms. Failure to effectively cover the Group's exposure to risks arising from engineering and construction liabilities could expose the Group to substantial costs and potentially lead to substantial losses. Additionally, liabilities relating to defects in design and construction may also adversely affect public perception about the operations of the Group and the perception of customers, suppliers and employees, leading to an adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations and financial condition.

With the Group choosing to be a developer rather than a construction company, it faces additional risks of reduced control and timing of the projects, which might be impacted by possible delays from subcontractors, or their non-performance. This could lead to an adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations and financial condition.

Financial assistance rules

The Group Companies have concluded several intra-group loan agreements. The applicable laws set forth limitations and restrictions on certain intra-group transactions, e.g. upstream loans. For example Estonian law permits to provide an upstream loan to a parent company only if the provision thereof is not detrimental to the financial standing of the lending subsidiary and does not impair the interests of its creditors. A violation of such limitations and restrictions could result in the invalidity of respective loan agreement, which would mean that the lending subsidiary may immediately demand repayment of the amounts lent. This could adversely affect the business, results of operations and financial conditions of the Group.

 Latvian law prohibits a parent company as a dominant undertaking to use its influence in order to induce a subsidiary as a dependent company concluding transactions disadvantageous to it without compensating incurred losses during the financial year or granting a subsidiary rights of claim against a parent company. A parent company and its management, who have induced a subsidiary to enter into a transaction disadvantageous to it, shall be jointly liable for the incurred losses. The management of a subsidiary shall be jointly liable along with a parent company and its management for failure to indicate a disadvantageous transaction in a dependency report or failure to indicate in such report that losses have been caused to a subsidiary and that compensation for such has not in fact been made.

In Lithuania certain restrictions apply to intra-group loans, i.e. interest in respect of such loans must be equivalent to an arm's length price and the loan amount may not exceed the company's equity more than at a ratio 4:1. If the loan exceeds the indicated ratio, interest charged on the part of the loan exceeding the relevant ratio may not be recorded as allowable deductions.

German law allows upstream loans by a German limited liability company to shareholders if the upstream loans do not violate the capital maintenance rules. Pursuant to such capital maintenance rules, upstream loans may not be granted to the extent that the funds are needed to maintain the company's registered share capital unless a domination or profit and loss pooling agreement within the meaning of Section 291 of the German Stock Companies Act (Aktengesetz) has been concluded or the company's claim for repayment of the loan is of full value and has been granted at arms' length terms. The shareholder of a German limited liability company also incurs a liability if he induces the company to take actions that may lead to the insolvency of the company.

Risks relating to the Group's Industry

Macroeconomic environment

Real estate development tends to follow the general developments in the macroeconomic environment. Interest rates, unemployment, inflation, private consumption, capital expenditure and other macroeconomic indicators have significant influence on real estate developments and hence the potential profitability of the Group. Adverse developments in the macroeconomic environment increase pressure on real estate prices, rent rates and yields.

Cyclicality of the real estate sector

Real estate development is a cyclical sector. The number of real estate related transactions fluctuates significantly depending on the stage of the real estate cycle. Cyclicity in the Baltic countries has been relatively high lately as a fast growth in prices fuelled by availability of cheap financing was followed by a steep decline as a result of financial crisis.

Illiquidity of real estate

Most of the investments that the Group has made in its real estate portfolio are relatively illiquid and sales of those properties might be time consuming. In case the Group's liquidity is adversely affected the Group might not be in position to liquidate its investments promptly. Recent relatively low activity in the Baltic real estate market further increases the illiquidity related risks.

Competition

The Group is operating in a competitive environment with high number of other companies engaged in the real estate development in the Baltic States. Even though market downturn in 2008-2010 has somewhat decreased the competitive pressure, there are still some relatively well capitalized competitors who can pursue development projects that might compete with the Group's developments.

Recent increase in real estate market activity and improved availability of financing has had a positive effect on some of the Group's competitors who have started the development of some of the projects in their portfolios. Recent pick-up in market activity has also increased the interest of some of the international investors in the Baltic real estate increasing the risk that some of the competitive projects will obtain the necessary funding.

Sales of seized relatively recently developed properties by some of the commercial banks in the Baltic States might also compete with the Group's developments. All of the above aspects related to the competitive landscape of the Group's industry might have an adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations, financial condition and profitability.

Changes in customer preferences

Real estate sub-markets where the Group is operating in (residential housing market, retail property market) are subject to changing customer trends, demands and preferences. In particular, customer trends, demands and preferences may vary depending on economic factors, as well as customer preferences for the style of developments. The Group reassesses different risks, including potential changes in customer preferences, at different phases of a project. There can be no assurance that the Group will be able to recognise such changes and adapt its existing developments or planned developments in timely fashion to suit such changes in customer preferences. If customer preferences in the markets where the Group operates cease to favour the Group's developments, this could have an adverse effect on the business, results of operations and financial condition of the Group.

The Group is exposed to the credit risks of its customers and suppliers

The Group's financial performance and position are dependent, to a certain extent, on the creditworthiness of its customers and suppliers. If there are any unforeseen circumstances affecting the Group's customers' and/or suppliers' ability or willingness to pay, the Group may experience payment delays or non-payment. Each of these factors may have material adverse impact on the Group's operations, prospects and financial results.

Political, economic and legal risks

Risks relating to doing business in the Baltic States

Estonian, Latvian and Lithuanian markets as emerging markets are subject to greater risks than more mature markets, including legal, economic and political risks. Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania have experienced significant political, legal and economic changes and liberalization during the last two decades of transition from the planned economy to a market economy.

For the purposes of its accession to the European Union, Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania implemented significant social and economic changes, as well as reforms of their legal and regulatory framework. As a result, the volume of Estonian, Latvian and Lithuanian legislation and other regulations has increased and is expected to increase further pursuant to the obligation to apply European Community law.

The Estonian, Latvian and Lithuanian civil codes and corporate, competition, securities, environmental and other laws have been substantially revised during the last two decades as part of Estonia's, Latvia's and Lithuania's transition to a market economy and to meet EU requirements and standards. The new legislation remains in part largely untested in courts and no clear administrative or judicial practice has evolved.

The rights of shareholders of Estonian companies may differ from the rights of the shareholders of companies organised in other jurisdictions are governed by the laws of Estonia and by the Company's Articles of Association. Accordingly, the Company's corporate structure as well as the rights and obligations of its shareholders may be different from the rights and obligations of the shareholders of companies organised in other jurisdictions. Estonian regulations may provide shareholders with particular rights and privileges which could not exist in other jurisdictions and, vice versa, certain rights and privileges that shareholders may benefit from in another jurisdiction may not be available in Estonia.

Judgments of Latvian and Lithuanian courts against the Company and the Group may be more difficult to enforce than if the Company and its management were located in Latvia or Lithuania, respectively

The Company was formed in accordance with the Estonian laws and its registered office is in Estonia. The majority of the assets of the Group are located in Estonia and the majority of the management personnel working for the Group reside in Estonia. For this reason Latvian and Lithuanian investors may encounter difficulties in serving summons and other documents relating to court proceedings on any of the entities within the Group and/or the management personnel working for the Group. For the same reason it may be more difficult for Latvian and Lithuanian investors to enforce a judgment of the Estonian court issued against any entities within the Group and/or the management personnel working for the Group than if those entities and/or the management personnel were located in Latvia or Lithuania respectively.

Risks related to Estonian tax regime

Estonia currently enjoys a corporate income tax regime under which income tax is deferred until profits are distributed. Profit distributions are subject to income tax of 21/79 of the net amount of distributed profits. The possibility that Estonia may change its corporate taxation policy has periodically been subject to political discussion but it is currently not possible to assess whether or when any such change may occur. Any change in Estonian corporate taxation policy could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations and financial condition.

Unfavourable changes in Latvian tax regime may have material adverse influence on the Group

The Group Companies are subject to the following taxes in Latvia: VAT, social security contributions, personal income tax, corporate income tax and real property tax. According to the Tax Policy Strategy for 2011-2014 set by the Latvian Ministry of Finance, no additional tax load should be imposed on tax payers in Latvia within the period until 2014 (including), except for potentially moderate increase in real property tax. At the same time, the effective personal income tax charge may be reduced by increasing the tax-exempt ceiling. However, there could be no assurance that the tax policy in Latvia would not change in a manner having adverse effect on the Group's business and financial results.

Moreover, the Group is subject to continuous examinations and audits by the Latvian tax authorities. While the Group regularly evaluates its compliance with tax legislation and uncertain tax positions, any adverse outcome from such continuous examinations may have adverse effect on Group's operating results and financial position. All above mentioned factors may have material adverse effect on the Group's business, operations, financial position and financial results.

Risks related to possible amendments of Lithuanian tax regime

Periodically Lithuanian politicians discuss the revision of tax burden between capital and labour; however, currently no amendments of respective tax laws have been initiated and it is not possible to assess whether and/or when any such amendments may occur. It is likely that the risk related to the amendments of tax laws may increase after the Parliamentary election in Lithuania in the autumn of the current year.

Risks related to German tax regime

The German Group Companies are in general subject to taxation in Germany, in particular with respect to corporate income tax, trade tax (Gewerbesteuer), VAT and land tax and local taxes (where applicable). In addition, the German Group Companies have to pay wage tax and social security contributions with respect to wage payments to their employees and may have to pay withholding tax on dividends distributed to their shareholders. The taxation with respect to these taxes and contributions may be subject to changes due to the amendment of (tax) laws, (the change of) court decisions and the interpretation of tax laws by the German tax authorities. These changes may have adverse effects on the German Group Companies' business and financial results.

Increased cost of complying with government regulations

No assurance can be given that the governments in the Group's core markets will not implement new regulations or fiscal or monetary policies, or amend existing regulations, including regulations or policies relating to or affecting taxation, the environment, health and safety, public procurement, or exchange controls. Any significant amendment to the existing regulations or any new regulations could result in significant additional costs for the Group. The Group may not be able to pass such additional costs onto the purchasers of the property. Any significant amendment to the existing regulations or any new regulations could also impose restrictions on the operations of the Group. This could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations and financial condition.

Eurozone risk

Recent turmoil related to some of the Eurozone economies may affect the Company's operating environment, either directly or indirectly through common currency and monetary policy changes. Prolonged and deep national budget deficits may adversely impact all the area's attractiveness, including Eurozone candidate countries such as Latvia and Lithuania which are operating under the ERM II mechanism. Full or partial collapse of the Eurozone might have a material impact on the Company's business.

Interest rate risk

The interest rates of the loans taken by the Group from credit institutions are based on the EURIBOR base rate, which is determined as of the quotation date occurring periodically after the date of the relevant loan agreement. Increases in EURIBOR will lead to a corresponding increase in the financial costs of the Group.

Furthermore, high interest rates tend to reduce the demand for real estate, which in turn can adversely affect the value of Group's properties and, as a result, the Group's revaluation gains. The Group regularly compares potential losses arising from interest rate fluctuation against the cost of hedging. In a majority of instances, no hedging has taken place, since the hedging expenses would have exceeded the potential losses arising from interest rate fluctuations.

Currency Exchange Risk

The revenue of the Group is primarily denominated in euro, LVL and LTL, while the expenses of the Group are primarily denominated in euro. Fluctuations in foreign exchange rates can have a significant impact on the valuation gain accounted for in the income statement year by year. In addition to that potential fluctuations in currency exchange rates can have an impact on the demand for the Group's properties, its availability of financing, costs of construction works and other aspects of the Group's operations. The main currency risk for the Group is that the rate at which these currencies are pegged to the EUR changes or that any of these currencies ceases to be pegged to the EUR. The Group is not engaged in exchange rate hedging activities, and thus is exposed to curren-

		cy exchange risk. Any devaluation or revaluation of LVL or LTL may have negative consequences for the economies of the Group home markets as a whole and may have a material adverse effect on the financial condition and results of operations of the Group. Pegged currency may have adverse impact on Latvian economy and therefore materially adversely influence the Group Since May 2005 Latvia has been part of the ERM II and committed to observe a central exchange rate of LVL 0.702804 to EUR 1.00 with a fluctuation band of $\pm 15\%$. However, Latvia unilaterally maintains a 1% fluctuation band around the central rate. The fact that LVL is pegged to EUR could have material adverse effect on the Latvian economy. Namely, pegged currency limits the self-regulatory mechanisms of the economy. For example, during financial turmoil substantial amounts of investments are withdrawn from developing countries (such as Latvia), what causes depreciation of local currency. Although, depreciation of local currency increases the trade competitiveness of the country (by fuelling exports), and therefore softens the impact and economic consequences of the financial turmoil, countries with pegged currency cannot rely on above mentioned self-regulatory mechanisms and therefore could be struck by the financial turmoil in more severe way. Therefore, during any financial turmoil the Latvian economy may have limited ability to recover due to peg between LVL and EUR. Any potential turmoil in economic conditions in Latvia, over which the Group has no control, could significantly affect the Group's business, prospects, financial conditions and results of operations in a manner that could not be predicted. Pegged currency may have adverse impact on Lithuanian economy and therefore materially adversely influence the Group Since June 2004 Lithuania has been part of the ERM II and committed to observe a central exchange rate of LTL 3.4528 to EUR 1.00 with a fluctuation band of $\pm 15\%$. However, Lithuania unilaterally maintains a 0% fluctuation band. The fact that LTL is pegged to EUR could have material adverse effect on the Lithuanian economy. Namely, pegged currency limits the self-regulatory mechanisms of the economy. For example, during financial turmoil substantial amounts of investments are withdrawn from developing countries (such as Lithuania), what causes depreciation of local currency. Although, depreciation of local currency increases the trade competitiveness of the country (by fuelling exports), and therefore softens the impact and economic consequences of the financial turmoil, countries with pegged currency cannot rely on above mentioned self-regulatory mechanisms and therefore could be struck by the financial turmoil in more severe way. Therefore, during any financial turmoil the Lithuanian economy may have limited ability to recover due to peg between LTL and EUR. Any potential turmoil in economic conditions in Lithuania, over which the Group has no control, could significantly affect the Group's business, prospects, financial conditions and results of operations in a manner that could not be predicted.
D.3	Key risks that are specific to the Shares	Liquidity Prior to this Offering, there has been no public market for the Shares. The Company cannot assure you that an active trading market for the Shares will develop or be sustained after the Offering and Listing. The Offer Price will be determined through negotiations among the Managers and the Company. An investor subscribing for any Offer Shares may not be able to sell those Offer Shares at or above the Offer Price. The price of the Shares after this Offering may be volatile and may fluctuate significantly in response to numerous factors including inter alia (a) actual or anticipated fluctuations in our quarterly and annual results and those of our publicly-held competitors, (b) industry and market conditions, (c) changes in laws and regulations, (d) shortfalls in the operating results of the Group from levels forecast by securities analysts; (e) announcements concerning the Group or its competitors; (f) global and regional economic conditions and (g) the general state of securities markets. Many of these factors may be beyond the Company's control. An application has been made to the Tallinn Stock Exchange for the Listing. However, no assurance can be given that the Shares will be listed or that, following the listing, an active trading market for the Shares will emerge, develop or be sustained after completion of the Offering. The Tallinn Stock Exchange is substantially less liquid and more volatile than certain more established markets such as those in other countries with more highly developed securities markets. The relatively small market capitalization and low liquidity of the Tallinn Stock Exchange may impair the ability of investors to sell the Shares on the Tallinn Stock Exchange, which could increase the volatility of the price of the Shares. Prices on the Tallinn Stock Exchange may also be affected by external factors, such as the performance of world markets generally, or other emerging markets in particular, or the imposition of or changes in trading or capital gains taxes. Share price fluctuations caused by offer for sale of substantial number of additional shares Sales or issuance of additional Shares into the public market following the Offering could adversely affect the market price of the Shares. The Global Coordinator and certain shareholders have agreed to a lock-up commitment for a period of 12 months in connection with the Offering. These shareholders together own or control approximately 60.37% of the Shares outstanding prior to the Offering and 35.60% of all the Shares outstanding immediately following the Offering assuming that all Offer Shares and no Over-Allotment Shares (as defined in Section E.3 below) are issued, no convertible bond of the Company has been converted to a Share and none of the current shareholders acquires any Offer Shares in the Offering. The Company may also be required to issue up to 4,025,758 new Shares in the course of conversion of the convertible bonds issued by the Company. The Offering may be suspended or cancelled There may be various circumstances, on which the Company has no or very limited influence, that may affect the Offering. Therefore, the Company is entitled to suspend or cancel the Offering, in case such circumstances would have disadvantageous impact on the results of the Offering. In light of the above, there is a risk that the investors may not be able to effectively subscribe for the Offer Shares. Furthermore, in such case, payments made by investors during the Offering, may be returned without any compensation or interest. The Shares may be delisted from the Tallinn Stock Exchange or the trading in Shares on the Tallinn Stock Exchange may be suspended If the Company will fail to comply with certain requirements or fulfil certain obligations arising from the laws of Estonia or the Rules of the Tallinn Stock Exchange, the Tallinn Stock Exchange may delist the Shares or suspend trading in Shares. Further, the Company may apply for the delisting from the Tallinn Stock Exchange or for the suspension of trading therein. There is no guarantee that the Shares will never be delisted from the Tallinn Stock Exchange or trading therein will never be suspended. Delisting of the Shares could decrease the liquidity of the Shares and affect the ability to sell the Shares at a satisfactory price by the Investors. Although it is the Company's intention to make all endeavours in order to comply with all applicable regulations to avoid suspension of trading in Shares on the Tallinn Stock Exchange, future suspensions cannot be fully excluded. The Share price may be adversely affected by any suspension of trading in the Shares in the Tallinn Stock Exchange.

The Company may not pay dividends

There is no assurance that the Company will pay dividends on the Shares, nor is there any assurance as to the amount of any dividend it might pay. The payment and the amount of any dividend will be subject to the discretion of the General Meeting of Shareholders of the Company and will depend on available cash balances, anticipated cash needs, results of operations and financial condition of the Group and any financing agreement restrictions binding the Company as well as other relevant factors.

Inability to exercise pre-emptive rights

Pursuant to the Estonian Commercial Code, shareholders of a company have generally the preferential right to subscribe for new shares in proportion to their existing shareholding. However, such preferential right can be waived by a resolution of the General Meeting of Shareholders by a majority of 3/4 of the votes represented at such General Meeting of Shareholders. As a result of an issuance of additional shares with exclusion of preferential right to subscribe for new Shares, the shareholding and voting rights in the Company and the earnings per Share may be diluted.

In addition, if the above-referred pre-emptive rights are not waived, United States holders of Shares may not be able to exercise statutory pre-emption rights in the future unless a registration statement under Regulation S ("Regulation S") under the United States Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the "Securities Act") is effective with respect to those rights, or an exemption from the registration requirement thereunder is available. The Company is unlikely to file any such registration statement in the future, and no assurance can be given that an exemption from the registration requirements of the Securities Act would be available to enable such United States holders to exercise such statutory pre-emption rights or, if available, that the Company will utilize any such exemption. Furthermore, if United States shareholders are not able to exercise statutory pre-emption rights, they may face dilution as a result. Similar risk may also relate to investors from certain other jurisdiction, where requirements similar to those of the United States referred to above are in force.

Holding of Shares in a nominee account

Shares may be held in a nominee account. Pursuant to the Estonian law, any Shares held in a nominee account (including Shares that are held via custodians of the Latvian Central Depository and the Lithuanian Central Depository, which are held in the ECRS in the nominee accounts of the Latvian Central Depository and the Lithuanian Central Depository) shall be considered as the Shares legally owned by the owner of the nominee account. This could result for the investors holding the Shares in a nominee account in deprivation of certain rights or privileges as compared with the investors, who hold Shares in their own securities' account. This is in particular the case when changes are being made to the share capital of the Company or the Shares (e.g. while conducting reverse split of Shares or providing pre-emptive right to the shareholders while issuing new Shares), where the Company will treat all Shares held in a nominee account as held by one investor. Notwithstanding the above, the voting rights and rights to dividend and to other distributions attached to the Shares held in nominee accounts and other securities' accounts are the same.

Limited analyst cover

The trading market for the Shares will depend on the research and reports that industry or securities analysts may publish about the Group or its business. The Group has no control over these analysts. If one or more of the analysts who cover the Group downgrade their ratings of the Shares, the price of the Shares may decline. If one or more of these analysts cease coverage of the Group or fail to publish regular reports on it, the Company could lose visibility in the financial markets, which in turn could cause the price of the Shares or trading volume to decline.

Restrictions on transfers of Offer Shares and no public market in the United States for resales of the Shares

The Offer Shares have not been registered in the United States under the Regulation S or under any other applicable securities laws and are subject to restrictions on transfer contained in such laws. The Company does not intend to (i) list the Shares on an established securities exchange in the United States, (ii) have the Shares quoted on an automated inter-dealer quotation system in the United States or otherwise create a public market in the United States for re-sales of the Shares. The Shares constitute "restricted securities" as defined in Rule 144(a)(3) under the Regulation S and, accordingly, are not freely tradable in the United States. There are additional restrictions on the resale of Offer Shares (i) by persons who are located in the United States and/or (ii) to any person who is located in the United States. Similar risk may also relate to persons from certain other jurisdiction, where requirements similar to those of the United States referred to above are in force.

Turmoil in emerging markets could cause the value of the Shares to suffer

Financial or other turmoil in emerging markets has in the recent past adversely affected market prices in the world's securities markets for companies operating in the affected developing economies. There can be no assurance that renewed volatility stemming from future financial turmoil, or other factors, such as political, that may arise in other emerging markets or otherwise, will not adversely affect the value of the Shares even if the Estonian economy remains relatively stable.

Tax treatment for investors in an Estonian company may vary depending on tax residence of the investors

The Company is a company established and existing under the laws of Estonia and as such the Estonian tax regime applies to distribution of profit and other payments from the Company to its shareholders. The taxation of incomes from such payments as well as other incomes, from the disposal of shares, may vary depending on tax residence of particular investors as well as on provision of double tax treaties with Estonia in force. Provisions applying to particular investors may be unfavourable or may change adversely.

There can be no assurance that the Company will not be considered a passive foreign investment company (the "PFIC") for any taxable year. If the Company were treated as a PFIC for any taxable year during which a United States investor held shares, certain adverse United States federal income tax consequences could apply to such investor.

Each investor may be subject to taxation outside Estonia and should therefore consult with its own tax adviser. There can be no assurance that any activities, which the Group may conduct at any time in the future, would result in the investor becoming subject to any further taxes.

The Estonian legal persons do not pay corporate income tax on capital gains received from the sale or exchange of Shares until distribution. As a general rule, income tax is not charged on gains realized also by non-residents (whether legal persons or individuals). However, Estonian income tax is charged on the capital gain realized from the sale or exchange of Shares of a "real estate company" if the non-resident's holding exceeds 10%. A "real estate company" for these purposes is a company, contractual investment fund or other pool of assets of whose property, at the time of the transfer or during a period within 2 years before transfer, more than 50% was directly or indirectly made up of immovable properties or structures as movables located in Estonia. Therefore, should the Company be considered as a "real estate company", that would bring along the requirement to pay Estonian income tax on the capital gain realized from the sale or exchange of Shares by a non-resident, whose holding

		exceeded 10% of the share capital of the Company prior to such sale or exchange. Limitations on enforcing judgments against the Company The Company is incorporated in Estonia. The judgments of the courts of the member states of the European Union (except for Denmark) must be recognized and enforced in Estonia either under Council Regulation (EC) No 44/2001 or Regulation (EC) No 805/2004 of the European Parliament and of the Council without any special procedure being required. Pursuant to Article 620(1) of the Estonian Code of Civil Procedure, judgments of the courts of foreign states other than the member states of the European Union must be recognized in Estonia, subject to certain exceptions, such as judgements contrary to Estonian order public or earlier judgement involving the same cause of action and between the same parties, judgements where the defendant was not able to reasonably defend its rights and judgements given by a non-authorized court. In such exceptional situations the judgements of the courts of foreign states other than the member states of the European Union are not enforceable in Estonia without re-litigation of the subject matter of such judgements on its merit.

Section E – Offer

Element	Title	Disclosure
E.1	Total net proceeds. Estimate of total expenses of the Offering (including estimated expenses charged to the investor)	The aggregate net proceeds to the Company are estimated to amount to approximately EUR 69.2 million, after deducting the fees and expenses of the Offering, assuming that all offered Offer Shares will be subscribed for and issued, based on the mid-point of the Offer Price Range, save for any proceeds deriving under issuance of any Over-Allotment Shares (as defined in Section E.3 below). The estimated total expenses of the Company relating to the Offering amount to EUR 3.9 million.
E.2a	Reasons for the Offering / Use of proceeds / Estimated net amount of proceeds	The purpose of the Offering is to obtain additional equity financing necessary for the Group's real estate development activities. Shopping Centre in Tallinn; and (c) Tallinas St. Residential Complex in Riga. In the Management Board's view the exact allocation of the funds to the development projects cannot be determined at the date of this Prospectus. Possible multiple Subscription Undertakings submitted by an investor shall be merged for the purposes of allocation.

An investor must ensure that the data in the Subscription Undertaking is correct, complete and readable. An uncompleted, incorrect or unclear Subscription Undertaking may be rejected. An investor may submit the Subscription Undertaking either personally or through a representative whom the investor has authorized (in the form required by law) to submit the Subscription Undertaking and make the relevant payments.

A Subscription Undertaking shall be considered submitted and becomes effective at the moment when the transaction instruction of respective investor has been delivered to the ECRS on the basis of the respective order received from the investor's custodian or relevant subscription place.

By submitting a Subscription Undertaking every investor:

- confirms that he/she/it has read the Prospectus in English and the Prospectus summary translated into English/Estonian/Lithuania/Latvian, including without limitation the "Risk Factors" section and the description of rights and obligations resulting from the ownership title to the Shares contained therein, and accepts the terms and conditions of the Offering set out under this Section and elsewhere in this Prospectus and agrees with the Company that such terms will be applicable to the investor's acquisition of any Offer Shares;

The Company will decide on the allocation of the Offer Shares after the determination of the Offer Price after the Offer Period, on or about 10 September 2012. The sizes of the Institutional Offering tranche and the Retail Offering tranche have not been pre-determined. The total amount of Offer Shares to be allocated as part of the Institutional Offering and the Retail Offering will be determined by the Company, in consultation with the Advisor and the Global Coordinator, in the allocation process after the end of the Offer Period based on the demand for the Offer Shares by the different investor groups. The Company, in consultation with the Advisor and Global Coordinator, will determine the exact allocation of the Offer Shares to the qualified investors on discretionary basis. The Company, in consultation with the Advisor and Global Coordinator, will determine allocation percentages applied to the Retail Offering as follows:

- the Offer Shares shall be allocated to investors using stepped allocation methodology. Under the stepped allocation methodology, the Company together with the Advisor, the Global Coordinator and the Book-runner will determine, after the Offer Period, one or more allocation levels (in number of Offer Shares) and the allocation percentages applied to each level;
- the transaction amount in each Subscription Undertaking will be divided into different parts, e.g. part being below the first level (x% of such part will be accepted), part being between the first and second level (y% of such part will be accepted), part exceeding the second level (z% of such part will be accepted) etc. The main criteria for the determination of the levels and allocation percentages are: (a) the total demand for the Offer Shares in the Retail Offering; (b) the size of Subscription Undertakings in the Retail Offering and (c) the number of investors having submitted Subscription Undertakings in the Retail Offering.

Except that the employees of the Group in Estonia, in Latvia and in Lithuania are entitled a preferential allocation of up to 1,850,000 Offer Shares (the "Preferential Allocation"), no tranche has been predetermined to investors in Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. For the avoidance of doubt, such Preferential Allocation does not constitute public offering of securities in any country other than Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania and no member of a managing body or employee of the Group is offered the Offer Shares with the right to participate in the Preferential Allocation, unless such person is a natural person in Estonia, in Latvia or in Lithuania. In the course of Preferential Allocation, up to 1,850,000 Offer Shares will be allocated to the Preferred Employees who participate in the Retail Offering.

PART II. RISK FACTORS

Subscription for and investment in the Offer Shares involves a high degree of risk. Prospective investors in the Offer Shares should consider carefully, among other things, the risks set forth below and the other information contained in this Prospectus prior to making a decision to subscribe for and invest in the Offer Shares. Any of the risks highlighted below could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, financial condition and result of operations, in which case the trading price of the Shares could decline, resulting in the loss of all or part of their investment in the Offer Shares. A potential investor who is in any doubt about the action it should take should consult a professional adviser who specialises in advising on the acquisition of shares and other securities.

Prospective investors should note that the risk factors described below are not intended to be exhaustive and are not intended to be presented in any assumed order of priority. Additional risks and uncertainties not currently known to the Group or that the Group currently considers immaterial may also have the effect set forth above.

1. RISKS RELATING TO THE GROUP'S BUSINESS

The Group is exposed to various risks due to long duration of real estate development projects

The core business of the Group is real estate development. The process of real estate development from the identification of the potential project to the disposal of the developed property usually lasts several years. Accordingly, the Group's acquisition and development activities are subject to significant risks of non-completion and loss due to:

- changing market conditions, which may result in diminished opportunities for acquiring desired properties, higher than expected development costs, lower than expected rental rates and lower than expected disposal prices;
- competition from other market participants, which may diminish the Group's opportunities for acquiring desired properties on favourable terms or at all;
- the Group's inability to acquire land at commercially acceptable terms or obtain detailed planning, including construction rights to the acquired land;
- budget overruns and completion delays;
- the Group's potential inability to obtain financing on favourable terms or at all for individual projects or in the context of multiple projects being developed at the same time;
- failure to meet the covenants in financing agreements, which may result in the lenders accelerating the repayments of loans under cross-default provisions;
- defects in the legal title to land acquired by the Group, or defects in approvals or other authorisations relating to land held by the Group;
- defects in acquired or developed properties, including latent defects in construction work that may not reveal themselves until many years after the Group has put a property in service and potential environmental damages;
- potential significant amendments to the existing governmental rules and regulations or fiscal or monetary policies or introducing of a new governmental rules and regulations or fiscal or monetary policies applicable to the Group's existing and future operations; and
- potential liabilities relating to the acquired land (incl. for example obligation to make certain investments and potential environmental damages), properties or entities owning properties for which the Group may have limited or no recourse.

Although many of these risks are beyond the control of the Group, any negative change in one or more of the factors listed above could adversely affect the business, results of operations and financial condition of the Group.

Ability to acquire appropriate real estate on commercially acceptable terms

The Group owns significant amount of properties that could be developed by it. Please read Section 6 (Projects and Properties) of Part XI (Business). However, should the Group need to acquire additional real estate for the development, it needs to identify and secure such real estate on a timely basis and/or for commercially acceptable terms. There can be no assurance that the Group will successfully identify, lease and/or purchase suitable properties on acceptable terms, and failure to do so could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations and financial condition.

Ability to obtain construction rights, construction and environmental permits and other approvals

The Group has acquired land for which no detailed planning has been prepared or adopted or for which the existing detailed planning does not provide construction rights suitable for contemplated real estate development. The Group may also acquire land on such conditions in the future.

In order to develop real estate, detailed planning must have been adopted for respective land unit. Detailed planning normally details the division of land units, determines the construction rights attaching to each unit, delineates the area that can be occupied by buildings and determines the areas reserved for streets and other infrastructure. The detailed planning approval process by local municipalities is an administrative process and is subject to strict statutory requirements. The approval process of the detailed planning has several stages. The draft detailed planning is subject to several analyses and surveys, and is made public and subject to a public hearing. The process may last several years. Depending on the results of the process, the intended use of the land, the maximum number of buildings on the land, the maximum height of the buildings or other details of the plan could be restricted by the authorities. When the detailed planning has been approved or the lease agreement signed, the Group still needs to apply for a building permit from the municipal authorities before construction can commence. The Group does not have necessary confirmed detailed planning to start developing Kalaranna Residential Complex and Klīversala Residential Complex. The process for obtaining building permits is designed to ensure that the proposed building meets the requirements of the detailed planning or a lease agreement, as well as statutory and municipal building regulations and that the design of the building is acceptable to the authorities. The Group may also need to acquire certain other permits and authorisations in order to start constructing building and other structures on the land units. In addition, the Group may need permits for demolition of the existing constructions located on the acquired land units. If the demolition is not permitted or its end materials (e.g. containing hazardous substances) need specific handling, it will require additional monetary resources from the Group. Significant costs relate to the approval process of the detailed planning, obtaining building permit and other necessary approvals and permits, including any amendments to the indicated documents (if needed, while executing a relevant project). The Group must bear such costs irrespective of the outcome of respective proceedings.

Therefore, the Group may experience difficulties or delays in obtaining detailed planning and building approvals from the various governmental or municipal authorities required to undertake the planned development and construction. Should the Group fail to obtain approvals and permits on reasonable terms, it may have to give up the project and sell the land at a sales price which may be lower than the purchase price. Any material delays in the process may result in additional costs or even abandoning of the project following changes in the real estate market. No assurance can be given that the Group will be able to obtain the planning approvals and building permits and other necessary permits and authorisations and start construction as planned, which could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations and financial condition.

Changes in intended use of land

Municipalities may change the intended use of the land that the Group has acquired or is considering to acquire. That may have an adverse effect on the business and the financial position of the Group. In case the land the Group has acquired is needed for public purposes, e.g. for road construction, the state or the municipality is to acquire the land in question from the Group for compensation that may not be lower than the usual value of the land. However, such compensation may not be sufficient to cover all the damage caused to the Group.

Dependency on small number of large projects

A relatively small number of large projects in or near the capital cities of the Baltic States form substantially all of the Group's development business. Concentration of large projects may increase the volatility of the Group's results and increase its exposure to risks attaching to individual projects. Larger projects may also lead to proportionally larger cost overruns, which may negatively affect the Group's operating margins. Geographic focus on three capital cities of the Baltic States makes the Group vulnerable in case of a downturn in the property market in any of those cities.

Management Board believes that relatively few major projects in a limited number of geographic locations will continue representing a major part of the Group's business in the foreseeable future. If the Group fails to achieve the expected margins or suffers losses on one or more of these large projects or if the property markets significantly deteriorate in Tallinn, Riga or Vilnius, this could have a material adverse effect on the Group's results of operations or financial condition.

Two out of three near term developments, i.e. Peterburi Rd. Shopping Centre and Tondi Quarter are located in Tallinn, Estonia, and represent approximately 42% of the appraised real estate portfolio of the Group. Estonian macroeconomic indicators have historically been comparatively more stable than those in Latvia and Lithuania. However, that does not guarantee such conditions in the future.

Inaccuracy of the forecasts

The Group's profitability depends on its ability to forecast market prices, rents, property related costs, anticipated working capital needs, availability of financing, property values etc. In connection with the Group's acquisition of property for its development business, the Group bases the purchase prices it agrees for the property in part on projections of development costs, property values at the time of sale, future market rents, availability of financing and anticipated working capital etc. If the Group's projections are inaccurate, it could experience lower profits, which could have a material adverse effect on its results of operations and financial condition.

Potential inaccuracy of the appraised investment value of the Group's real estate portfolio

In total 11 projects, buildings and sites in the Group's portfolio have been valued in the Appraisal Report with investment value of EUR 180.0 million (10 projects located in Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania were valued in April 2012 at EUR 172.5 million and one project in Germany was valued in June 2012 at EUR 7.5 million). Please read the Appraisal Report, which is incorporated hereto by reference (please see Part XVIII (Information Incorporated by Reference)). The Appraisal Report was prepared separately from the preparation of the Financial Statements. In producing the Appraisal Report, Newsec used certain assumptions, techniques and methodologies specified in the Appraisal Report, which differ from the assumptions used by the Group when preparing its Financial Statements. Therefore, the values indicated in the Appraisal Report differ from the values for the same properties used in the Financial Statements.

In addition, the assumptions used by Newsec in the Appraisal Report may not reflect the true position of the Group's portfolio. The valuation of property is inherently subjective due to the individual nature of each property and is based on a number of unconfirmed assumptions. The real estate markets of the Baltic States have a limited liquidity and amount of publicly available data and research as compared to more mature real estate markets. Relevant property values may have changed since the dates on which the data were applicable. As a result, there can be no assurance that a valuation at a more recent date would not produce a different value for the appraised portfolio. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Company confirms that (a) to the best of Company's knowledge and belief, the information, assumptions and documentation, which were given to Newsec by the Company, was correct and complete and (b) there have been no materials changes to the properties valued pursuant to the Appraisal Report as from the date of their valuation.

Market values of properties in the countries in which the Group invests may decline in the future. Furthermore, the appraised value of any or all of the properties covered by the Appraisal Report may decline significantly in the future for other reasons, such as those discussed in this Part II (Risk Factors) and elsewhere in this Prospectus, among others. The appraised value of the property cannot, therefore, be construed as either an estimate or an indication of the prices, which could be obtained should the Group seek to sell these assets in the open market or as either an estimate or an indication of any price at which the Company's shares may trade.

Lack of insurance cover and specific reserves for indemnifying damages

The properties belonging to the Group could suffer physical damage caused by natural disasters, fire or other causes, resulting in losses which may not be fully compensated by insurance. The Group has obtained insurance coverage for its properties, which it believes to be in line with standard industry practice. The insurance covers, for example, losses and liability resulting from fire, break-in, diffusion, robbery, vandalism, pipe leakages, lightning, explosion, implementation of the extinguishing system storm, etc. However, the Group Companies usually do not obtain property insurance for immovable properties, composed only of land plots and/or amortized buildings which are intended to be demolished (for example, land plots designated for development of Klīversala Residential Complex). In addition, liability insurance aimed to cover damage caused to third parties is also included in some of the Group subsidiaries' insurance policies. A number of the Group subsidiaries have also valid business interruption insurance. However, insurance coverage is subject to limits and limitations and some risks (e.g. certain natural disasters and terrorist acts) are not covered by insurance for various reasons (e.g. because such risks are uninsurable or the cost of insurance is, according to Management Board's belief, prohibitively high when compared to risk). Even if the insurance is adequate to cover Group's direct losses, the Group could be adversely affected by loss of earnings caused by or relating to its properties. The occurrence of any of the above referred harmful effects or insufficient insurance coverage may have a material adverse effect on the business, results of operations and financial conditions of the Group. This inter alia means that the Group could:

- lose capital invested in the affected property as well as anticipated future lease income or sale proceeds from that property;
- be held liable to repair damage caused by the event; and
- remain liable for any debt or other financial obligation related to that property.

The Group does not also maintain separate funds nor does it set aside reserves for the above-referred types of events.

Dependence on building contractors

The Group has acquired and will acquire real estate upon which it develops and constructs properties, or which have existing buildings that require renovation. The Group relies on third party building contractors. If the Group cannot enter into design and construction arrangements with third party building contractors at acceptable terms or cannot agree on reasonable amendments to the suspended construction and design agreements or such arrangements are not honoured fully as a result of the financial position of the building contractor or building contractor fails or has failed to fulfil its obligations under mandatory requirements of law, including requirements which are pre-condition for validity of construction permit (such as – continuous constructor's liability insurance policy during all term of validity of construction permit) or any other reason whatsoever, the Group will incur additional costs which will have an adverse effect on its business, results of operations and financial condition.

The contractor's or subcontractor's failure to perform may result in legal action by the Group to rescind the construction agreement or to enforce the contractor's obligations, which may result in a delay of the project. Furthermore, any delay in the completion of construction may result in an additional cost, which the Group may not be able to pass on to the purchaser of the property.

Any delays in the completion of construction operations and consequently, of development projects, and increases in the cost of construction may have a material adverse effect on the results of operations and financial condition of the Group.

Furthermore, pursuant to Lithuanian law, in case of a bankruptcy or liquidation of the contractor, the developer of the real estate project would be held liable against purchasers of the real estate for any defects that emerge during guarantee period in case of default of the contractor. Guarantee period for the buildings under the applicable Lithuanian laws is 5 years for open works (e.g. visible works, such as roof, windows, doors, facade, walls) and 10 years for hidden works (i.e. works, which require specific assessment, such as engineering networks, insulation, etc.) and a certain period of time (usually between 1 and 5 years) specified by the producer for any installed items (heating, electricity systems, etc.). Thus, in case of bankruptcy or liquidation of any Lithuanian building constructors of the Group Companies, they may be held liable as indicated above, which may have a material adverse effect on the results of operations and financial condition of the Group. Currently, only the main contractor of the first stage of the real estate project at Aguonu str., Vilnius, Lithuania, which has been implemented by PK Invest UAB, is bankrupt and was liquidated. The contractor has performed almost all main construction works of the mentioned real estate project.

Indebtedness and availability of external financing

The Group operates in capital intense industry and needs substantial working capital to support acquisition and development of properties. Therefore, if internally generated cash flow or cash flow received from sales of developed real estate is different than anticipated or money available from either local or global lenders is under liquidity pressures, it could have a material adverse effect on the business, results of operations and financial conditions of the Group.

In order to develop intended properties, the Group may need to raise debt financing from external sources. The projects may need to be postponed if there is limited funding available on commercially attractive terms. This could have a material adverse effect on the business, results of operations and financial condition of the Group.

The Management Board believes that the current leverage ratio of the Group is lower than what is typical for a real estate development company in the Baltic States. However, the Group has substantial indebtedness. As at 30 June 2012, the Group had EUR 20,673 thousand of consolidated long-term borrowings and EUR 6,898 thousand of consolidated short-term borrowings. Among other things, the Group's indebtedness could potentially:

- limit its ability to obtain additional financing;
- limit its flexibility in planning for, or reacting to, changes in the markets in which it competes;
- place it at a competitive disadvantage relative to its competitors with less indebtedness;
- lead to a partial or complete loss of control over its key subsidiaries or properties;
- render it more vulnerable to general adverse economic and industry conditions; or
- require it to dedicate all or a substantial part of its cash flow to service its debt.

The Group's ability to make payments on its indebtedness depends upon its ability to maintain its operating performance at a certain level, which is subject to general economic and market conditions and to financial, business and other factors, many of which the Group cannot control. If the Group's cash flow from operating activities becomes insufficient, the Group may take certain action, including delaying or reducing capital or other expenditures, restructuring or refinancing its indebtedness, selling its investment properties or other assets or seeking additional capital. The Group may be unable to take any of such action at favourable terms or in a timely manner. Furthermore, such action may not be sufficient to allow the Group to service its debt obligations in full. Failure by the Group or the Company to service its debt may have a material adverse effect on its business, results of operations and financial condition.

Risks relating to external financing

The Group has raised external debt financing by borrowing from credit institutions pursuant to several financing agreements and by issue of convertible bonds. The financing agreements entered into by the Group include several negative and positive covenants and requirements to obtain the lender's consent for, among other things, further financing, providing security or creating charges over its assets, concluding lease, rental or other agreements with regard to encumbered assets granting rights to third persons, changes in the Group's corporate structure, consolidating or merging with another entity, changes in its share capital, changes in its main field of activity or in competence of its Management Board, making investments to other enterprises or transfer of business or part thereof. Some financing agreements of the Group Companies also set forth the obligation of the relevant Group Company to retain certain financial levels and ratios throughout the term of such agreements.

The financing agreements of the Group prescribe that if any of the positive or negative covenants are breached or if the consent of the lender is not obtained prior to a transaction as required, such violation constitutes a material breach and the lender may accelerate loan payments as well as use other remedies set out in the agreement or the law (for example, contractual penalty and/or compensation for damage).

The financing agreements concluded by the Group Companies contain customary events of default, including cross-default provisions. These cross-default clauses expose the Group to default risks based on contract performance under other agreements with the lender or with other creditors. In addition, under the financing agreements, it is an event of default if the borrower incurs significant additional financial obligations or if there is a change of control in the borrower without the prior consent of the lender.

In addition, the Group's financing agreements require the Group Companies to pledge their immovable property. Most of the Group's immovable property has been encumbered with mortgages for the benefit of relevant lenders. Some mortgages secure also all existing and potential claims of the lender against other Group Companies. Failure to comply with financing agreements could result in the Group losing its rights or ownership interest in the pledged assets or the Group being forced to sell assets for lower than market value and debt residual, thus still maintaining partial liabilities to the financiers for particular property. Also the shares and assets of some Group Companies have been encumbered with commercial pledge for the benefit of the financiers.

Furthermore, certain Group Companies (including the Company) have issued guarantee letters whereby they have guaranteed the performance of the Group's obligations arising from the financing agreements. This allows the financial institution to demand performance under the financing agreement from the issuer of such guarantee (e.g. the Company), if the borrower fails to perform its duties under the financing agreement. As a result, the Group as a whole is exposed to risks related to failure by its subsidiary to perform its obligations arising from financing agreements. As at 30 June 2012 the total amount of the guarantees issued by the Group Companies (including the Company) was EUR 26,484 thousand. In addition, the Company has issued a guarantee to secure (jointly with Pro Kapital Eesti AS) possible claims against Täismaja AS arising from a loan contract. The guarantee letter is limited to maximum amount of potential claim. The guarantee is effective until 2 May 2017.

Moreover, certain loan agreements concluded by the Group Companies (e.g. PK Invest UAB) provide that all loans issued to the respective company by its shareholder and its related parties are subordinated to credit issued by the bank. According to the indicated agreements as well as according to the respective subordination agreements, certain Group Companies may not repay any part of the loan or interests to other Group Companies prior to repayment of the credit to which the intra-group loans have been subordinated. Consequently, these provisions limit the flow of funds among the Group Companies, which may have a material adverse effect on the financial condition of Group Companies or on the Group as a whole.

As at the date of this Prospectus financial institutions have not made any demands based on possible breaches of covenants. The Management Board believes that none of the Group Companies is breaching its obligations arising from the loan agreements. However, any failure to comply with financing agreements or any demand for early repayment made by the lender could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations and financial condition.

Dependency on cash flows from subsidiaries

The Company is a holding company, which conducts its business through its subsidiaries. The Company holds 100% interest in five main subsidiaries, which in return own 100% in 14 companies – seven in Latvia, one in Germany, two in Lithuania and four in Estonia, as well as 99% and 96% in two additional subsidiaries in Estonia and 70% of additional subsidiary in Latvia. Please also read Section 13 (Structure of the Group and Subsidiaries) of Part XI (Business). The Company itself does not own significant assets other than the investment into its subsidiaries. Therefore, in order to be able to pay dividends to its shareholders and meet its own obligations, the Company is dependent on the receipt of dividends from its subsidiaries.

Each of the Estonian, Latvian, Lithuanian and German laws set out capital maintenance and other relevant rules, which limit the Group Companies ability to pay dividends or make other distributions. According to Estonian law, a company may only pay dividends or make other distributions, if its current profits and retained earnings are sufficient for such distribution.

According to Latvian law, dividends may be declared only once per financial year by a decision of the annual General Meeting of the Shareholders on the division of profit based on the proposal of the Management Board on the distribution of profit. Dividends may not be determined, calculated and paid out, if the net value of the own funds of a company at the time of the end of the accounting year fall below, or as a result of this payment would fall below the total amount of the share capital of a company.

According to Lithuanian law, dividends may be declared by a decision of the General Meeting of Shareholders on the division of profit. Dividends may be paid for the financial year, in this case dividends shall be declared by a decision of the annual General Meeting of Shareholders based on the proposal of the Management Board on the distribution of profit. A decision to pay dividends for the financial year may not be adopted if the company has liabilities, which are overdue at the adoption of the decision regarding dividend payment, if the company suffers losses at the end of a respective accounting period, and if the owners' capital of the company is below or as a result of the dividend payment would fall below the total amount of the registered capital and reserves formed in the company. In addition, dividends may be paid for the period shorter than a financial year. In this case, the shareholders holding not less than 1/3 of all votes shall request payment of dividends and an interim financial statement shall be prepared. Decision to pay dividends for the period shorter than a financial year may not be adopted if the company has liabilities, which are overdue at the adoption of the decision regarding dividend payment or the company will be not able to fulfil its financial obligations for the current financial year, or if the company suffers losses at the end of a respective accounting period.

According to German law, German limited liability companies may pay dividends and make other distributions to shareholders only if the payments do not violate the capital maintenance rules. Pursuant to such capital maintenance rules, payments to shareholders may not be made to the extent that the funds are needed to maintain the company's registered share capital unless a domination or profit and loss pooling agreement within the meaning of Section 291 of the German Stock Companies Act (Aktiengesetz) has been concluded. Therefore, the Company's financial position is dependent on the subsidiaries' ability to pay dividends. Furthermore, the ability to pay dividends is also restricted by contractual covenants binding on the Group Companies.

Risk related to customers' and other counterparties' financial position

The Group is exposed to the credit risk. The Group is continuously monitoring the payment behaviour of its customers and other counterparties. Moreover, in addition to contractual monetary obligations, the counterparties may not be able to compensate the Group for the damages caused as a result of breaches of their non-monetary obligations. Such defaults by counterparties could inter alia result in the Group Companies defaulting under their other contracts and being obliged to pay compensation to their other counterparties without being respectively compensated by the counterparties that initially defaulted, which could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations and financial condition.

Risk related to lease agreements

The Group's lease agreements are divided into two categories: fixed-term lease agreements and lease agreements entered into for an unspecified term. The Group seeks to use both types of agreements, depending on the market situation and the properties in question.

Lease agreements entered into for an unspecified term involve nevertheless a risk that a large number of such agreements may be terminated within a short period of time. The Group aims at renewing the fixed term lease agreements flexibly in cooperation with its tenants. There are, however, no guarantees that the Group will be successful in this. In order to prevent tenants from terminating the lease agreements, the Group may also be forced to agree on the reduction of rent. The reduction of rent payable to the Group under a large number of lease agreements and/or concurrent termination of a large number of lease agreements could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations and financial condition.

Currently lease agreements account for EUR 886 thousand, which forms relatively minor part of the total Group's revenues. Portion of lease related income is expected to increase significantly after the completion of the Peterburi Rd. Shopping Centre, which at first is planned to be leased out and managed for stabilizing the rental cash flow, and thereafter sold once the conditions are favourable.

Contractual risks and legal proceedings

A dispute may arise between the Group and its contractual counterpart on the interpretation or the validity of a contract or fulfilling of contractual obligations, which can lead to arbitration or litigation with an unfavourable outcome for the Group. Among other things, the land plots owned or to be acquired or sold by the Group may have latent defects (e.g. pollution) which become apparent only after the land plot has been acquired or sold and this may lead to disputes between the Group and the contractual counterpart. Contractual claims and other demands may also have an adverse effect on the financial condition and results of operations of the Group.

The Group may from time to time be involved in a number of legal proceedings, which may also have an adverse effect on business, results of operations and financial conditions of the Group. Currently there are several on-going legal proceedings. The most significant of the on-going legal proceedings is the claims from Aprisco B.V. under a guarantee letter given by the Company. Aprisco B.V. presented two alternative claims against the Company to the court in the Netherlands: (i) claims for compensation of damages in the amount of EUR 2,300,000 or in the amount as ruled by the court; and (ii) EUR 904,106 plus fine for delay or EUR 524,000 plus fine for delay. The District Court in Rotterdam ruled on 4 July 2012 that the Company shall pay EUR 1,409,265.20 to Aprisco B.V. The Management Board of the Company plans to appeal the court judgement.

Please also read Section 12 (Legal Proceedings) of Part XI (Business).

The Group is exposed to environmental liability

The Group's activities are and will continue to be subject to laws and regulations relating to environmental protection. Such laws and regulations typically cover a wide range of matters, including, among other things, waste handling and protection of ambient air and use of water. Furthermore, such laws are subject to possible future changes (please also read the risk factors “Risks relating to doing business in the Baltic States” and “Increased cost of complying with government regulations”). Failure to comply with the laws, regulations, permits and contractual terms and conditions (including failure to adjust the Group’s activities to the amended legal requirements) could result in substantial costs and liabilities, which could adversely affect the Group’s business, its financial condition and results of operations.

The land units, which have been or will be acquired by the Group, may subsequently be found to be contaminated. Environmental laws and regulations often impose liability on the current property owner whether or not the owner knew of, or was responsible for, the presence of such contamination. In relation to this risk, please note that:

- when the Group has purchased land, it has not always required the seller to warrant that there is no contamination on the land. Therefore, upon the discovery of the contamination, the Group may not be entitled to claim for clean-up costs and damages from any third person;
- the Group has not carried out environmental investigations in respect of several of its land units. The historic background of some of such land units refers to possibility of contamination (e.g. (i) the territory of Tondi Quarter has been a part of Soviet army campus; (ii) the territory of the Ilmarine Quarter has been partly under former P. Wiegland machine factory; (iii) a slaughterhouse and meat industry has been located in the property of Peterburi Rd. Shopping Centre and (iv) property of Šaltinių Namai Residential Complex has been a part of the machinery factory); (v) ship repair factory used to be located in the property of Klīversala Residential Complex; (vi) industrial buildings hazardous waste containers were located in the property of Zvaigznes Centre; (vii) textile factory RITMS previously used to be located at the property of Tallinas St. Residential Complex in Riga and (viii) property of Kalaranna Residential Complex has historically been a fishing harbour and a market place);
- should the Group fail to detect or remedy contamination, this may adversely affect the Group’s ability to sell or lease property and expose the Group to claims from its customers or third parties for personal injury or property damage associated with exposure to contamination;
- upon sale of the property, the purchasers have required and are likely to require the Group to warrant that there is no contamination on the associated land. For example, when Kristiine Shopping Centre was sold, it was agreed that AS Tāismaja shall indemnify any costs of the buyer of Kristiine Shopping Centre resulting from the compliance with the prescription issued within three years from the closing by environmental authorities to clean-up ground water or soil contamination with respect to the Kristiine Shopping Centre land plots, including but not limited to any clean-up costs, administrative fines and other penalties, third party claims, all related legal fees and fees of other consultants (please also read “Sale of Kristiine Shopping Centre” in Section 9 (Material Contracts) of Part XI (Business)); and
- amongst others, the risk related to counterparties’ financial position as described above is also relevant in relation to environmental liability.

The cost of complying with environmental regulations or of decontamination of any land by the Group or the cost associated with a successful claim for damages could have a material adverse effect on the Group’s financial condition and results of operations.

Please also read Section 10 (Environmental Issues) of Part XI (Business).

The Group is dependent on key personnel

The Group’s performance is reliant upon the efforts, diligence, skill and network of business contacts of its senior management team. Well-connected local managers with knowledge of the relevant local market are essential for the Group’s property development business. Even though the Group has agreed with key personnel (except for Olga Rudzika, the Managing director of AS “Pro Kapital Latvia”, and Neringa Rasimavičienė, the General director of Pro Kapital Vilnius Real Estate UAB) regarding their non-competition obligation applicable for six months after the termination of their employment, the Group may not always be able to impose competition covenants or other contractual restrictions on a key manager and the Group has to give additional remuneration incentives in order to secure the loyalty and continued employment of such managers. Currently the Group does not have share-linked incentive system.

Should the Group lose one or more key managers and fail to find a replacement quickly enough, or should such key manager or managers join a competing business, this could adversely affect the business and results of operations of the Group.

Please also read Section 7 (Employees and Labour Relations) of Part XI (Business) and Part XII (Management).

The Group's reputation may be damaged

The Group's ability to attract purchasers of property, attract and retain tenants, raise the necessary financing for the development projects as well as retain personnel in its employment may suffer if the Group's reputation is damaged. Matters affecting the Group's reputation may include, among other things, the quality and safety of its premises and compliance with laws and regulations. Any damage to the Group's reputation due to, for example, including but not limited to the aforementioned matters, may have a material adverse effect on the business, results of operations and financial conditions of the Group.

Dependence on IT systems

The Group has developed and uses a variety of IT systems and web-based solutions for its operations, including internal accounting and management information systems, the handling of customer and tenant information, project designs and specifications, and general administrative functions. Failures or significant disruptions to the Group's IT systems could prevent it from conducting its operations efficiently. Furthermore, should the Group experience a significant security breakdown or other disruption to its IT systems, sensitive information could be compromised and its operations could be disrupted which in turn could harm its relationship with its customers and suppliers, or otherwise have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations and financial condition.

Potential tax liability

There is a significant number of intra-group transactions and contractual arrangements (such as lease, credit and service agreements between the Group Companies). The Group is therefore subject to a transfer pricing risk in relation to any transactions between related parties that are not conducted on an arm's length basis. This could involve an adjustment to the tax results for entities involved to take account of arm's length pricing, which could have an adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations and financial condition.

Transactions with related as well as unrelated parties may carry a risk of requalification, should the tax authority challenge the economic substance of the transactions, e.g. under the „substance-over-form“ rules. Considering the wide interpretation given to „substance-over-form“ rules by the Estonian, Latvian or Lithuanian tax authorities in various cases, requalification of transactions and corresponding adjustment of tax results, such as prohibition to deduct input VAT or additional income tax charge, may have an adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations and financial condition.

Liability for obligations transferred in the Division

The Division of the Company was carried out in 2011. According to Estonian law, companies participating in a division (e.g. the Company and AS Domina Vacanze Holding) shall be jointly and severally liable for the obligations of the company being divided which arise before entry of the division in the Estonian Commercial Register (i.e. 23 November 2011 in case of the Division of the Company). In relations between solidary debtors, only persons to whom obligations are assigned by the division plan are obligated persons. A company participating in a division to whom obligations are not designated by the division plan shall be liable for the obligations of the company being divided if such obligations become due within five years after entry of the division in the Estonian Commercial Register. The above means that the Company is jointly and severally liable for the obligations transferred to AS Domina Vacanze Holding to the extent such obligations become due and payable within five years as of the registration of the Division (i.e. until 23 November 2016). The maximum potential liability of the Company for the obligations transferred to AS Domina Vacanze Holding is EUR 8,957 thousand, of which EUR 6,844 thousand are obligations arising from the convertible bonds of the Company that were split in the course of the Division. However, should the Company perform any such obligation it will have a right of recourse against AS Domina Vacanze Holding. In addition, on 30 September 2011, owners of convertible bonds issued by the Company delivered to the Company a waiver, whereby they waived their claims against the Company arising from the convertible bonds issued by AS Domina Vacanze Holding as a result of the split of Company's convertible bonds that was carried out in relation to the Division. However, it cannot be excluded that after the disposal of the convertible bonds of

AS Domina Vacanze Holding, the Company may be required to satisfy claims of respective bondholders that they have against AS Domina Vacanze Holding arising from the convertible bonds. Please also read “Division of the Company” in Section 9 (Material Contracts) of Part XI (Business).

Real estate developer’s liability

Pursuant to Estonian, Latvian and Lithuanian law, the Group Companies may be held liable as real estate developers towards their customers for, among other things, legal or construction defects in the property sold to the customer. Such defects may include faults in construction as well as legal defects, such as undisclosed rights of third parties, restrictions associated with nature preservation or heritage protection, planning issues, exercise of statutory right of pre-emption by the state or the local government in case of conservation areas or protected buildings or a prohibition against transfers of rural land to persons not engaged in agriculture or forestry.

Estonian law allows claims connected to the deficiencies in buildings to be made against the seller of a land unit under general rules of statute of limitations for an extended period of 5 years (the general limitation period for contractual claims is 3 years). The law provides for the possibility of agreeing upon a shorter claims period in a sales contract. Latvian law allows making claims related to the deficiencies in buildings against the seller for 2 years as from conclusion of sales contract. Lithuanian law allows making claims related to the deficiencies in buildings against the contractor for the following periods: (i) 5 years for open works (e.g. visible works, such as roof, windows, doors, facade, walls), (ii) 10 years for hidden works (i.e. works, which require specific assessment, such as engineering networks, insulation, etc.) and (iii) a certain period of time (usually between 1 and 5 years) specified by the producer for any installed items (heating, electricity systems, etc.). However, in case of bankruptcy of Lithuanian contractors, such claims would be directed towards the real estate developer (please also read the risk factor “Dependence on building contractors”).

The Group seeks to cover its exposure for warranty claims mainly by requiring the main contractor of the project to obtain insurance cover against all construction risks for the whole duration of the project. Such insurance must be made for the benefit of the financier of respective project (the bank), respective Group Company and, if relevant, other Group Companies. However, this may not always be sufficient. The Group passes the warranty liability on to its contractor and subcontractors, but they may not have adequate financial resources to fully indemnify the Group. Losses may arise from risks not addressed in the Group’s indemnity agreements or insurance policies, or it may no longer be possible to obtain adequate insurance coverage against some risks on commercially reasonable terms. Failure to effectively cover the Group’s exposure to risks arising from engineering and construction liabilities could expose the Group to substantial costs and potentially lead to substantial losses. Additionally, liabilities relating to defects in design and construction may also adversely affect public perception about the operations of the Group and the perception of customers, suppliers and employees, leading to an adverse effect on the Group’s business, results of operations and financial condition.

With the Group choosing to be a developer rather than a construction company, it faces additional risks of reduced control and timing of the projects, which might be impacted by possible delays from subcontractors, or their non-performance. This could lead to an adverse effect on the Group’s business, results of operations and financial condition.

Financial assistance rules

The Group Companies have concluded several intra-group loan agreements. Please read “Intra-group loan agreements” in Section 9 (Material Contracts) of Part XI (Business). The applicable laws set forth limitations and restrictions on certain intra-group transactions, e.g. upstream loans. For example Estonian law permits to provide an upstream loan to a parent company only if the provision thereof is not detrimental to the financial standing of the lending subsidiary and does not impair the interests of its creditors. A violation of such limitations and restrictions could result in the invalidity of respective loan agreement, which would mean that the lending subsidiary may immediately demand repayment of the amounts lent. This could adversely affect the business, results of operations and financial conditions of the Group.

Latvian law prohibits a parent company as a dominant undertaking to use its influence in order to induce a subsidiary as a dependent company concluding transactions disadvantageous to it without compensating incurred losses during the financial year or granting a subsidiary rights of claim against a parent company. A subsidiary shall prepare a dependency report for each financial year indicating all the transactions of a subsidiary with a parent company or other Group companies, as well as the transactions concluded by a subsidiary in the interests of such companies or as a result of an inducement, indicating in particular the transactions, which are completely or partially disadvantageous or which involve a special risk for a dependent company or, which differ substantially from the entrepreneurial activities normally carried out. A parent company and its management, who have induced a subsidiary to enter into a transaction disadvantageous to it, shall be jointly liable for the incurred losses. The management of a subsidiary shall be jointly liable along with a parent company and its management for failure to indicate a disadvantageous transaction in a dependency report or failure to indicate in such report that losses have been caused to a subsidiary and that compensation for such has not in fact been made.

In Lithuania certain restrictions apply to intra-group loans, i.e. interest in respect of such loans must be equivalent to an arm's length price and the loan amount may not exceed the company's equity more than at a ratio 4:1. If the loan exceeds the indicated ratio, interest charged on the part of the loan exceeding the relevant ratio may not be recorded as allowable deductions.

German law allows upstream loans by a German limited liability company to shareholders if the upstream loans do not violate the capital maintenance rules. Pursuant to such capital maintenance rules, upstream loans may not be granted to the extent that the funds are needed to maintain the company's registered share capital unless a domination or profit and loss pooling agreement within the meaning of Section 291 of the German Stock Companies Act (Aktiengesetz) has been concluded or the company's claim for repayment of the loan is of full value and has been granted at arms' length terms. The shareholder of a German limited liability company also incurs a liability if he induces the company to take actions that may lead to the insolvency of the company.

2. RISKS RELATING TO THE GROUP'S INDUSTRY

Macroeconomic environment

Real estate development tends to follow the general developments in the macroeconomic environment. Interest rates, unemployment, inflation, private consumption, capital expenditure and other macroeconomic indicators have significant influence on real estate developments and hence the operations and the potential profitability of the Group.

Favourable developments in the macroeconomic environment increase demand for residential properties, allow the real estate companies to increase rent rates of retail properties and prices for accommodation in hotels. Adverse developments increase pressure on real estate prices, rent rates and yields. Hence the Group's results are dependent on general macroeconomic environment and adverse developments in the environment might lead to reconsideration of some of the Group's development plans, negative pressure on prices and rents of the Group's properties or other changes in relation to the Group's properties that might have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations, financial condition and profitability.

Cyclicality of the real estate sector

Real estate development is a cyclical sector. The number of real estate related transactions fluctuates significantly depending on the stage of the real estate cycle. Cyclicity in the Baltic countries has been relatively high lately as a fast growth in prices fuelled by availability of cheap financing was followed by a steep decline as a result of financial crisis.

In the future the Baltic real estate market might regain the lost momentum, again inflating the price levels, which might be followed by overheating of the market and downward pressure on the prices thus starting the next real estate cycle.

Illiquidity of real estate

Most of the investments that the Group has made in its real estate portfolio are relatively illiquid and sales of those properties might be time consuming. In case the Group's liquidity is adversely affected the Group might not be in position to liquidate its investments promptly. Recent relatively low activity in the Baltic real estate market further increases the illiquidity related risks.

Ownership of premium properties in the Baltic capitals partially mitigates this risk. However, relative illiquidity of real estate properties might have a material adverse effect on Group's business, results of operations, financial condition and profitability.

Competition

The Group is operating in a competitive environment with high number of other companies engaged in the real estate development in the Baltic States. Even though market downturn in 2008-2010 has somewhat decreased the competitive pressure, there are still some relatively well capitalized competitors who can pursue development projects (i.e. to commence constructing and to proceed with the announced projects, as well as to implement new projects) that might compete with the Group's developments.

Recent increase in real estate market activity and improved availability of financing has had a positive effect on some of the Group's competitors who have started the development of some of the projects in their portfolios. Recent pick-up in market activity has also increased the interest of some of the international investors in the Baltic real estate increasing the risk that some of the competitive projects will obtain the necessary funding.

Sales of seized relatively recently developed properties by some of the commercial banks in the Baltic States might also compete with the Group's developments.

Profitability of Group's future developments and new acquisitions can be significantly impacted by increase of renovation and construction costs if competitors will pursue their developments. Additionally, if competitors will commence intended and announced projects the competition for tenants and marketing related costs will also increase.

All of the above aspects related to the competitive landscape of the Group's industry might have an adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations, financial condition and profitability.

Please also read "Competition" under Section 2 (Factors Affecting Results of Operations) of Part IX (Operating and Financial Review and Prospects) and Section 5 (Operations) of Part XI (Business).

Changes in customer preferences

Real estate sub-markets where the Group is operating in (residential housing market, retail property market, hotel market) are subject to changing customer trends, demands and preferences. In particular, customer trends, demands and preferences may vary depending on economic factors, as well as customer preferences for the style of developments. The Group reassesses different risks, including potential changes in customer preferences, at different phases of a project. Should the Group find changes in customer preferences or other potential threats to the profitability of a project, the Group tries to adjust the project outline to meet the changed market expectations. However, there can be no assurance that the Group will be able to recognise such changes and adapt its existing developments or planned developments in timely fashion to suit such changes in customer preferences. If customer preferences in the markets where the Group operates cease to favour the Group's developments, this could have an adverse effect on the business, results of operations and financial condition of the Group.

The Group is exposed to the credit risks of its customers and suppliers

The Group's financial performance and position are dependent, to a certain extent, on the creditworthiness of its customers and suppliers. If there are any unforeseen circumstances affecting the Group's customers' and/or suppliers' ability or willingness to pay, the Group may experience payment delays or non-payment. Each of these factors may have a material adverse impact on the Group's operations, prospects and financial results.

3. POLITICAL, ECONOMIC AND LEGAL RISKS

Risks relating to doing business in the Baltic States

Estonian, Latvian and Lithuanian markets as emerging markets are subject to greater risks than more mature markets, including legal, economic and political risks. Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania have experienced significant political, legal and economic changes and liberalization during the last two decades of transition from the planned economy to a market economy.

For the purposes of its accession to the European Union, Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania implemented significant social and economic changes, as well as reforms of their legal and regulatory framework. As a result, the volume of Estonian, Latvian and Lithuanian legislation and other regulations has increased and is expected to increase further pursuant to the obligation to apply European Community law.

The Estonian, Latvian and Lithuanian civil codes and corporate, competition, securities, environmental and other laws have been substantially revised during the last two decades as part of Estonia's, Latvia's and Lithuania's transition to a market economy and to meet EU requirements and standards. The new legislation remains in part largely untested in courts and no clear administrative or judicial practice has evolved.

The rights of shareholders of Estonian companies may differ from the rights of the shareholders of companies organised in other jurisdictions

The Company is organized under the laws of Estonia and consequently the rights of the Company's shareholders are governed by the laws of Estonia and by the Company's Articles of Association. Accordingly, the Company's corporate structure as well as the rights and obligations of its shareholders may be different from the rights and obligations of the shareholders of companies organised in other jurisdictions. Estonian regulations may provide shareholders with particular rights and privileges which could not exist in other jurisdictions and, vice versa, certain rights and privileges that shareholders may benefit from in another jurisdiction may not be available in Estonia.

The exercise of some of the shareholders' rights in the Company could be more complicated or expensive for investors from other countries than the exercise of similar rights in their country of residence. Resolutions of the General Meeting of Shareholders may be adopted with majorities different from the majorities required for adoption of equivalent resolutions in companies organised in other jurisdictions. Rectification of the Company's registers and/or some corporate actions may require the approval of Estonian courts. Please also read Section 7 (Shareholder Rights) of Part XIII (Information on Company, Shares and Share Capital) and Part XIV (Estonian Securities Market).

Judgments of Latvian and Lithuanian courts against the Company and the Group may be more difficult to enforce than if the Company and its management were located in Latvia or Lithuania, respectively

The Company was formed in accordance with the Estonian laws and its registered office is in Estonia. The majority of the assets of the Group are located in Estonia and the majority of the management personnel working for the Group reside in Estonia. For this reason Latvian and Lithuanian investors may encounter difficulties in serving summons and other documents relating to court proceedings on any of the entities within the Group and/or the management personnel working for the Group. For the same reason it may be more difficult for Latvian and Lithuanian investors to enforce a judgment of the Estonian court issued against any entities within the Group and/or the management personnel working for the Group than if those entities and/or the management personnel were located in Latvia or Lithuania respectively.

Risks related to Estonian tax regime

Estonia currently enjoys a corporate income tax regime under which income tax is deferred until profits are distributed. Profit distributions are subject to income tax of 21/79 of the net amount of distributed profits. The possibility that Estonia may change its corporate taxation policy has periodically been subject to political discussion but it is currently not possible to assess whether or when any such change may occur. Any change in Estonian corporate taxation policy could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations and financial condition. Please also read Part XV (Taxation).

Unfavourable changes in Latvian tax regime may have material adverse influence on the Group

The Group Companies are subject to the following taxes in Latvia: VAT, social security contributions, personal income tax, corporate income tax and real property tax. According to the Tax Policy Strategy for 2011-2014 set by the Latvian Ministry of Finance, no additional tax load should be imposed on tax payers in Latvia within the period until 2014 (including), except for potentially moderate increase in real property tax. At the same time, the effective personal income tax charge may be reduced by increasing the tax-exempt ceiling. However, there could be no assurance that the tax policy in Latvia would not change in a manner having adverse effect on the Group's business and financial results.

Moreover, the Group is subject to continuous examinations and audits by the Latvian tax authorities. While the Group regularly evaluates its compliance with tax legislation and uncertain tax positions, any adverse outcome from such continuous examinations may have adverse effect on Group's operating results and financial position. All above mentioned factors may have material adverse effect on the Group's business, operations, financial position and financial results.

Risks related to possible amendments of Lithuanian tax regime

Periodically Lithuanian politicians discuss the revision of tax burden between capital and labour; however, currently no amendments of respective tax laws have been initiated and it is not possible to assess whether and/or when any such amendments may occur. It is likely that the risk related to the amendments of tax laws may increase after the Parliamentary election in Lithuania in the autumn of the current year.

Risks related to German tax regime

The German Group Companies are in general subject to taxation in Germany, in particular with respect to corporate income tax, trade tax (Gewerbesteuer), VAT and land tax and local taxes (where applicable). In addition, the German Group Companies have to pay wage tax and social security contributions with respect to wage payments to their employees and may have to pay withholding tax on dividends distributed to their shareholders. The taxation with respect to these taxes and contributions may be subject to changes due to the amendment of (tax) laws, (the change of) court decisions and the interpretation of tax laws by the German tax authorities. These changes may have adverse effects on the German Group Companies' business and financial results.

Increased cost of complying with government regulations

No assurance can be given that the governments in the Group's core markets will not implement new regulations or fiscal or monetary policies, or amend existing regulations, including regulations or policies relating to or affecting taxation, the environment, health and safety, public procurement, or exchange controls. Any significant amendment to the existing regulations or any new regulations could result in significant additional costs for the Group. The Group may not be able to pass such additional costs onto the purchasers of the property. Any significant amendment to the existing regulations or any new regulations could also impose restrictions on the operations of the Group. This could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations and financial condition.

Eurozone risk

Recent turmoil related to some of the Eurozone economies may affect the Company's operating environment, either directly or indirectly through common currency and monetary policy changes. Prolonged and deep national budget deficits may adversely impact all the area's attractiveness, including Eurozone candidate countries such as Latvia and Lithuania which are operating under the ERM II mechanism. Full or partial collapse of the Eurozone might have a material impact on the Company's business.

Interest rate risk

The interest rates of the loans taken by the Group from credit institutions are based on the EURIBOR base rate, which is determined as of the quotation date occurring periodically after the date of the relevant loan agreement. Increases in EURIBOR will lead to a corresponding increase in the financial costs of the Group. Please also read "Loan Agreements and related Financing Documents" in Section 9 (Material Contracts) of Part XI (Business) for information on loans borrowed by the Group.

Furthermore, high interest rates tend to reduce the demand for real estate, which in turn can adversely affect the value of Group's properties and, as a result, the Group's revaluation gains. The Group regularly compares potential losses arising from interest rate fluctuation against the cost of hedging. In a majority of instances, no hedging has taken place, since the hedging expenses would have exceeded the potential losses arising from interest rate fluctuations. Please also read "Interest Rate Risk" in Section 8 (Financial Risk Management) of Part IX (Operating and Financial Review and Prospects).

Currency exchange risk

The revenue of the Group is primarily denominated in EUR, LVL and LTL, while the expenses of the Group are primarily denominated in EUR. Fluctuations in foreign exchange rates can have a significant impact on the valuation gain accounted for in the income statement year by year. In addition to that potential fluctuations in currency exchange rates can have an impact on the demand for the Group's properties, its availability of financing, costs of construction works and other aspects of the Group's operations. The main currency risk for the Group is that the rate at which these currencies are pegged to the EUR changes or that any of these currencies ceases to be pegged to the EUR. The Group is not engaged in exchange rate hedging activities, and thus is exposed to currency exchange risk.

Any devaluation or revaluation of LVL or LTL may have negative consequences for the economies of the Group home markets as a whole and may have a material adverse effect on the financial condition and results of operations of the Group.

Pegged currency may have adverse impact on Latvian economy and therefore materially adversely influence the Group

Since May 2005 Latvia has been part of the ERM II and committed to observe a central exchange rate of LVL 0.702804 to EUR 1.00 with a fluctuation band of $\pm 15\%$. However, Latvia unilaterally maintains a 1% fluctuation band around the central rate. The fact that LVL is pegged to EUR could have material adverse effect on the Latvian economy. Namely, pegged currency limits the self-regulatory mechanisms of the economy. For example, during financial turmoil substantial amounts of investments are withdrawn from developing countries (such as Latvia), what causes depreciation of local currency. Although, depreciation of local currency increases the trade competitiveness of the country (by fuelling exports), and therefore softens the impact and economic consequences of the financial turmoil, countries with pegged currency cannot rely on above mentioned self-regulatory mechanisms and therefore could be struck by the financial turmoil in more severe way. Therefore, during any financial turmoil the Latvian economy may have limited ability to recover due to peg between LVL and EUR. Any potential turmoil in economic conditions in Latvia, over which the Group has no control, could significantly affect the Group's business, prospects, financial conditions and results of operations in a manner that could not be predicted.

Pegged currency may have adverse impact on Lithuanian economy and therefore materially adversely influence the Group

Since June 2004 Lithuania has been part of the ERM II and committed to observe a central exchange rate of LTL 3.4528 to EUR 1.00 with a fluctuation band of $\pm 15\%$. However, Lithuania unilaterally maintains a 0% fluctuation band. The fact that LTL is pegged to EUR could have material adverse effect on the Lithuanian economy. Namely, pegged currency limits the self-regulatory mechanisms of the economy. For example, during financial turmoil substantial amounts of investments are withdrawn from developing countries (such as Lithuania), what causes depreciation of local currency. Although, depreciation of local currency increases the trade competitiveness of the country (by fuelling exports), and therefore softens the impact and economic consequences of the financial turmoil, countries with pegged currency cannot rely on above mentioned self-regulatory mechanisms and therefore could be struck by the financial turmoil in more severe way. Therefore, during any financial turmoil the Lithuanian economy may have limited ability to recover due to peg between LTL and EUR. Any potential turmoil in economic conditions in Lithuania, over which the Group has no control, could significantly affect the Group's business, prospects, financial conditions and results of operations in a manner that could not be predicted.

4. RISKS RELATING TO SHARES, OFFERING AND LISTING

Liquidity

Prior to this Offering, there has been no public market for the Shares. The Company cannot assure that an active trading market for the Shares will develop or be sustained after the Offering and Listing. The Offer Price will be determined through negotiations among the Managers and the Company. Please also read Section 4 (Offer Price) of Part III (Offering). The Offer Price may vary from the market price of the Shares after the Offering. An investor subscribing for any Offer Shares may not be able to sell those Offer Shares at or above the Offer Price.

The price of the Shares after this Offering may be volatile and may fluctuate significantly in response to numerous factors including inter alia (i) actual or anticipated fluctuations in Group's quarterly and annual results and those of Group's publicly-held competitors, (ii) industry and market conditions, (iii) changes in laws and regulations, (iv) shortfalls in the operating results of the Group from levels forecasted by securities analysts; (v) announcements concerning the Group or its competitors; (vi) global and regional economic conditions, (vii) the general state of securities markets and (viii) other factors. Many of these factors may be beyond the Company's control.

An application has been made to the Tallinn Stock Exchange for the Shares to be listed on its Main List. However, no assurance can be given that the Shares will be listed or that, following the Offering and Listing, an active trading market for the Shares will emerge, develop or be sustained.

The Tallinn Stock Exchange is substantially less liquid and more volatile than certain more established markets such as those in other countries with more highly developed securities markets. The relatively small market capitalization and low liquidity of the Tallinn Stock Exchange may impair the ability of investors to sell the Shares on the Tallinn Stock Exchange, which could increase the volatility of the price of the Shares.

Prices on the Tallinn Stock Exchange may also be affected by external factors, such as the performance of world markets generally, or other emerging markets in particular, or the imposition of or changes in trading or capital gains taxes.

Share price fluctuations caused by offer for sale of substantial number of additional shares

Sales or issuance of additional Shares into the public market following the Offering could adversely affect the market price of the Shares. The Global Coordinator and A.F.I. American Financial Investments Ltd., Sueno Latino AG, Katmandu Stiftung, Zunis S.A., Svalbork Invest OÜ, Giuseppe Prevosti, Eginvest Ltd and Setimm Establishment have agreed to a lock-up commitment for a period of 12 months in connection with the Offering. These shareholders together own or control approximately 60.37% of the Shares outstanding prior to the Offering and 35.60% of all the Shares outstanding immediately following the Offering assuming that all Offer Shares and no Over-Allotment Shares are issued, no convertible bond of the Company has been converted to a Share and none of the current shareholders acquires any Offer Shares in the Offering. The Company may also be required to issue up to 4,025,758 new Shares in the course of conversion of the convertible bonds issued by the Company.

The Offering may be suspended or cancelled

There may be various circumstances, on which the Company has no or very limited influence, that may affect the Offering. Therefore, the Company is entitled to suspend or cancel the Offering, in case such circumstances would have disadvantageous impact on the results of the Offering. In light of the above, there is a risk that the investors may not be able to effectively subscribe for the Offer Shares. Furthermore, in such case, payments made by investors during the Offering, may be returned without any compensation or interest.

Please read Section 3 (Offer Period) of Part III (Offering).

The Shares may be delisted from the Tallinn Stock Exchange or the trading in Shares on the Tallinn Stock Exchange may be suspended

If the Company will fail to comply with certain requirements or fulfil certain obligations arising from the laws of Estonia or the Rules of the Tallinn Stock Exchange, the Tallinn Stock Exchange may delist the Shares or suspend trading therein. Further, the Company may apply for the delisting from the Tallinn Stock Exchange or for the suspension of trading therein. There is no guarantee that the Shares will never be delisted from the Tallinn Stock Exchange or trading therein will never be suspended. Delisting of the Shares could decrease the liquidity of the Shares and affect the ability to sell the Shares at a satisfactory price by the Investors. Although it is the Company's intention to make all endeavours in order to comply with all applicable regulations to avoid suspension of trading in Shares on the Tallinn Stock Exchange, future suspensions cannot be fully excluded. The Share price may be adversely affected by any suspension of trading in the Shares on the Tallinn Stock Exchange.

The Company may not pay dividends

There is no assurance that the Company will pay dividends on the Shares, nor is there any assurance as to the amount of any dividend it might pay. The payment and the amount of any dividend will be subject to the discretion of the General Meeting of Shareholders of the Company and will depend on available cash balances, anticipated cash needs, results of operations and financial condition of the Group and any financing agreement restrictions binding the Company as well as other relevant factors. Please also read Part VII (Dividends and Dividend Policy).

Inability to exercise pre-emptive rights

Pursuant to the Estonian Commercial Code, shareholders of a company have generally the preferential right to subscribe for new shares in proportion to their existing shareholding. However, such preferential right can be waived by a resolution of the General Meeting of Shareholders by a majority of 3/4 of the votes represented at such General Meeting of Shareholders. As a result of an issuance of additional shares with exclusion of preferential right to subscribe for new Shares, the shareholding and voting rights in the Company and the earnings per Share may be diluted.

In addition, if the above-referred pre-emptive rights are not waived, United States holders of Shares may not be able to exercise statutory pre-emption rights in the future unless a registration statement under the Securities Act is effective with respect to those rights, or an exemption from the registration requirement thereunder is available. The Company is unlikely to file any such registration statement in the future, and no assurance can be given that an exemption from the registration requirements of the Securities Act would be available to enable such United States holders to exercise such statutory pre-emption rights or, if available, that the Company will utilize any such exemption. Furthermore, if United States shareholders are not able to exercise statutory pre-emption rights, they may face dilution as a result. Similar risk may also relate to investors from certain other jurisdiction, where requirements similar to those of the United States referred to above are in force.

Holding of Shares in a nominee account

Shares may be held in a nominee account. Pursuant to the Estonian law, any Shares held in a nominee account (including Shares that are held via custodians of the Latvian Central Depository and the Lithuanian Central Depository, which are held in the ECRS in the nominee accounts of the Latvian Central Depository and the Lithuanian Central Depository) shall be considered as the Shares legally owned by the owner of the nominee account. This could result for the investors holding Shares in a nominee account in deprivation of certain rights or privileges as compared to the investors, who hold Shares in their own securities' account. This is in particular the case when changes are being made to the share capital of the Company or the Shares (e.g. while conducting reverse split of Shares or providing pre-emptive right to the shareholders while issuing new Shares), where the Company will treat all Shares held in a nominee account as held by one investor. Notwithstanding the above, the voting rights and rights to dividend and to other distributions attached to the Shares held in nominee accounts and ordinary securities' accounts are the same. Please also read "Specific features relating to shares held in a nominee account" in Section 7 (Shareholder Rights) of Part XIII (Information on Company, Shares and Share Capital).

Limited analyst cover

The trading market for the Shares will depend on the research and reports that industry or securities analysts may publish about the Group or its business. The Group has no control over these analysts. If one or more of the analysts who cover the Group downgrade their ratings of the Shares, the price of the Shares may decline. If one or more of these analysts cease coverage of the Group or fail to publish regular reports on it, the Company could lose visibility in the financial markets, which in turn could cause the price of the Shares or trading volume to decline.

Restrictions on transfers of Offer Shares and no public market in the United States for resales of the Shares

The Offer Shares have not been registered in the United States under the Securities Act or under any other applicable securities laws and are subject to restrictions on transfer contained in such laws. The Company does not intend to (i) list the Shares on an established securities exchange in the United States, (ii) have the Shares quoted on an automated inter-dealer quotation system in the United States or otherwise create a public market in the United States for re-sales of the Shares. The Shares constitute "restricted securities" as defined in Rule 144(a)(3) under the Securities Act and, accordingly, are not freely tradable in the United States. There are additional restrictions on the resale of Offer Shares (i) by persons who are located in the United States and/or (ii) to any person who is located in the United States. Please also read Section 14 (Selling and Transfer Restrictions) of Part III (Offering). Similar risk may also relate to persons from certain other jurisdiction, where requirements similar to those of the United States referred to above are in force.

Turmoil in emerging markets could cause the value of the Shares to suffer

Financial or other turmoil in emerging markets has in the recent past adversely affected market prices in the world's securities markets for companies operating in the affected developing economies. There can be no assurance that renewed volatility stemming from future financial turmoil, or other factors, such as political, that may arise in other emerging markets or otherwise, will not adversely affect the value of the Shares even if the Estonian economy remains relatively stable.

Tax treatment for investors in an Estonian company may vary depending on tax residence of the investors

The Company is a company established and existing under the laws of Estonia and as such the Estonian tax regime applies to distribution of profit and other payments from the Company to its shareholders. The taxation of incomes from such payments as well as other incomes, from the disposal of shares, may vary depending on tax residence of particular investors as well as on provision of double tax treaties with Estonia in force. Provisions applying to particular investors may be unfavourable or may change adversely.

There can be no assurance that the Company will not be considered a passive foreign investment company (the “PFIC”) for any taxable year. If the Company were treated as a PFIC for any taxable year during which a United States investor held shares, certain adverse United States federal income tax consequences could apply to such investor. Please also see Section 4 (PFIC Considerations) of Part XV (Taxation).

Each investor may be subject to taxation outside Estonia and should therefore consult with its own tax adviser. There can be no assurance that any activities, which the Group may conduct at any time in the future, would result in the investor becoming subject to any further taxes.

The Estonian legal persons do not pay corporate income tax on capital gains received from the sale or exchange of Shares until distribution. As a general rule, income tax is not charged on gains realized also by non-residents (whether legal persons or individuals). However, Estonian income tax is charged on the capital gain realized from the sale or exchange of Shares of a “real estate company” if the non-resident’s holding exceeds 10%. A “real estate company” for these purposes is a company, contractual investment fund or other pool of assets of whose property, at the time of the transfer or during a period within 2 years before transfer, more than 50% was directly or indirectly made up of immovable properties or structures as movables located in Estonia. Therefore, should the Company be considered as a “real estate company”, that would bring along the requirement to pay Estonian income tax on the capital gain realized from the sale or exchange of Shares by a non-resident, whose holding exceeded 10% of the share capital of the Company prior to such sale or exchange. Please also read Section 1 (Estonian Tax Consideration) of Part XV (Taxation).

Limitations on enforcing judgments against the Company

The Company is incorporated in Estonia. The judgments of the courts of the member states of the European Union (except for Denmark) must be recognized and enforced in Estonia either under Council Regulation (EC) No 44/2001 or Regulation (EC) No 805/2004 of the European Parliament and of the Council without any special procedure being required.

Pursuant to Article 620(1) of the Estonian Code of Civil Procedure, judgments of the courts of foreign states other than the member states of the European Union must be recognized in Estonia, subject to certain exceptions, such as judgements contrary to Estonian order public or earlier judgement involving the same cause of action and between the same parties, judgements where the defendant was not able to reasonably defend its rights and judgements given by a non-authorized court. In such exceptional situations the judgements of the courts of foreign states other than the member states of the European Union are not enforceable in Estonia without re-litigation of the subject matter of such judgements on its merit.

PART III. OFFERING

1. THE OFFERING

The Company offers up to 37,000,000 Offer Shares. Such offering is made (i) to the public in Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania in the course of the Retail Offering and (ii) to qualified investors in and outside of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania in the course of the Institutional Offering.

An application has been made by the Company to the Tallinn Stock Exchange for the Listing. Upon satisfaction of the application for the Listing, all Shares will be listed on the Main List of the Tallinn Stock Exchange. In connection with the listing, the Company and AS LHV Pank contemplate entering into a market-making agreement.

The sizes of the Institutional Offering tranche and the Retail Offering tranche have not been pre-determined. The total amount of Offer Shares to be allocated as part of the Institutional Offering and the Retail Offering will be determined by the Company, in consultation with the Managers, in the allocation process after the end of the Offer Period based on the demand for the Offer Shares by the different investor groups.

The Offer Shares and Over-Allotment Shares, if any, will be issued on the basis of the resolution on the conditional increase of Company's share capital adopted by the General Meeting of Shareholders on 14 August 2012.

The terms and conditions set out in this Part III (Offering) (the "Terms") relate only to the Retail Offering.

The existing shareholders of the Company and the members of its management, supervisory or administrative bodies and employees may participate in the Offering subject to the conditions of the Offering set forth herein. The Company is not aware whether or not such persons intend to participate in the Offering. To the extent that the Company is informed, none of such persons intend to subscribe for more than 5% of the Offer Shares.

The Management Board is not aware of any material interests of third persons, including conflicts of interest or potential conflicts of interest, which the Management Board believes to be material to the Offering.

The Company expects to announce the Offer Price and the results of the Offering, including the total amount of Offer Shares allocated in the Institutional Offering and in the Retail Offering on or about 10 September 2012 via Tallinn Stock Exchange and on the website of the Company (www.prokapital.com).

The estimated total expenses of the Company relating to the offering amount to EUR 3.9 million. The aggregate net proceeds to the Company are estimated to amount to approximately EUR 69.2 million, after deducting the fees and expenses of the Offering, assuming that all Offer Shares will be subscribed for and issued, based on the mid-point of the Offer Price Range, save for any proceeds deriving under issuance of any Over-Allotment Shares.

The Book-runner and Global Coordinator for the transaction is AS LHV Pank. The business address of AS LHV Pank is Tartu mnt 2, Tallinn 10145, Estonia. Jointly with the Advisor and the Company, AS LHV Pank will be deciding on the final pricing and allocation. If Over-Allotment Shares will be issued, AS LHV Pank will be acting as the stabilization agent.

In its capacity as the Advisor, Porta Finance UAB organizes the preparation process for the Offering and Listing, coordinates the other advisors involved in the process and assists the Company with the other tasks related with Offering and Listing. In addition to AS LHV Pank and Porta Finance UAB, Lunacon Oy, a company owned by member of the Supervisory Council Mr Huuskonen, and Forbia Oy, a company owned by member of the Supervisory Council Mr Petri Olkinuora, have provided certain advisory services to the Company in relation to preparations for the Offering. Please also read Section 4 (Transactions with Supervisory Council

2. RIGHT TO PARTICIPATE IN THE RETAIL OFFERING

The Retail Offering is directed to all natural and legal persons in Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, except for any persons who are categorised as qualified investors pursuant to the laws of any of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania.

For the purpose of these Terms a person shall be deemed to be “in Estonia” if such person has a securities account with (i) the ECRS, (ii) one of the registered securities account operators in Latvia, i.e. with a participant of the Latvian Central Depository or (iii) one of the registered securities account operators in Lithuania and, according to the data regarding his or her relevant securities account in ECRS or the records of his or her securities account operator in Latvia or Lithuania:

- if such person is a natural person, such person’s address is located in Estonia; or
- if such person is a legal person, such person’s registered address is located in Estonia and/or its registration code is the registration code of the Estonian Commercial Register.

For the purpose of these Terms a person shall be deemed to be “in Latvia” if such person has a securities account with (i) the ECRS, (ii) one of the registered securities account operators in Latvia, i.e. with a participant of the Latvian Central Depository, or (iii) one of the registered securities account operators in Lithuania and, according to the data regarding his or her relevant securities account in ECRS or the records of his or her securities account operator in Latvia or Lithuania:

- if such person is a natural person, such person’s address is located in Lithuania; or
- if such person is a legal person, such person’s registered address is located in Lithuania or its registration code is the registration code of the Lithuanian Commercial Register.

For the purpose of determining whether an investor has the right to participate in the Retail Offering, the securities’ account through which the investor submits the Subscription Undertaking (as defined below) shall be considered as the relevant securities account of such investor.

3. OFFER PERIOD

Investors may submit undertakings to subscribe for the Offer Shares (the “Subscription Undertaking”) starting at 10.00 am (Eastern European Time - Estonian, Latvia and Lithuanian time) on 27 August 2012 until 04.00 pm (Eastern European Time - Estonian, Latvia and Lithuanian time) on 7 September 2012 (the “Offer Period”).

The Company may at any time prior to the beginning of the Subscription Period postpone or cancel the Offering or any part thereof.

After the beginning of the Subscription Period but only until the Company has received the full payment for all the Offer Shares, the Company may cancel the Offering or any part thereof for any reason, including, but not limited to:

- sudden and material adverse change in the economic or political situation in Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania or worldwide, which could affect the financial markets, economy, or the Group’s operations and its prospects;

- any material change or development in or affecting the general affairs, management, financial position, shareholders' equity or results of the Group's operations; or
- an insufficient, in the Company's or Managers' opinion, expected level of demand for the Offer Shares in the book-building process.

In case of cancellation of the Offering, or any part thereof, the Company shall make an announcement thereof via the Tallinn Stock Exchange and on the Company's website. As of the moment of announcement all rights and obligations of the parties relating to the cancelled part of the Offering shall terminate.

Notwithstanding the above, the Company will cancel the Offering and shall not issue any Offer Shares, if the net proceeds of the Company from the Offering would amount to less than EUR 10 million.

4. OFFER PRICE

The offer price payable in consideration for each issued Offer Shares (the "Offer Price") shall be decided by the Supervisory Council of the Company, in consultation with the Advisor and the Global Coordinator, after the completion of the book-building process directed at qualified investors in the course of the Institutional Offering. The Offer Price shall be determined on the basis of tenders for the Offer Shares obtained from qualified investors, also taking into consideration the total demand for the Offer Shares in the Institutional Offering, price sensitivity of the demand and quality of the demand and the nature of demand from various investors with the aim of a more balanced trading environment upon the Listing.

The Offer Price will be in the Offer Price Range of EUR 1.90 and EUR 2.05. The above price range may be amended until the end of the Offer Period on the basis of information obtained in the book-building process in accordance with applicable laws and notification requirements. Please also read Section 8 (Procedure for Amending the Price Range) of this Part III (Offering).

The Offer Price in the Institutional Offering and the Retail Offering shall be the same.

5. SUBSCRIPTION

The Company invites investors to submit Subscription Undertakings in accordance with these Terms. Subscription Undertakings may be submitted during the Offer Period. An investor may apply to subscribe for the Offer Shares only at the upper limit of the price range, i.e. at EUR 2.05 per Offer Share (the "Subscription Price").

An investor must ensure that the data in the Subscription Undertaking is correct, complete and readable. An uncompleted, incorrect or unclear Subscription Undertaking may be rejected.

An investor may submit the Subscription Undertaking either personally or through a representative whom the investor has authorized (in the form required by law) to submit the Subscription Undertaking and make the relevant payments.

A Subscription Undertaking shall be considered submitted and becomes effective at the moment when the transaction instruction of respective investor has been delivered to the ECRS on the basis of the respective order received from the investor's Custodian or relevant subscription place.

By submitting a Subscription Undertaking an investor:

- accepts these Terms and agrees with the Company on the application of them;
- acknowledges that the Retail Offering does not constitute an offer (in Estonian: pakkumus) of any Share by the Company and that the submission of a Subscription Undertaking does not itself amount to subscription for any Offer Shares in legal terms nor entitle to subscribe for the Offer Shares nor result in the agreement for sale of Offer Shares, and that by submitting of a Subscription Undertaking the investor undertakes to acquire the Offer Shares to the maximum amount indicated in the Subscription Undertaking on these Terms;
- authorizes and instructs the relevant operator of the investor's securities account (or the operator of the relevant nominee account) opened with the ECRS, Latvian Central Depository or Lithuanian Central Depository (the "Custodian"), the Latvian Central Depository and the Lithuanian Central Depository to forward the registered transaction instruction to the registrar of ECRS; and

- authorizes each of the owner of relevant nominee account and the Custodian, the registrar of ECRS (AS Eesti Väärtpaberikeskus), the Latvian Central Depository and the Lithuanian Central Depository to amend the data in the investor's transaction instruction regarding the amount of Offer Shares to be received, price per Share and total transaction amount on the basis of the Offer Price and results of allocation.

Please also read Part IV (Instructions to Investors) with regard to detailed instructions regarding the subscription for the Offer Shares.

6. PAYMENT

By submitting a Subscription Undertaking, an investor authorises and instructs the credit institution operating the investor's cash bank account connected to its/his/her securities account (which may or may not also be the investor's custodian) to immediately block the whole transaction amount on the investor's cash account until the settlement is completed or funds are released in accordance with these terms and conditions. The transaction amount to be blocked will be equal to the specified amount multiplied with maximum offer price. An investor may submit a Subscription Undertaking only when there are sufficient funds on the cash account connected to its/his/her ECRS securities account or the cash account opened with its/his/her Custodian, which is connected to its/his/her securities account with Latvian or Lithuanian securities account. The transaction currency for all investors is EUR.

7. AMENDMENT OR CANCELLATION OF SUBSCRIPTION UNDERTAKINGS

An investor may amend or cancel a Subscription Undertaking until the end of the Offer Period. To do so the investor must contact the Custodian or subscription place through which the respective Subscription Undertaking has been made, and carry out the procedures required by the Custodian or relevant subscription place. The procedures for amending and annulling the Subscription Undertaking may differ between different Custodians and subscription places.

All fees payable as a result of an amendment and/or annulment of a Subscription Undertaking shall be payable by the investor according to the applicable price list of the Custodian or the relevant subscription place.

Any amendment to or cancellation of the Subscription Undertaking becomes effective at the moment when the transaction instruction of the subject investor has been amended or cancelled in the ECRS on the basis of the respective order received from the investor's Custodian or relevant subscription place.

8. PROCEDURE FOR AMENDING THE OFFER PRICE RANGE

If the Offer Price Range is amended, the Company shall prepare a supplement to the Prospectus, which has to be approved by Estonian Authority and notified to the Latvian Authority and Lithuanian Authority. The supplement shall be published in the same way as the original Prospectus was published. The Company shall make an announcement thereof via the Tallinn Stock Exchange and on its website (www.prokapital.com).

Investors who have submitted Subscription Undertakings before the announcement of the Prospectus supplement may cancel their Subscription Undertakings within five working days after the announcement in accordance with the procedure described in Section 7 (Amendment or Cancellation of Subscription Undertakings) of this Part III (Offering). Should the Offer Price Range be amended, also the total number of Offer Shares, the dates and other terms and conditions set forth in this Prospectus may be changed. All such changes shall be announced together with the announcement of the amended Offer Price Range. Investors who have not cancelled their Subscription Undertakings within the above-referred time period shall be deemed to have accepted all changes announced in accordance with above.

9. DISTRIBUTION AND ALLOCATION

In the allocation, the Company shall take into consideration only those Subscription Undertakings, which have been completed and submitted during the Offer Period. The Company may reject any Subscription Undertaking, which has not been submitted in accordance with all the requirements set out in these Terms.

The Offer Shares will be allocated to investors participating in the Offering in accordance with the following terms and conditions:

- each Preferred Employee (as defined below under “Preferential Allocation”) will be allocated up to the available amount of Preferential Offer Shares (as defined below) in accordance with sub-Section “Preferential Allocation”;
- the division of the Offer Shares between the Institutional Offering and the Retail Offering has not been predetermined. The Company, in consultation with the Advisor and Global Coordinator, will determine the exact tranche sizes of the Retail Offering and Institutional Offering (percentage wise);
- the Company, in consultation with the Advisor and the Global Coordinator, will determine the exact allocation of the Offer Shares to the qualified investors on discretionary basis;
- the Company, in consultation with the Advisor and the Global Coordinator, will determine allocation percentages applied to the Retail Offering as follows:
 - the Offer Shares shall be allocated to investors using stepped allocation methodology. Under the stepped allocation methodology, the Company together with the Advisor, the Global Coordinator and the Book-runner will determine, after the Offer Period, one or more allocation levels (in number of the Offer Shares) and the allocation percentages applied to each level;
 - the transaction amount in each Subscription Undertaking will be divided into different parts, e.g. part being below the first level (x% of such part will be accepted), part being between the first and second level (y% of such part will be accepted), part exceeding the second level (z% of such part will be accepted) etc.;
 - the main criteria for the determination of the levels and allocation percentages are: (a) the total demand for the Offer Shares in the Retail Offering; (b) the size of Subscription Undertakings in the Retail Offering and (c) the number of investors having submitted Subscription Undertakings in the Retail Offering;
- except for the Preferential Allocation described below, no tranche has been predetermined to investors in Estonia, Latvia or Lithuania;
- allocation of the Offer Shares will not be determined on the basis of which firm they are made through or by;
- possible multiple Subscription Undertakings submitted by an investor shall be merged for the purpose of allocation. If different securities’ accounts of the investor have been indicated in the Subscription Undertakings submitted by such investor, subject to the amount of the Offer Shares indicated in each such Subscription Undertaking, the Company shall have the discretion to determine the number of the Offer Shares that will be transferred to each such securities’ accounts of such investor in the course of the settlement;
- each investor subscribing via a nominee account is considered as an independent investor if the Company and the Global Coordinator have received information on such investor’s identity and the amount of Offer Shares subscribed for by such investor; and
- each investor entitled to receive the Offer Shares shall be allocated a whole number of the Offer Shares and, if necessary, the number of the Offer Shares to be allocated shall be rounded down to the closest whole number. Any remaining Offer Shares which cannot be allocated using the above-described process will be allocated to investors on random basis.

The Company will decide on the allocation of the Offer Shares after the determination of the Offer Price. The Company expects to decide on the allocation and notify thereof by an announcement on the Company’s website on or about 10 September 2012.

The Company is not aware whether major shareholders or members of the Management Board and Supervisory Council or any of them intend to subscribe for more than 5% of the Offer Shares.

Preferential Allocation

A natural person (the “Preferred Employees”) will be entitled to a preferential allocation of the Offer Shares (the „Preferential Allocation“) if he or she chooses to participate in the Retail Offering and duly submits a Subscription Undertaking via a Custodian and he or she is:

- a member of a managing body (including management board and supervisory council) of a Group Company as at 8.00 a.m. (Eastern European Time - Estonian time) on 27 August 2012; and/or
- an employee of a Group Company, who works for the Group under an employment contract concluded for an unspecified term with a Group Company, which is valid as at 8.00 a.m. (Eastern European Time - Estonian time) on 27 August 2012.

For the avoidance of doubt, such preferential allocation does not constitute public offering of securities in any country other than Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania and no member of a managing body or employee of the Group is offered the Offer Shares with the right to participate in the Preferential Allocation, unless such person is a natural person in Estonia, in Latvia or in Lithuania.

In the course of Preferential Allocation, up to 1,850,000 Offer Shares (the “Preferential Offer Shares”) will be allocated to the Preferred Employees who participate in the Retail Offering.

If a person is considered as a Preferred Employee on several bases (e.g. as a member of the management and an employee), such Preferred Employee shall be entitled to participate in the Preferential Allocation only once (multiple bases does not multiply Preferential Allocation).

A Subscription Undertaking duly submitted by a Preferred Employee will be accepted in full up to the available amount of Preferential Offer Shares (however, all Subscription Undertakings submitted by a Preferred Employee shall be merged for the purpose of allocating Preferential Offer Shares to such Preferred Employee). The available amount of Preferential Offer Shares will be equal to the amount of Preferential Offer Shares divided by the amount of Preferred Employees who participate in the Retail Offering and have duly submitted a Subscription Undertaking via a Custodian. If necessary, the number of Preferential Offer Shares to be allocated shall be rounded down to the closest whole number. Any remaining Preferential Offer Shares, which have not been allocated using the above-described process, will be allocated to Preferred Employees as follows: (a) so that each Preferred Employee will receive as many Preferential Offer Shares as possible and (b) remaining Shares will be allocated on random basis.

If a Preferred Employee has submitted a Subscription Undertaking for no more than the available amount of Preferential Offer Shares, such Preferred Employee will be allotted the number of Preferential Offer Shares that he or she has subscribed for. If a Preferred Employee has submitted the Subscription Undertaking for more than the available amount of Preferential Offer Shares, such Preferred Employee will be allocated the available amount of Preferential Offer Shares available to him or her and his or her Subscription Undertaking will additionally participate in the Retail Offering with the amount of Offer Shares exceeding the available amount of Preferential Offer Shares alongside with investors participating in the Retail Offering without Preferential Allocation.

10. RETURN OF FUNDS

If the Offer Price is lower than the Subscription Price, if the Subscription Undertaking is revoked, if the investor's Subscription Undertaking is rejected or if the allocation deviates from the amount of Offer Shares applied for, the funds blocked on the investor's cash account, or a part thereof (the amount in excess of payment for the allocated Offer Shares) will be released by the Custodian not later than in one business day after the settlement described in Section 11 (Settlement and Trading) of Part III (Offering). Company shall not be liable for the release of the respective amount and for the payment of interest on the released amount for the time it was blocked.

11. SETTLEMENT AND TRADING

The Offer Shares allocated to the investors shall be transferred to their securities accounts on or about 13 September 2012 through the „delivery versus payment“ method simultaneously with effecting the payment for such Offer Shares. Each investor shall be entitled to transfer the Offer Shares from its securities' account as from the moment of transfer thereof to respective investor's securities account.

The final amount payable by an investor for the Offer Shares will be calculated by multiplying the number of Offer Shares allocated to such investor with the Offer Price. The amount in excess of what the investor is required to pay for the allocated Offer Shares will be released to the investor by the relevant Custodian on or about 14 September 2012 (in one business day after the settlement). On the same date in the event that investor's Subscription Undertaking is rejected, the funds will be released in full by the relevant Custodian.

In order to conduct the Offering, the General Meeting of Shareholders adopted a resolution on 14 August 2012 on conditional increase of the share capital of the Company and waiver of the pre-emptive right of the existing shareholders to subscribe for the Offer Shares. After the allocation of the Offer Shares, the Management Board will apply for the registration of the Offer Shares with ECRS and transfer thereof to the securities accounts of the investors.

Upon satisfaction of the application for the Listing, the trading in the Shares is expected to commence on the Tallinn Stock Exchange on or about 14 September 2012.

12. STABILISATION

The Company has granted the Global Coordinator the option to require the Company to issue up to 1,000,000 Over-Allotment Shares for purposes of covering possible over-allotments. The Global Coordinator may exercise such option until the determination of the Offer Price. Should the Global Coordinator decide to exercise such option, the Over-Allotment Shares will be issued at the same time with the issuance of the Offer Shares. All Over-Allotment Shares will be allocated and distributed to the investors as Offer Shares in accordance with the rules set out in Section 9 (Distribution and Allocation) of Part III (Offering).

The Company has also granted the Global Coordinator an option, exercisable within 30 days of the date of commencement of trading in the Shares in Tallinn Stock Exchange, to undertake stabilisation in accordance with European Commission Regulation (EC) No 2273/2003. The Global Coordinator may purchase Shares from the market in the amount not exceeding the amount of issued Over-Allotment Shares to stabilize or maintain the market price of Shares. Stabilisation activities may be undertaken only in accordance with applicable laws, during a 30-day period starting from the commencement of trading in Shares on the Tallinn Stock Exchange.

Any such stabilization activity (i.e purchasing of Shares from the open market) will be decided by the Global Coordinator at its sole discretion and the Global Coordinator is under no obligation to do so. Such stabilization transactions may result in a situation where Shares are traded at a price that is higher than the price that would have been formed by simple operation of supply and demand, without the effect of stabilization. Stabilization activities will be conducted in accordance with the European Commission Regulation (EC) No 2273/2003 implementing Directive 2003/6/EC of the European Parliament and the Council as regards exemptions for buyback programs and stabilization of financial instruments and will be notified to the Estonian Financial Supervision Authority in accordance with Article 9(4) of the aforementioned Regulation. Stabilisation of the Shares shall not in any circumstances be executed above the Offer Price.

The Company has granted the Global Coordinator a put option (also known as a Reverse Greenshoe), which is exercisable in whole or in part upon notice by the Global Coordinator, for the 30-day period starting from the commencement of trading in Shares on the Tallinn Stock Exchange, to sell all or some of the Shares purchased by it from the market in the course of the stabilisation, to the Company at the price equal to the price paid by the Global Coordinator upon purchase of respective Shares from the market (i.e. at the price not exceeding the Offer Price). The sale of such Shares shall be effected within five days as of the day when the Global Coordinator exercises the put option.

On 14 August 2012, the General Meeting of Shareholders resolved to permit the Company to purchase its own Shares from the Global Coordinator.

13. LOCK-UP

The Global Coordinator and certain shareholders of the Company (including A.F.I. American Financial Investments Ltd., Sueno Latino AG, Katmandu Stiftung, Zunis S.A., Svalbork Invest OÜ, Giuseppe Prevosti, Eginvest Ltd and Setimm Establishment) have agreed to a lock-up commitment for a period of 12 months in connection with the Offering. These shareholders together own or control approximately 60.37% of the Shares outstanding prior to the Offering and 35.60% of all the Shares outstanding immediately following the Offering assuming that all Offer Shares and no Over-Allotment Shares are issued, no convertible bond of the Company has been converted to a Share and none of the current shareholders acquires any Offer Shares in the Offering.

Pursuant to such lock-up agreements, each such shareholder has undertaken not to directly or indirectly, issue, offer, sell, contract to sell, or otherwise dispose of any of the Shares that such shareholder owned at the time of entering into the lock-up agreement, during the period ending 365 days after the commencement of the Listing, without the prior written consent of the Bank.

For purposes of this provision, the expression an “offer to the public” in any relevant Member State means the communication in any form and by any means of sufficient information on the terms of the offer and the securities to be offered so as to enable an investor to decide to purchase or subscribe for the securities, as the expression may be varied in that Member State by any measure implementing the Prospectus Directive in that Member State, and the expression “Prospectus Directive” means Directive 2003/71/EC as amended from time to time and includes any relevant implementing measure in each relevant Member State.

PART V. BACKGROUND, REASONS FOR OFFERING AND USE OF PROCEEDS

The purpose of the Offering is to obtain additional equity financing necessary for the Group's real estate development activities. The Group plans to use the net proceeds received from the Offering inter alia for the development of the following three properties of the Group:

- Tondi Quarter in Tallinn (please also read "Tondi Quarter" in Section 6 (Projects and Properties) of Part XI (Business));
- Peterburi Rd. Shopping Centre in Tallinn (please also read "Peterburi Rd. Shopping Centre" in Section 6 (Projects and Properties) of Part XI (Business)); and
- Tallinas St. Residential Complex in Riga (please also read "Tallinas St. Residential Complex" in Section 6 (Projects and Properties) of Part XI (Business)).

In the Management Board's view the exact allocation of the funds to the development projects cannot be determined at the date of this Prospectus. The exact allocation of the funds to various development projects will be determined by the Company at a later stage on the basis of availability of debt financing and pre-sales.

In addition, the Group plans to use part of the proceeds from time to time for general corporate purposes (including, for as long as it does not affect the development of the above properties of the Group, for the payment of outstanding obligations). The Group will use the proceeds for general corporate purposes to the extent and at the time such part of the proceeds is not necessary for financing the Group's real estate development activities.

The precise use of the proceeds will be determined by the Management Board in line with the annual budgets of the Company approved by the Supervisory Council and other relevant resolutions that the Supervisory Council may adopt from time to time.

The Articles of Association of the Company set out that if share capital of the Company is increased without amending the Articles of Association, the Company's legal reserve shall also be increased on a pro rata basis. Therefore, a part of the proceeds from the Offering will be transferred to the legal reserve of the Company.

The aggregate net proceeds to the Company are estimated to amount to approximately EUR 69.2 million, after deducting the fees and expenses of the Offering, assuming that all offered Offer Shares will be subscribed for and issued, based on the mid-point of the Offer Price Range, save for any proceeds deriving under issuance of any Over-Allotment Shares. The fees and expenses incurred in connection with the Offering and payable by the Company are estimated to amount to approximately EUR 3.9 million, based on the mid-point of the Offer Price Range.

In addition to above-mentioned investments the Offering is expected to broaden the Group's investor base and create an opportunity for the listing of the Shares on the Tallinn Stock Exchange. The Listing is expected to increase liquidity of the Shares and enhance the Group's profile in relation to current and potential customers and other cooperation partners.

In the Offering, up to 37,000,000 Offer Shares will be offered by the Company. In addition, up to 1,000,000 Over-Allotment Shares may additionally be issued in the course of the Offering. The conditional increase of Company's share capital necessary for the issuance of the Offer Shares and Over-Allotment Shares has been resolved by the General Meeting of Shareholders of the Company held on 14 August 2012.

PART VII. DIVIDENDS AND DIVIDEND POLICY

Once the increase of share capital relating to the issue of Offer Shares is registered with the Estonian Commercial Register, the Offer Shares will rank pari passu with all the existing Shares. The Offer Shares will be eligible for any dividends declared and paid on the Shares starting from 1 January 2012 and any time thereafter.

The Group has historically been financing its operations mainly from retained earnings. Hence there have been limited dividend payments in the past. For the year 1998 dividends in amount of EUR 345,123 were paid and for 2004 dividends in amount of EUR 2,039,501 were paid.

The Group intends to pay dividends taking into account the capital needs, the stage of the development of the Group's main projects, the financial situation of the Group, the development cycle of the real estate sector and other relevant aspects the Group. It is not expected that the dividend payments will commence in financial years 2013 and 2014 as the Group is planning to invest significant amount of funds into the prioritised development projects (Tondi Quarter, Peterburi Rd. Shopping Centre and Tallinas St. Residential Complex).

The Company cannot assure that dividends will be paid in the future or if dividends are paid, how much they will amount to. The declaration and payment by the Company of any future dividends and the amount thereof will depend on the Company's results of operations, financial condition, cash requirements, future prospects, profits available for distribution and other factors deemed by the Management Board to be relevant at the time. Moreover, the Management Board merely makes a proposal for the amount of dividends to be distributed. The Supervisory Council has the right to amend such proposal and the proposal is ultimately to be approved by the General Meeting of Shareholders. For more details on the procedure and regulatory restrictions relating to the payment of dividends, please read "Dividends and Other Distributions" in Section 7 (Shareholders Rights) of Part XIII (Information on Company, Shares and Share Capital).

2. FACTORS AFFECTING RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

Changes in business environment

Property market is sensitive to changes in supply and demand. Generally, real estate values tend to follow business cycles. Valuation of property is affected by a number of macroeconomic factors, including economic growth, demographical factors, availability of financing, interest rates, inflation, unemployment, disposable income, consumer confidence etc. Changes in local market environment (for example, in a specific city) can materially affect property values regardless of the overall business environment in the regional market. Changes in general market environment have an effect on demand for real estate and yield rates. For this reason, fluctuations in macroeconomic factors in the markets, which the Group operates in, can materially affect valuation and timing of development of existing and planned real estate portfolio.

Property prices, rental and vacancy rates depend on demand and supply of real estate stock in the respective market segment (residential, commercial, offices). Favourable market environment encourages construction of new real estate. The growth of available real estate space in general would result in negative pressure on prices, while the final pricing level will depend on the development of the demand.

Ability to develop projects

Management of development projects requires substantial planning effort and usually lasts for several years. During the development phase the Group receives income only from pre-sale of the apartments in residential projects, while income from development of retail properties is deferred to the period after the completion of the project.

The Group relies on subcontractors for implementation design and construction works. If terms of services performed by subcontractors (price, quality) deviate from initially planned, there can be a positive or negative effect on the profit extracted from developing a project. Additionally, development projects are subject to regulation by government authorities in relation to obtaining or renewing licenses, permits and approvals, which can potentially delay development of a project, and hence have an impact on the Group's profitability and projects' financial return.

The Management Board

Successful planning and execution of development projects depends on the vision and experience of the Management Board that has obtained unique real estate development know-how in the Baltic States. The Management Board is crucial to the future operating results.

Property sales

Income from sale of property is not regular and depends on a number of factors, including project development schedule, prevailing market demand, macroeconomic environment, competing real estate developments and the Group's strategy. The Management Board is carefully planning timing of property sales in order to maximize the return to shareholders. Maximization of return might result in relatively volatile stream of income. Ability of the Group to time the property sales has an effect on the income of the Group as market conditions are constantly changing.

The Management Board may consider renting out certain properties for a certain period of time in case the market conditions for the sales of apartments or development of properties are not favourable.

Rental income

Rental income is another source of the Group's revenue. Insolvency of large tenants can have a substantial negative effect on rental income, and hence quality tenant mix and constant monitoring of tenants' solvency is important in securing stable rental income.

Developments in a specific real estate lease market segment (office, retail), such as shifts in demand or introduction of new real estate stock can have a material impact on development of vacancy rates. As rental agreements are reviewed on regular basis, prevailing market conditions determine terms of renewal of agreements. As a result the rental income can fluctuate, also causing fluctuations in consolidated revenue.

Hotel related income

Income generated by hotel operations forms a relatively significant part of Group's total recurring revenues at the moment. Group's hotel operations mainly service foreign tourist travellers. Lately the hotel operations have been impacted positively by increasing number of tourists to Estonia and Latvia and general improvement of economic environment.

Revaluation of property

Land and buildings that are purchased or developed by the Group with the purpose to generate rental income or market value appreciation and which are not used in operations of the Company are reported on the balance sheet as investment property. Investment property as well as the tangible assets (hotels owned by the Group are accounted as tangible assets) are measured using the fair value method, and revaluation is performed on regular basis as required by regulations. Any potential gains or losses in fair value of investment property are recognized as income or expense for the respective accounting period, affecting the overall profitability of the Group. At the same time, inventories, which include residential buildings completed and construction in progress, are recorded at cost on the balance sheet and are not re-valued.

Competition

Property prices, rental rates and vacancy rates to a large extent are related to availability of real estate space for sale or for lease. Therefore, any substantial new real estate developments in the segments and markets the Group operates in represents a threat to operating results of the Group.

Opening of a new shopping centre or development of new residential project in a given city or region would increase competition among existing players, and put downward pressure on rental rates and residential property prices, which in turn would result in fluctuations of the Group's total income.

Inability of competitors to finance their real estate developments or any other reasons deterring competitive developments could result in thinner real estate supply, which would increase property prices and rental rates, thus positively affecting income of the Group.

Interest rates

Changes in credit market and interest rate fluctuations can decrease or increase the Group's financing costs, and thus affect consolidated profitability. Additionally, interest rates and credit availability affect demand for real estate, which in turn has an impact on the Group's property value and property sales. Significant part of the Group's borrowings has fixed margin interest rate tied to EURIBOR and therefore is exposed to interest rate volatility to the extent of EURIBOR fluctuation, and hence the Group is exposed to developments in European and international financial markets.

Construction market environment

Construction costs represent by far the largest portion of expenses related to property development. Historically construction costs have fluctuated significantly. In the future any fluctuations in construction market conditions, including labour costs, material costs, demand and supply, may have a material effect on expenses and profitability of the Group.

Ability to acquire land plots

Success of the Group's operations is dependent on the Group's ability to acquire land plots or properties for development in favourable locations at competitive prices, and develop them in efficient and timely manner. The Group has acquired most of its current land portfolio in 1990s and early 2000s and further successful acquisitions cannot be taken for granted.

Additionally, success of development projects relies on the Group's ability to forecast attractiveness of a chosen location. Location represents a substantial part of real estate property value, and attractiveness of locations tends to change over time depending on other real estate developments and/or changes in the city planning. Any positive developments in location's attractiveness can positively affect property value, and vice versa.

3. RECENT DEVELOPMENTS

During the first half of 2012 the Group continued with projecting works of 3 new development projects: Peterburi Rd. Shopping Centre in Tallinn, the first part of the new stage in Tondi Quarter in Tallinn and Tallinnas St. Residential Complex in Riga for obtaining building licenses. In connection with the Peterburi Rd. Shopping Centre project the Group has signed the agreements for pre-projecting of tram line Majaka str. – Peterburi road 2, projecting of rainwater sewage line on Kivimuru street and connection agreement with AS Eesti Gaas. In June 2012 the Group received the building license for the entrance crossroad from the Peterburi road to the eastern side of the projected shopping centre.

The Group has started successfully the leasing activities for Peterburi Rd. Shopping Centre premises with first lease agreements signed at the end of the first half of 2012 and lease agreement for hyper-market premises signed on 26 July 2012.

In the first half of 2012 the Group recorded net revenue of EUR 9.9 million, which represents 24% increase compared to the same period in 2011. Recorded net loss of EUR 2.9 million EUR included non-recurring costs related to IPO preparations in amount of EUR 0.4 million and additional provision regarding legal dispute in Netherlands in amount of EUR 0.7 million. Please also read Section 12 (Legal Proceedings) of Part XI (Business).

In Estonia 2 flats and 3 parking places were sold, as well as 6 lease agreements signed for parking places and 4 agreements for offices. PK Ilmarine Hotel showed results well above expectations, with occupancy rate growing by 4% and gross operating profit increasing more than 2 times to EUR 223 thousand.

In Latvia 1 flat has been sold and in total 20 lease agreements were signed for World Trade Centre office premises. The results of PK Riga Hotel improved, with occupancy rate growing by 26% and gross operating profit reaching EUR 283 thousand (8% increase).

In Lithuania 31 flats and commercial premises as well as 13 parking places were sold. Major part (27 flats and all parking places) was part of a bulk deal.

In Germany PK Parkhotel Kurhaus recorded occupancy rate decline of 13%, with gross operating profit decreasing by 2% to EUR 255 thousand. The company providing hotel and associated services at PK Parkhotel Kurhaus was acquired in November 2011 and currently is undergoing the process of cost review and efficiency means.

4. OUTLOOK FOR 2012

The Management Board believes that after bottoming-out during 2009 and 2010, real estate market in 2012 in Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania will continue moderate growth that was observed in 2011, following economic recovery in the Baltic States. Even though European sovereign debt situation represents a threat to economies of the Baltic States, positive growth of economy is expected in 2012 as the economies have gone through significant fiscal and structural reforms in the last several years. Economic growth in the region has been driven by improvement in fundamental factors, and finances of the governments of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania have improved with budget deficits expected in 2012 below 3% level. Further economic recovery of the Baltic States is expected to positively affect real estate market as consumer confidence improves and demand for the property increases. The above mentioned factors should positively affect the Group's income from existing real estate and increase value of development projects.

The improving macroeconomic background in the Baltic States allows the Group to proceed with new developments as the increased consumer confidence and improved availability of financing increase the demand for both residential as well as retail real estate. The Group expects to complete the necessary preparatory works to be in position to commence the development of the Tondi Quarter, Peterburi Rd. Shopping Centre and Tallinas St. Residential Complex in 2012 and early 2013.

5. INVESTMENTS, DIVESTMENTS AND DEVELOPMENT PROJECTS

Main Investments, executed Acquisitions and Divestments as well as Commenced Development Projects between 2009 and 2011

The Group's main investments normally include acquisitions of land and buildings and construction or renovation works related to real estate project development. During the period from 2009 until 2011 the Company did not make significant investments except for the investments described below. The main reasons for postponing development activity were unfavourable market conditions dictated by weak macroeconomic environment and limited internal financial resources of the Group. It was decided that postponing development of planned real estate projects would increase their value, taking into account expected real estate market recovery.

However, the main investments during the period from 2009 until 2011 include investments related to two real estate development projects implemented by the Group, including:

- Second extension of Kristiine Shopping Centre in Tallinn. The extension was developed and constructed in 2010. The extension resulted in additional GLA of 12,200 m², renovation of the part of the existing parking house and creation of 7000 m² ground floor parking area increasing the total number of parking places to 1,130. The opening of the extension was on 30 September 2010. The yearly investments of the Group in this project were as follows: EUR 17,872,129 in 2010 and EUR 762,160 in 2011;
- Development of Šaltinių Namai Residential Complex in Vilnius. The yearly investments of the Group in this project were as follows: EUR 6,659,159 in 2009, EUR 1,197,027 in 2010 and EUR 872,872 in 2011. 6. IMPORTANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The Financial Statements of the Company have been prepared in accordance with the IFRS-EU, and in accordance with Estonian Accounting Act.

Classification of real estate

Decision of real estate classification to inventory, investment property or tangible assets is done based on Management Board’s intention for the future use of the object.

Real estate is recognized as inventory if the objective is sale or resale of real estate during ordinary course of business.

Real estate is recognized as investment property if the objective is to gain lease income, or real estate is held or developed for lease purpose. In addition, such real estate may be held for long-term capital appreciation.

Real estate used for rendering other business services or used for administrative purposes and with a useful life of over one year is considered to be tangible assets.

Valuation of inventory and investment property

According to the Company's principles, inventories are stated on the balance sheet at the lower of cost value or net realizable value. Net realizable value test is carried out annually and independent certified real estate appraiser's reports are used if deemed necessary.

The Company values the investment properties at their fair value determined by the Management Board estimates and independent certified real estate appraisers. In determination of the fair value two methods are used: discounted cash flow method and comparative transaction price method.

Use of judgements, estimates and assumptions

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with IFRS-EU requires the use of certain critical accounting estimates. It also requires the Management Board to exercise its judgment in the process of applying the Company's accounting policies. The areas involving a higher degree of judgment or complexity, or areas where assumptions and estimates are significant to the financial statements are disclosed in Note 2 of the Special Purpose Combined Financial Statements and the Interim Financial Statements.

7. RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

The following subsections analyse the financial results of the Group for the financial years ended 31 December 2009, 2010 and 2011 and for the six months ended 30 June 2012. Financial Information presented in Section 7 (Results of Operations) has been derived from the Group's Special Purpose Combined Financial Statements for the three financial years ended 31 December 2009, 2010, 2011, and from the Interim Financial Statements for the six months ended 30 June 2012.

The Group's operations are spread across four geographical segments: Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, and Germany.

The Group's operations in Estonia mainly consist of the development and sales of apartments in premium residential real estate properties, development and lease of premises in retail and office properties, and management of cash flow generating retail, office and hotel properties. The revenue generated by this segment is directly dependent on the overall sentiment in the premium residential real estate market in Tallinn and the stock of apartments to be sold available to the Group, overall retail sector sentiment in Tallinn as well as stage of the lifecycle of the Group's commercial developments, and overall tourism market trends in Tallinn.

The share of the Estonian segment as a percentage of total revenues of the Group has been relatively stable in 2009-2011 amounting to 61% in 2011, 56% in 2010 and 62% in 2009. However, the share of revenues from Estonian segment to Group's total revenues decreased substantially in the first half of 2012 amounting to 17%.

The Group's operations in Latvia mainly consist of the development and sales of apartments in premium residential real estate properties, development and lease of office properties, and management of cash flow generating hotel properties. The revenue generated by this segment is directly dependent on the overall sentiment in the premium residential real estate market in Riga and the stock of apartments to be sold available to the Group, the sentiment in the office property market in Riga, and overall tourism market trends in Riga.

The share of the Latvian segment as a percentage of total revenues of the Group was 14% in the first half of 2012, compared to 17% in 2011, 11% in 2010 and 26% in 2009.

The Group's operations in Lithuania mainly consist of the development and sales of apartments in premium residential real estate properties. The revenue generated by this segment is directly dependent on the overall sentiment in the premium residential real estate market in Vilnius and the stock of apartments to be sold available to the Group.

The share of the Lithuanian segment as a percentage of total revenues of the Group increased in the first half of 2012 to 54% compared to 20% in 2011, 31% in 2010 and 10% in 2009. The share of revenues stemming from Lithuania has been dependent on the presales and sales of Šaltinių Namai Residential Complex.

The Group's operations in Germany consist of the development and management of PK Parkhotel Kurhaus located in Bad Kreuznach, Germany. The revenue generated by this segment is directly dependent on the overall tourism market trends in Bad Kreuznach and its surrounding area.

The share of the German segment as a percentage of total revenues of the Group has been stable amounting to 2% in all three years of 2011, 2010, and 2009. However, the share of the German segment increased to 15% in the first half of 2012 with the Company's acquisition of German hotel operator in November 2011.

It should be noted that a single sizeable transaction in a particular segment in a particular period may change the share of that particular segment in total Group's revenues significantly. However, such changes do not reflect the overall trend in segment revenues.

The following table presents the Group's results of operations for the periods indicated:

The Group's Business Lines

In addition to geographical segmentation described above the Group's revenues can also be divided along four business lines - sales of real estate, rental income, real estate management, and other operations. Sales of real estate consist of the development and sales of apartments in premium residential real estate properties in the Baltic capitals. Lease of commercial premises includes the development and lease of premises in retail and office properties in the Baltic capitals. Real estate management business line revenues are generated by the management of cash flow generating retail, office and hotel properties. Other operations mainly include provision of consulting or other services.

The following table presents the Group's revenue split by business lines:

Revenue

('000 EUR)	Six months ended 30 June		Change, %
	2011	2012
Total revenue	8,016	9,932	24%
Estonia	5,623	1,715	-70%
Latvia	1,195	1,362	14%
Lithuania	980	5,317	443%
Germany	218	1,538	606%

Consolidated revenue of the Group in the first half of 2012 increased by 24% compared to the corresponding period of 2011 and amounted to EUR 9,932 thousand.

Revenue from Estonia in the first half of 2012 decreased by 70% and amounted to EUR 1,715 thousand. One of the main reasons for lower revenue from Estonia was decrease in rental revenue due to the divestment of Kristiine Shopping Centre in 2011. Another reason for the decrease in revenues from Estonia was lower level of apartment inventory available for sale in the first half of 2012.

Revenue generated in Latvia increased by 14% in the first half of 2012 and amounted to EUR 1,362 thousand. Increase in revenue is attributable to higher rental income and revenue from hotel operations. Additionally, some inventory had been sold in the first half of 2012.

Revenue earned from Lithuania increased by 443% in the first half of 2012 and amounted to EUR 5,317 thousand. Such substantial increase was related to high level of sales of real estate in Šaltinių Namai Residential Complex.

Revenue from Germany increased substantially, reaching EUR 1,538 thousand in the first half of 2012. The Group acquired the hotel operating company in the end of 2011, and hence revenue for the first half of 2011 included only hotel management income, whereas revenue for the first half of 2012 includes also direct hotel revenues.

Costs of goods sold

('000 EUR)	Six months ended 30 June		Change, %
	2011	2012
Total costs of goods sold	5,756	8,070	40%
Overall gross margin, %	28%	19%	n/a
Sales of real estate	1,309	4,419	238%
Rental services	1,416	490	-65%
Real estate management	2,827	2,076	-27%
Other services	204	1,085	432%

The Group's costs of goods sold increased in the first half of 2012 by 40% and reached EUR 8,070 thousand. Increase in costs was higher than sales growth, which resulted in lower gross margin of 19% compared to 28% in the first half of 2011.

Cost of real estate sales constituted the largest part of the total costs of goods sold. Cost of real estate sales increased significantly in the first half of 2012 following more active sales of apartments by the Group and totalled EUR 4,419 thousand, representing 238% increase.

Costs of rental services decreased mainly because of sale of Kristiine Shopping Centre. Cost of providing rental services totalled EUR 490 thousand in the first half of 2012 (-65% in comparison to the corresponding period of 2011).

Costs of providing real estate management decreased by 27% in the first half of 2012 to EUR 2,076 thousand. This decrease was offset by an increase in costs of providing other services that totalled EUR 1,085 thousand in the first six months of 2012. This was related to a change in service classification in the first half of 2012.

Operating expenses

('000 EUR)	Six months ended 30 June		Change, %
	2011	2012
Total operating expenses	2,945	2,996	2%

Other administrative expenses	1,428	1,712	20%

The Group increased marketing expenses significantly in the first half of 2012 to EUR 289 thousand, which was related to higher level of sales of real estate.

Administrative expenses of the Group decreased slightly in the first half of 2012 and amounted to EUR 2,707 thousand (-2% in comparison to the first half of 2011). The slight decrease was mainly caused by the 26% decrease in staff expenses, which was almost offset by 20% increase in other administrative expenses.

Other operating income and expenses

The Group's other income in the first half of 2012 amounted to EUR 118 thousand. The figure is not substantial as the Group had not sold any investment property during this period.

Other expenses of the Group increased by 159% and reached EUR 1,220 thousand in the first half of 2012. The increase is mainly attributable to the provision of EUR 709 thousand related to a pending legal dispute. Please also read Section 12 (Legal Proceedings) of Part XI (Business).

Financial income and expenses

Financial income of the Group in the first half of 2012 decreased to EUR 16 thousand.

Consolidated revenue of the Group in 2011 decreased by 17% and amounted to EUR 17,449 thousand.

Revenue from Estonia in 2011 decreased by 10% and amounted to EUR 10,569 thousand. The Group increased the revenue from sales of real estate in Estonia considerably as inventory related to Ilmarine Quarter, Tondi Quarter and other projects was sold amid market recovery. However, this effect was outweighed by a substantial decrease in revenue earned from lease of commercial premises and from real estate management as Kristiine Shopping Centre was divested during the first half of 2011.

Revenue generated in Latvia increased by 29% in 2011 and amounted to EUR 3,038 thousand. The Group increased the revenue from sales of real estate in Latvia as inventory related to completed projects was sold as market recovered. Revenue from PK Riga Hotel operations also showed growth as both occupancy rate and average room price improved in 2011. Meanwhile rental income from World Trade Centre Riga project remained stable in 2011.

Revenue earned from Lithuania decreased by 47% in 2011 and amounted to EUR 3,406 thousand. The decrease was related to the lower level of sales of real estate in Šaltīņi Namai Residential Complex, where most of the inventory from the first stage of the project had already been sold.

Revenue from Germany stayed at the same level of EUR 436 thousand in 2011 as the PK Parkhotel Kurhaus operations remained stable.

Costs of goods sold

('000 EUR)	Financial year ended 31 December		Change, %
	2010	2011
Total costs of goods sold	17,015	16,407	-4%
Overall gross margin, %	19%	6%	n/a
Sales of real estate	7,733	9,685	25%
Rental services	2,977	1,928	-35%
Real estate management	5,902	4,333	-27%
Other services	403	461	14%

The Group's costs of goods sold slightly decreased in 2011. The total costs of goods sold amounted to EUR 16,407 thousand, resulting in overall gross margin of 6% in 2011. Even though costs of sales decreased, more significant deterioration of sales resulted in lower gross margin when compared to 19% observed in 2010.

Cost of real estate sales constituted the largest part of the total costs of goods sold. Cost of real estate sales increased significantly in 2011 mainly because of inventory write-off in the amount of EUR 3,028 thousand and totalled EUR 9,685 thousand representing a 25% increase.

Cost base of rental and real estate management revenue decreased mainly because of sale of Kristiine Shopping Centre during the first half of 2011. Cost of providing rental services totalled EUR 1,928 thousand in 2011 (-35% in comparison to 2010) and cost of real estate management amounted to EUR 4,333 thousand in 2011 (-27% in comparison to 2010).

Cost of providing other services reached EUR 461 thousand in 2011.

Operating expenses

('000 EUR)	Financial year ended 31 December		Change, %
	2010	2011
Total operating expenses	4,638	5,589	21%
Marketing expenses	609	352	-42%
Administrative expenses	4,029	5,237	30%
Staff expenses	1,656	2,399	45%
Other administrative expenses	2,373	2,838	20%

In 2011 marketing expenses of the Group decreased significantly and amounted to EUR 352 thousand. The Group reduced its marketing expenses mainly due to a lower amount of inventory of residential apartments available for sale.

Level of administrative expenses of the Group in 2011 increased and amounted to EUR 5,237 thousand. The 30% increase was mainly driven by 45% higher staff costs reaching EUR 2,399 thousand. The higher staff costs in 2011 were associated with bonuses related to the sale of Kristiine Shopping Centre and by the addition of new employees to the in-house engineering department of the Group. Other administrative costs in 2011, which increased to EUR 2,838 thousand, were affected by the additional costs incurred by the listing procedure of the Group and also with the costs related to the sale of Kristiine Shopping Centre.

Other operating income and expenses

The Group's other income in 2011 amounted to EUR 54,280 thousand, which is considerably more than EUR 219 thousand in 2010. The substantial increase in other income in 2011 was attributable to the income from divestment of Kristiine Shopping Centre in the first half of the year.

Other expenses of the Group in 2011 decreased to EUR 1,875. The decrease was caused by a lower level of provisions recognised. In 2011 provisions recognised amounted to EUR 700 thousand. In 2010 the respective figure was significantly higher and stood at EUR 3,585 thousand due to a legal dispute related to the divested Domina Shopping Centre in Riga. Most of the provisions made were regained in 2011 and were recorded under the financial income as income from subsidiaries due to the fact that the subsidiary involved in the dispute was profitably divested in 2011.

Financial income and expenses

Financial income of the Group amounted to EUR 4,770 thousand in 2011, demonstrating a substantial increase from 2010. The increase was driven by income arising from transactions with participations in subsidiaries amounting to EUR 2,736 thousand, which was recorded due to the sale of two subsidiaries of the Group: Pro Kapital Rus LLC and PK Investments SIA.

Financial expenses of the Group decreased to EUR 2,877 thousand in 2011. The interest expenses in 2011 were significantly lower as the debt associated with Kristiine Shopping Centre was repaid in May 2011.

Income tax

The Group has incurred income tax cost in the amount of EUR 351 thousand in 2011.

Net profit

The Group's net profit in 2011 totalled EUR 50,102 thousand, a EUR 57,122 thousand increase compared to 2010. Such a significant increase in net profit is to a large extent attributable to income from the sale of Kristiine Shopping Centre.

Revenue from Estonia decreased by 13% in 2010 and amounted to EUR 11,779 thousand. Revenue from Latvia decreased by 59% in 2010 and amounted to EUR 2,356 thousand. Both segments' results were negatively affected by unfavourable market environment in the commercial real estate field in the Baltic States, a standstill in the residential real estate market and a small number of sellable apartments in the Group's portfolio in Latvia and Estonia.

Revenue from Lithuania increased by 186% in 2010 and amounted to EUR 6,480 thousand. The significant increase was caused by active sales of real estate in the Šaltinių Namai Residential Complex.

Revenue from Germany decreased slightly and amounted to EUR 436 thousand in 2010 as the PK Parkhotel Kurhaus operations remained stable.

Rental services	2,748	2,977	8%
Real estate management	6,930	5,902	-15%
Other services	27	403	1,393%

The Group managed to decrease the total costs of goods sold in 2010 by 5%, resulting in increase of gross margin to 19%.

The cost of real estate sales constituted by far the largest part of total costs of goods sold. Costs of real estate sales decreased slightly along with the decrease in construction costs and totalled EUR 7,733 thousand in 2010.

The Group had quite a stable cost base in providing rental and facility management services, thus negative changes in revenue due to unfavourable market conditions had an adverse effect on gross profit. Costs of providing rental services increased to EUR 2,977 thousand in 2010. Costs of hotel operations in turn decreased to EUR 5,902 thousand in 2010.

Costs of providing other services increased to EUR 403 thousand in 2010.

The level of administrative expenses of the Group in 2010 remained stable, reaching EUR 4,029 thousand (-2% in comparison to 2009).

Other operating income and expenses

The Group's other income in 2010 amounted to EUR 219 thousand. The figure is not substantial as the Group had not sold any investment property during 2010.

Other expenses of the Group decreased to EUR 4,600 thousand in 2010. Provisions of EUR 3,585 thousand due to a legal dispute related to the divested shopping centre Domina Shopping represented the largest portion of other expenses in 2010.

Financial income and expenses

Financial income of the Group in 2010 decreased to EUR 2,120 thousand.

Financial expenses of the Group increased significantly to EUR 4,174 thousand in 2010. The rise in interest expenses in 2010 was caused mainly due to interest paid to convertible bonds issued in 2010.

Income tax

The Group has incurred income tax cost in the amount of EUR 17 thousand in 2010.

Net profit

Due to the reasons described above, the Group's net loss was larger in 2010 than in 2009 by EUR 5,705 thousand and amounted to EUR 7,020 thousand.

8. FINANCIAL RISK MANAGEMENT

The management of financial risks is centralized in the Group's financial department, which is responsible for all the borrowings within the Group as well as all exposure linked to the interest, currency, credit, liquidity, and fair value risks.

Interest Rate Risk

The loans and borrowings of the Group include instruments with both fixed and floating rate interest rates. Interest risk arises from the floating rate borrowings that are mostly related to EURIBOR base rate. Changes in floating interest rates and changes in average market interest rates affect the Group's interest expenses. The Group regularly compares potential losses arising from interest rate fluctuation against the cost of hedging. In a majority of instances, no hedging has taken place, since the hedging expenses would have exceeded the potential losses arising from interest rate fluctuations.

Currency Risk

Foreign exchange risk arises when future commercial transactions or recognised assets or liabilities are denominated in a currency that is not the entity's functional currency. The revenue of the Group is primarily denominated in EUR, LVL and LTL, while the expenses of the Group are primarily denominated in EUR. Thus the Group's main currency risk is that the rate at which LVL and LTL are pegged to EUR changes or that any of these currencies ceases to be pegged to EUR.

The Group has not hedged against currency risk, as the Management Board has not deemed the foreign currency risk arising from the potential changes to the currency pegs significant.

Credit Risk

The Group's maximum credit risk exposure in respect of unsecured current and non-current receivables as at 30 June 2012 was EUR 2,623 thousand (EUR 2,543 thousand as at 30 June 2011). There is no significant concentration of credit risk within the Group.

Liquidity Risk

The Management Board's objective for managing the Group's liquidity risk is to maintain a balance between continuity of funding and flexibility through the use of bank overdrafts, bank loans, bonds and other debentures. Excess liquidity in case such arises is invested in short-term money market instruments through credit institutions.

Fair Value

The Management Board believes that there might be differences between the carrying value and the fair value of assets and liabilities in the Group's Financial Statements due to inventories being accounted for at cost value on the balance sheet and therefore their book value being significantly lower than the value attributed to inventories by independent appraisers report.

Other than that the Management Board believes that there are no significant differences between the carrying value and the fair value of assets and liabilities in the Group's Financial Statements as investment property and tangible assets (hotels owned by the Group are accounted as tangible assets) are measured using the fair value method, and revaluation is performed on regular basis as required by regulations.

9. CAPITAL RISK MANAGEMENT

The purpose of capital risk management is to provide the Group's sustainability and to ensure profit for the shareholders through optimal structure of capital. Please refer to the Special Purpose Combined Financial Statements and the Interim Financial Statements for further information.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

The Group finances its activities through using internal and external sources of capital:

- the Group uses working capital (defined as current assets minus current liabilities) management on a regular basis as a tool for achieving its overall capital structure strategies. The Group regularly inspects its receivables and actively reviews customer policies, if needed;

- retained earnings are substantial source of internal financing;
- the Group has repeatedly issued convertible bonds in order to finance its activities; and
- even though bank loans are used as a source of external financing, the Company is very cautious when it comes to debt financing and strives to keep debt financing at less than 50% of total capital. The Company monitors on regular basis its interest coverage, gearing and debt/equity indicators. As the debt financing implies stricter restrictions to the Company's ownership structure, lending and asset transfer procedures, debt financing has to be approved by the Company's Supervisory Council.

The table below presents the Group's capital resources as at 30 June 2012:

('000 EUR)	As at 30 June 2012
Working capital	43,559
Retained earnings	46,735
Convertible bonds	11,272
Bank loans	12,223

Please refer to the Special Purpose Combined Financial Statements and the Interim Financial Statements for further information.

('000 EUR)	Financial year ended 31 December			Six months ended 30 June 2012

Cash flows from operating activities do not include revenues from the sale of investment properties.

The following table presents the Group's cash flows from operating activities for the periods indicated:

Cash flows from operating activities of the Group have fluctuated significantly. In 2009 the Group's cash flow from operating activities was significantly positive, totalling EUR 11.3 million. In 2010 cash flow from operating activities decreased to EUR 0.9 million. In 2011 operating cash flow decreased further to the negative amount of EUR 19.4 million and in the first half of 2012 it was EUR -3.2 million.

Very important factor that affected cash flows from operating activities was change in balance sheet items. Changes in working capital items (current receivables, inventories, customer advances, current payables, taxes payable and short-term provisions) resulted in positive cash flows of EUR 1.4 million in 2009, EUR 13.8 million in 2010, EUR 6.7 million in 2011 and EUR 3.9 million in the first half of 2012, mainly caused by decreasing levels of inventories and current receivables. Hence, changes in working capital items positively affected cash flows in 2009, 2010, 2011 and the first half of 2012.

In 2011 and the first half of 2012 operating cash flow was negatively affected by other changes in balance sheet items. Other changes amounted to EUR -1.7 million in 2009, EUR -6.4 million in 2010, EUR -22.4 million in 2011 and EUR -6.3 million in the first half of 2012. Other changes in cash flow items resulted mainly from non-monetary settlements of transactions resulting from the Division carried out during the second half of 2011.

Cash flows from investing activities

The Group's cash flows from investing activities consist of cash flows related to investments in fixed assets and investment property, sale of fixed assets and investment property, acquisitions and disposals of subsidiaries, as well as interest received.

The following table presents the Group's cash flows from investing activities for the periods indicated:

('000 EUR)	Financial year ended 31 December			Six months ended 30 June
	2009	2010	2011	2012
Additions to fixed assets	-95	-43	-39	-66

Net cash from (used in) investing activities	-403	-14,768	95,764	-289

Cash flows from investing activities of the Group have been varying significantly lately. The Group's cash flows from investing activities amounted to EUR -0.4 million in 2009, EUR -14.8 million in 2010, EUR 95.8 million in 2011 and EUR -0.3 million in the first half of 2012. Significantly positive cash flow from investing activities in 2011 resulted from the sale of Kristiine Shopping Centre as proceeds from sale amounted to EUR 105.0 million. The Group did not perform significant investment activities in the first half of 2012.

Cash flows from investing activities in 2009 and 2010 were mainly related to investments to fixed assets and investment property. The Group's investing activities normally include acquisitions of land and buildings and construction or renovation works related to the real estate project development. Amount of investments in fixed assets and investment property made by the Group was rather low due to unfavourable market environment and amounted to EUR 1.2 million in 2009, EUR 14.9 million in 2010, EUR 0.4 million in 2011 and EUR 0.3 million in the first half of 2012. Rather substantial additions to investment property in 2010 were mainly related to the second extension of Kristiine Shopping Centre in Tallinn.

Additionally, cash flow from investing activities in 2011 was significantly affected by acquisition and disposal of subsidiaries. EUR 23.0 million was paid in cash for acquisition of minority interest in the subsidiary AS Täismaja. At the same time, EUR 6.4 million was received in cash for shares in PK Investments SIA that were sold in 2011.

Cash flows from financing activities

('000 EUR)	Financial year ended 31 December			Six months ended 30 June
	2009	2010	2011	2012
Proceeds from convertible bonds	3,279	5,714	1,905	0
Proceeds from loans / debt	466	28,183	2,843	0
Repayment of loans / debt	-10,144	-17,981	-70,578	-2,369
Interests paid	-3,205	-4,046	-3,097	-679
Net cash from (used in) financing activities	-9,604	11,870	-68,927	-3,048

The Group's cash flows from financing activities amounted to EUR -9.6 million in 2009, EUR 11.9 million in 2010, EUR -68.9 million in 2011 and EUR -3.0 million in the first half of 2012. Significant cash outflow in 2009, 2011 and the first half of 2012 was attributable to repayment of loans. Positive cash flow in 2010 was a result of debt repayments being smaller than the new debt drawdowns.

The Group generally finances its business operations through a combination of operating cash flow and debt. A significant component of the indebtedness of the Group relates to the development of real estate projects, where construction activities and running costs are partly financed through debt. As typically each of the real estate development projects lies in a separate subsidiary, the loans for financing the development activity of the specific projects are taken on by relevant subsidiaries of the Group. In addition, some of the loans are taken on by the Company for general corporate purposes and also for further providing intra-group loans.

As at 30 June 2012, the Group had a total of EUR 12,223 thousand interest-bearing bank loans outstanding, EUR 2,369 thousand less than at 31 December 2011. Decrease is associated with the repayment of part of the loan to Swedbank AB (Lithuania).

The Group had in total three significant bank loan agreements outstanding at 30 June 2012:

- a bank loan agreement with Swedbank AS (Estonia) with an outstanding amount of EUR 2,606 thousand granted to AS Pro Kapital Eesti and AS Tondi Kvartal, subsidiaries of the Group;
- a bank loan agreement with AS Swedbank (Latvia) with an outstanding amount of EUR 4,445 thousand granted to SIA “INVESTHOTEL”, a subsidiary of the Group; and
- a bank loan agreement with Swedbank AB (Lithuania) with an outstanding amount of EUR 5,156 thousand granted to PK Invest UAB, a subsidiary of the Group.

All the bank loans are denominated in EUR with variable interest rate (EURIBOR plus a margin).

The Group has conducted several convertible bond issues over the past three financial years. As at 30 June 2012, the Group had in total EUR 11,272 thousand of convertible bonds outstanding. The convertible bonds are denominated in EUR and have a fixed interest rate of 7% per annum. For further information on convertible bonds please refer to Section 6 (Option Rights, Convertible Securities and Securities with Warrants) of Part XIII (Information on Company, Shares and Share Capital).

As far as the Company is aware, no facts have been omitted that would render such information, statistical data and studies misleading, but the Company accepts no further responsibility in respect of such information, statistical data and studies. It should be noted that in some cases it is difficult to obtain comprehensive and reliable information about the Baltic real estate markets due to the fact the participants in the real estate markets are mostly closely held companies that rarely share detailed information about their business and operating results.

1. MACROECONOMIC OVERVIEW OF THE BALTIC STATES

Since the restoration of independence from the Soviet Union in 1991, all three Baltic States have pursued bold economic reforms including price and trade liberalization and timely privatization. Having endured the Russian debt crisis of 1998, the Baltic States began re-orienting their exports towards the EU. The EU now accounts for the majority of these countries' imports and exports as well as for most of the foreign direct investment (the "FDI") to them based on the national statistical agencies of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania.

Estonia and Latvia joined the World Trade Organization in 1999 and Lithuania in 2001. All three countries acceded to the EU and joined NATO in 2004. Estonia is currently the wealthiest of the three Baltic States according to Eurostat with the gross domestic product (the "GDP") per capita amounting to 64% of EU-27 average in 2010 (based on purchasing power standard), followed by Lithuania (57%) and Latvia (51%).

As a result of trade imbalances, credit expansion and overheated labour market as well as global financial turmoil, rapid economic growth experienced by the three Baltic States since early 2000s gave way to a steep recession in 2008 and 2009. While the downturn has had, among other effects, an adverse effect on asset prices and raised unemployment, it has also allowed countries to improve their trade balances, improve competitiveness of exports, carry out structural reforms and restrain inflation.

As a result, Estonia joined the Eurozone in 2011. This milestone also marked the end of devaluation speculations about the Baltic currencies that had surfaced during the crisis. Based on policymakers' statements, Latvia and Lithuania are expected to join the Eurozone in 2014.

The path of structural reforms through internal devaluation has so far proven to be successful in the Baltic States as it led the way to a sustainable and healthy recovery in 2010, 2011 and 2012. The fiscal consolidation and structural reforms that most of the EU countries are going through at the moment have already taken place in the Baltic States, where governments' budgets and debt levels are under control. As a sign of a significantly more stable macroeconomic and political environment the International Monetary Fund and European Commission in December 2011 officially ended the three-year bailout program in Latvia, citing a revived economy and fiscal discipline.

The main driver behind a quick recovery has been improved competitiveness achieved through internal devaluation, which in turn helped to jumpstart the exports sector. Main trading partners for Baltic economies include Germany and the Nordics, economies that have remained relatively unharmed from the sovereign debt crisis with the largest damage on Eurozone's periphery. The key economic indicators of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania are depicted in tables below:

Based on the World Economic Outlook published in April 2012, the International Monetary Fund (“IMF”) expects the GDP growth for Estonia to be 2.0% and 3.6% in 2012 and in 2013 accordingly. Eurostat, in turn, forecasts GDP growth of 1.6% in 2012 and 3.8% in 2013, whereas Bank of Estonia forecasts 1.9% growth in 2012 and 3.6% in 2013. The unemployment rate is forecasted to decrease to 10.4% and 9.8% in 2012 and 2013 respectively.

According to the IMF the Latvia’s economy is expected to grow by 2.0% and 2.5% in real terms in 2012 and 2013 accordingly. Eurostat, in turn, forecasts GDP growth of 2.2% in 2012 and 3.6% in 2013, whereas Bank of Latvia forecasts 3.5-4.0% growth in 2012 and 2.7% in 2013. The unemployment rate is forecasted to remain unchanged in 2012 and to decrease to 14.6% in 2013.

According to the IMF the Lithuania’s economy is expected to grow by 2.0% and 2.7% in real terms in 2012 and 2013 accordingly. Eurostat, in turn, forecasts GDP growth of 2.4% in 2012 and 3.5% in 2013, whereas Bank of Lithuania forecasts 3.0% growth in 2012 and 3.5% in 2013. The unemployment rate is forecasted to decrease to 14.2% and 12.9% in 2012 and 2013 respectively.

Economic recovery of the Baltic States following the internal devaluation and fiscal consolidation is in sharp contrast to the concerns about the future economic development in most of the Eurozone, which are related to unsustainably high sovereign debt levels. According to Eurostat, total sovereign gross debt of the Eurozone reached 87% of GDP in 2011 and is expected to increase further. Inability to implement austerity measures and tame growth of the sovereign debt levels across the Eurozone has created significant uncertainty about the future of the monetary union.

Austerity in numerous European countries, as well as low consumer and investor confidence, has negative impact on the economic development of the EU. According to Eurostat, growth of real GDP in the EU slowed down in 2011 to 1.5%, and the EU economy is forecasted to stagnate in 2012. GDP of Eurozone is expected to decline by 0.3% in 2012. As a result, unemployment level has increased considerably to 9.7% in the EU, 10.2% in the Eurozone and is expected to rise further in 2012.

Even though economic growth in the EU, which is the largest export market for the Baltic States, is slowing down, Estonia, Lithuania and Latvia showed the highest GDP growth rates in 2011. Despite potential negative effects of fragile economic growth of the EU on the Baltic exports, GDP is expected to continue recovering in 2012 driven by improved consumer confidence, internal demand and relatively healthy performance of the main trading partners in Northern Europe and Germany,

2. REAL ESTATE MARKETS IN EUROPE

In the following section a comparison between the real estate markets in the Baltic States and Europe is provided. This section covers residential and retail real estate market as those are the core areas of the Group's operations. Please also read Section 3 (Real Estate Market in the Group's Key Markets) in this Part X (Industry Overview) for a more detailed description about the hotel and office property markets in the Baltic States.

Residential property

As illustrated in the below table, the living area per capita in the Baltic capitals remains significantly lower than in selected Nordic and Central and Eastern European ("CEE") capitals:

City ¹⁾	Living area per resident, m ²
Copenhagen	41.9
Stockholm	38.0
Helsinki	34.0
Tallinn	29.4
Warsaw	26.9
Vilnius	25.2
Riga	16.0

¹⁾ Data is based on the period of 2007-2009, except for Copenhagen that is based on 2011

Source: Eurostat, Urban Audit, Statistics Denmark

There is also a gap in the average quality of building stock. Many residents in the Baltic capitals live in obsolete, low-quality housing estates built during the communist era. The expansion of mortgage lending during mid-2000's provided possibility for many families to move to newer premises while the majority of the stock is still out of date.

Overheated Baltic residential real estate market saw prices tumble in 2008-2009 in some parts of the region by more than 40% when compared to the peak. Currently observers believe that the price correction has made the housing more affordable and prices more sustainable. Current residential property price levels in Baltic capitals provide significant room for convergence with CEE and Nordic capitals' price levels as indicated in the table below:

Stockholm	6,991
Helsinki	6,184
Prague	4,040
Copenhagen	3,983
Warsaw	3,326
Riga	2,657
Vilnius	2,189

In the long run, the Baltic and CEE housing market will be driven by such factors as the deteriorating condition of Soviet-era prefabricated housing, expected further emergence of middle class and growth in purchasing power.

Retail property

The Baltic capitals have witnessed rapid expansion of retail space during the last decade as retail market has thrived due to consumers' growing incomes. Nevertheless the total retail GLA per capita measure today in Tallinn, Riga and Vilnius is still considerably lower than in the Nordic capitals and selected CEE capitals. However, the structure of retail space differs – shopping centres are much more popular than high street retail in the Baltic countries. Thus, shopping centre GLA per capita in Riga and Tallinn is comparable to Nordic capitals. In Vilnius, though, it still remains lower than in other European cities.

City¹⁾	Shopping centre GLA per '000 population, m²
Stockholm	879
Riga	876
Tallinn	808
Warsaw	785
Copenhagen	750
Prague	687
Helsinki	472

Some of the major European retailers remain underexposed or not present at all in the Baltic markets, potentially creating demand for retail space in the near future. One of the main constraints cited by international players has been the lack of scale in the Baltic markets. However, as the purchasing power and consumer preferences of the Baltic consumers have been converging with their peers in the rest of the EU expansion of some of the leading retailers to the Baltic market has become more feasible.

Inditex, the largest global clothing retailer, is successfully represented with different brands in all three Baltic capitals. H&M, the second largest global clothing retailer is currently not present in the Baltic market while it is seeking to open its first stores in the region in Riga in autumn 2012.

The prime shopping centre rent levels in the Baltic capitals remain considerably lower as compared to rent levels in the Nordic and CEE capitals.

City¹⁾	Prime Shopping Centre Rent, EUR per m² per month

Helsinki	140
Copenhagen	106
Prague	90
Warsaw	79
Tallinn	44

Source: Colliers International

According to Colliers International the yields of retail properties have been decreasing in Stockholm, Helsinki and Warsaw in 2011, whereas the yields in the Baltic capitals have stayed flat. The most up-to-date proxy for assessing the prevailing yield in the Baltic States is the sale of Kristiine Shopping Centre that was closed in spring of 2011 with an estimated yield of 8.25%. Please also read "Sale of Kristiine Shopping Centre" in Section 9 (Material Contracts) of Part XI (Business). There have been no recent transactions with prime shopping centres in Riga or Vilnius, but the estimated yield is slightly higher in Latvia and Lithuania when compared to Estonia.

City¹⁾	Prime Shopping Centre Yields
Stockholm	5.00%
Helsinki	5.25%
Copenhagen	5.50%
Prague	6.50%
Warsaw	6.50%
Tallinn	7.50%
Vilnius	8.00%

Source: Colliers International

The considerably higher yield levels coupled with a favourable economic outlook have made retail property market in the Baltic capitals attractive for foreign capital. After the acquisition of Kristiine Shopping Centre from the Group, Citycon Oyj, a listed Finnish shopping centre operator, owns and operates three centres in the Baltic States including Rocca Al Mare, the largest one in Tallinn. In addition, Citycon Oyj operates a shopping centre in Vilnius and has publicly stated that it is looking for acquisition targets in Latvia.

Office property

Similarly to retail space, the Baltic capitals have seen significant growth in the supply of the office space over the last decade. The demand for modern high quality office spaces has often been driven by international companies looking to set up or expand their Baltic operations. This trend is expected to continue in the future.

Currently the prime office space rent levels in the Baltic capitals remain lower compared to rent levels in the Nordic and CEE capitals.

City¹⁾	Average A class rent, EUR per m² per month
Stockholm	40.7
Warsaw	22.5
Helsinki	22.0
Prague	17.5
Copenhagen	14.5
Tallinn	13.2

3. REAL ESTATE MARKET IN THE GROUP'S KEY MARKETS

Tallinn, Estonia

Residential property market

According to Statistics Estonia, approximately 525,000 people live in the Greater Tallinn region, representing about 40% of the total population of Estonia. The Greater Tallinn region comprises City of Tallinn (400,000 people) and the surrounding Harju County (125,000 people).

The city of Tallinn is Estonia's economic centre having historically contributed approximately 50% of the country's GDP. The population of Tallinn city centre has dropped by almost a fifth since 1990 due to emigration and migration towards the suburbs. The residential stock in Tallinn is ageing – according to the population census conducted by Statistics Estonia in 2011, around 67% of households live in a building constructed before 1981.

Supply and demand for residential property

Just over 1,000 new residential units were completed in Tallinn in 2011, which represents a decrease of 19% from 2010 and a 67% drop from peak level in 2007. Meanwhile, the Estonian Building Register reports that building permits for construction of more than 1,500 dwellings were issued in 2011 in Tallinn, representing an increase of 56% from 2010 and reflecting an increased activity in developers' pipeline. However, the figure of building permits is still 65% down from peak level achieved in 2006. In total, the building permits issued in 2011 in Tallinn covered 130,500 m² of floor space, whereas completed projects covered 86,700 m² of floor space.

Most of the development activity is taking place in centre and centre periphery of the City of Tallinn. While the financing of real estate development projects is still relatively scarce, players with a reasonable equity buffer and a solid track record have been able to attract financing from major banks. Notable on-going development projects are listed in the table below:

Project name	Location	NSA, m ²	Developer	Status
Väike-Kalamaja	Soo 1	5,800	Metro Capital	Final phase to be completed in 2012
Kodukolde	Helme 14, 16	3,400	Arco Vara	Next phase to be completed in 2012

Data on the planned residential development in Tallinn is limited due to overall scarcity of such projects but also because developers have become more reserved when revealing information. According to available information planned projects include dwellings near Linnahall by developer TTP and business and residential premises next to the Yacht Marina by Admiraliteedi Arenduse. Both projects are located in the centre periphery of City of Tallinn open to the coastline and have been speculated to start first stage development in 2012.

According to Statistics Estonia the number of transactions with dwellings in Tallinn bottomed in Q1 2009 and the market activity has been steadily recovering ever since. In 2011 the number of transactions rose to 7,671 showing year-over-year growth of almost 5%. However, the figure is still relatively modest when compared to more than 12,600 transactions in 2007.

One of the key factors affecting the demand for residential real estate is the availability of mortgage lending. The total value of housing loans outstanding peaked in 2008 and has been gradually declining ever since. The housing loan balance decreased by 1.5% year-over-year in 2011; meanwhile the figure for 2010 and 2009 was 2.3 and 1.6% accordingly. However, the volume of new housing loans granted in Estonia rose by 16% year-over-year to EUR 469 million in 2011. Based on Swedbank, the market leader in mortgage lending, the factors driving the demand are declining unemployment, rising wages, affordable price of residential real estate, and populations's willingness to improve living conditions. On the other hand, uncertainty about Eurozone's macroeconomic situation has been lately acting as a drag on consumer confidence.

Residential property prices

After a surge in prices of 30% per annum in 2005 and 2006 and stabilization in 2007 residential property market experienced sharp correction in 2008. According to Statistics Estonia, average price of dwellings in Tallinn declined by 18% in 2008 and further 26% in 2009. The bottom was reached in Q3 2009 and in 2010 the dwelling prices in Tallinn increased by 16%. In the end of 2011 the prices had increased by 14% when compared to 2010 year end levels, but remain still more than 27% lower when compared to the peak level reached in Q1 2007.

The construction price index decreased by 8.5% in 2009 and 2.8% in 2010 in Estonia. The main reason for this decrease was a contraction in labour and construction material costs. In 2011 the construction price index increased by 3.1%.

The table below summarizes the prices of new apartments in districts of Tallinn in December 2011. The price range of existing apartments is wide due to large differences in quality of construction and location:

District	Price range, EUR/m ²
Old Town	3,000-3,200 ¹⁾
Centre	1,900-2,400

Centre periphery 1,400-2,000

Retail property market

After a rapid development in the early 2000s, the market for retail properties has been fairly stable since 2004, when two new major shopping centres, Ülemiste Keskus and Viru Keskus with GLA of 37,500 m² and 26,300 m² respectively, were opened. According to Colliers International, retail stock in Tallinn increased by around 30,000 m² in 2010 and 5,000 m² in 2011. Total retail space in Tallinn reached 484,500 m² by the end of 2011. During 2009 and 2010, two significant expansion projects were completed by existing shopping centres in Tallinn summarized in table below:

Shopping centre	Location	Developer	Expansion GLA, m²	Total GLA, m²	Completion
Rocca Al Mare	Paldiski mnt 102	Citycon	26,000	53,300	2009

There are several large scale shopping mall projects in Tallinn currently under development. However, according to industry experts it will be difficult to go through with all of them. Thus, developers with a solid track record and ability to attract financing will have a significant first mover advantage.

The major retail property developments can be divided into two categories. First, conventional shopping malls located in prime locations in the City of Tallinn next to high-density traffic areas or in boroughs with high number of inhabitants. Examples include the Group's Peterburi Rd. Shopping Centre and Panorama City shopping mall project of ELL Kinnisvara. Secondly, big box type retail parks located outside Tallinn next to major highways such as Gate Tallinn and American Corner.

The table below summarizes major planned retail property developments in Tallinn:

Shopping centre	Location	Developer	GLA, m²	Status
Peterburi Rd. Shopping Centre	Peterburi road	The Group	55,000	Start of development in 2012, opening in 2014
Panorama City	Smuuli 1	ELL Kinnisvara	55,000	Start of construction in 2012, opening in 2014
Gate Tallinn	Via Baltica highway	Trigon Capital	115,000	Seeking financing

Source: the Company

Demand for retail space in the prime shopping centres remains stable. Some of the smaller shopping malls with inferior location experience lower demand as tenants prefer to be present in large shopping centres with high customer flow and expenditure per customer. According to Colliers International, vacancy rates were less than 2% in major shopping centres in Tallinn in the end of 2011 and stayed low even throughout the market correction in 2009-2010.

The table below summarizes the monthly retail rental rates in Tallinn shopping centres in 2011:

Space	Rent, EUR/m²
Up to 100 m ²	20-43
Over 400 m ²	8-15

Retail market in Estonia has seen positive developments in 2010-2011 after sharp decline in 2009, suggesting optimistic outlook for retail property segment in the next years. According to Statistics Estonia in the first half of 2012 retail turnover volume measured in real terms increased by 17% in comparison to the first half of 2011.

Hotel property market

There are in total 58 certified hotels in Tallinn with a total of 6,637 rooms, as reported by Colliers International. Tallinn represents over 60% of the total hotel supply in Estonia. Hotel market in Tallinn is dominated by 4-star hotels, comprising 45% of total hotels and 57% of total rooms. During 2010 and 2011, no new significant hotel projects were added to the market. Based on Colliers International, new supply will be rather limited in the next couple of years.

After a drop in 2009, Estonian tourism market has seen recovery – 2,726 thousand tourists were accommodated in Estonia during 2011 based on Statistics Estonia, a 13% increase compared to 2010 and also representing a new record high. About two thirds of the tourists were foreign.

According to Colliers International, the number of tourist nights spent in Estonia rose by 15% year-over-year to 5,400 thousand, whereas the respective figures for Tallinn were 22% and 2,790 thousand. Around 73% of tourist nights spent in Tallinn were related to leisure travellers.

Along with tourism market growth the occupancy rate of the hotels has been climbing in Tallinn. The average occupancy rate in 2011 was 60%, whereas the relevant figure in 2010 and 2009 has been 52% and 44% respectively, as reported by Colliers International. The average room rates in 2011 also experienced growth increasing to approximately EUR 33 per night. The hotel occupancy rate is subject to seasonality – during July, the peak month, occupancy rates have historically more than doubled when compared to the low season during the winter.

Tallinn has a well-developed Central Business District (the “CBD”) located next to the Old Town, where most of the high-rise office buildings are clustered together. While financial institutions have traditionally chosen Tallinn’s CBD as their location, high-tech companies are headquartered in clusters such as Tehnopolis situated next to the Tallinn’s Technical University and Ülemiste Technopolis situated near the airport.

According to Colliers International, the office property development market during 2010 and 2011 was in a standstill as only one major project was completed – a built-to-suit office building for Estonian Forensic Science Institute with GLA of 10,000 m². In the end of 2011 the total office space stock in Tallinn amounted to 480,000 m². However, more active development of office property spaces in 2012 and 2013 is expected.

The table below summarizes notable on-going office development projects in Tallinn:

The office property market has seen a healthy rebound from the 2009 downturn. According to Colliers International, recovery has taken place due to a quick response from landlords who were willing to offer more flexible terms. This resulted in rapidly decreasing vacancy rates – after peaking at 30% level for class A premises in 2009 the vacancy rates in 2011 had fallen below 5%.

Increasing demand contributed to rental rate stabilization during 2010-2011.

Office	Rent, EUR/m ²

Riga, Latvia

Residential property market

The Greater Riga area has a population of one million people, which represents 49% of the total population of Latvia. Riga is the largest metropolitan area in the Baltic States and a major regional logistics and financial centre. The Greater Riga area encompasses Riga (population 700,107), the resort town Jurmala (55,767) and the surrounding Riga and Ogre districts (333,893). The Greater Riga area contributes more than half of Latvia's GDP. Around three quarters of the residential construction in Latvia is concentrated in the Greater Riga region. The residential stock in Riga region is ageing – according to the population census conducted by Statistics Latvia in 2011, around 90% of dwellings were constructed before 1981.

The following table summarizes the development of statistics relating to the property market in Latvia in 2007-2011:

Supply and demand for residential property

In Riga the three most common types of residential development include (i) high-rise structures within existing built-up areas (the Clusters of Apartment Blocks (the "CAB") or low-cost housing in satellite towns), (ii) upscale apartments in central Riga and at the seashore, and (iii) single-family, semi-detached or low-rise housing in the emerging suburban belt. The latter segment has been gaining popularity also after the completion of several large-scale infrastructure improvement projects, most notably the Southern Bridge.

Amid shrinking residential real estate market, development of new projects has been declining. Some of the existing developments were finished during 2009, and residential construction reached the bottom in 2010. 341 new apartments were completed in Riga in 2010, which is more than 80% decline from 1,858 apartments in 2009. However, as demand revived, new residential developments were started in the end of 2010, and 1,533 new apartments were built in Riga during 2011.

The market for lower to middle class apartments is relatively saturated. According to Ober-Haus, there are just over 1,800 newly built apartments available in the primary market. Banks are waiting until the market recovers further, hence keeping most of the seized apartments. At the same time, there is lack of supply of upscale premium residential projects. Premium locations include Riga Old Town, quiet centre "embassy district" of Riga and Jurmala. It is expected that there will remain shortage of high-quality apartments in new premium projects as demand will continue rising.

The table below summarizes recent premium residential developments in Riga as well as notable on-going development projects:

Project	Location	Developer	Apartments	EUR/m²	Completion
Tallinas 1	Tallinas 1	Global Properties Consulting	47	1,700-2,100	2011

Demand, which picked up in the second half of 2009 was generated by local as well as foreign buyers who believe in bottoming of the market and again consider real estate as an investment object. Banks are still modest in financing real estate purchases, as mortgage portfolio of Latvian banks continued to decline throughout 2009-2011. According to Colliers International, more than half of residential transactions did not involve bank financing in 2010. Nevertheless, decreasing interest rates on new housing loans increase attractiveness of the bank financing.

Since July 2010, a new regulation allows foreigners to obtain a temporary residence permit in Latvia by purchasing real estate worth over EUR 142,300 in Riga or EUR 71,200 in other main cities. This stimulated demand for premium renovated or newly built apartments in the central areas of Riga and in Jurmala. Foreign buyers typically are interested in 3-4 room apartments (80-120 m²) with full finishing and a parking lot, according to Colliers International.

As financial sector stabilized in 2010, banks started to provide financing more actively in residential segment. Majority of mortgage loans in 2010 were issued by Nordea, as reported by Newsec. Average interest rates on new housing loans were decreasing throughout 2009-2011. Average interest rates reached 4.1% on EUR and 4.7% on LVL denominated loans in 2011, compared to 7.0% and 10.5% in 2008, respectively. Customers can borrow up to 85% of a property value, for the maximum term of 40 years. According to Ober-Haus, usually property in new residential projects is purchased at 50:50 cash-to-credit proportion.

After a sharp correction in 2008-2009 following 2004-2007 price boom, residential property prices have stabilized during 2010 and are rising since 2011. According to Latio, price correction in Riga, which lasted for almost two years, has caused prices to decrease by more than 60-70% in some parts of the city when compared to the peak in 2007. Market saw stabilization of prices in the end of 2009. According to Ober-Haus, prices of newly built apartments increased by 12% in the central areas of Riga and by 8% in the suburbs during 2010, and continued to rise in 2011 by 6% in the central areas and by 15% in the suburbs. Despite recovery in 2010-2011, average price level of newly built apartments in premium projects is still 50-60% below the record high level of 2007.

The construction cost index in Latvia decreased by 10.9% in 2009 and 2.7% in 2010, mainly due to contraction in labour and construction material costs. However, construction cost index growth of 2.1% was observed in 2011 following economic growth and inflation in the country.

The table below summarizes prices of new and existing apartments in different districts of Riga in December 2011:

District	Existing, EUR/m²	New, EUR/m²
Old Town and "embassy district"	1,800-3,400	2,300-5,000
Rest of the city centre	1,200-2,200	1,500-2,800

Due to economic slowdown, development of new shopping centres in Latvia was slow or postponed in 2009-2011. According to Colliers International, retail stock in Riga increased by 29,700 m² in 2010 and by 27,250 m² in 2011. Total retail space in Riga reached 642,050 m² by the end of 2011. Galleria Riga was the only shopping mall opened in 2010. During 2011, three smaller-scale projects were commissioned. As development of several retail projects was postponed until market situation improves, new shopping centres are not expected to come online in the nearest future.

The table below summarizes recent major retail developments in Riga:

Shopping centre	Location	Developer	Total GLA, m²	Completion
Riga Plaza	Mukusalas street	NCH Capital	47,000	2009
Galleria Riga	Dzirnavu street	Carpathian	29,700	2010

Source: Colliers International, the Company

Retail market in Latvia has seen positive developments in 2010-2011 after sharp decline during 2008-2009, suggesting optimistic outlook for the retail property segment in the next years. Retail turnover increased 8.7% in 2011. Increase of 4.5% in gross wages during 2011 in Riga and improved consumer confidence contributed to retail market growth.

Demand for retail space in the most successful large shopping centres remains stable. Less successful and smaller shopping malls experience lower demand as tenants prefer to be present in large shopping centres with high customer flow and expenditure per customer. Most demanded are 50-150 m² retail premises. According to Ober-Haus and Colliers International, in the end of 2011 vacancy rates were zero in the most popular shopping centres (Spice and Alfa), while average vacancy rate in other shopping malls decreased to some 3-7%.

Space	Rent, EUR/m²
Up to 100 m ²	25-50
100-200 m ²	15-25
Over 200 m ²	7-25

Source: Ober-Haus

Further improvement in retail market is expected, which would result in slightly lower vacancy rates and increasing rent level as supply of retail space is not expected to increase in the next few years.

Hotel property market

There are in total 60 certified hotels in Riga with a total of 4,756 rooms, as reported by Colliers International. Riga represents over 70% of the total hotel supply in Latvia. Hotel market in Riga is dominated by 3-star hotels, comprising 50% of total hotels, whereas 4-star hotels contribute the largest part of rooms – 58% of total room supply. During 2010, commissioning of Tallink Hotel Riga contributed 256 rooms to the hotel supply in Riga. In 2011, no new hotels were developed. Hotels are developed slowly in Latvia, and new supply will be rather limited in the nearest future.

The table below summarizes recent major hotel developments in Riga:

Hotel	Location	Operator	Stars	Rooms	Completion
Tallink Hotel Riga	Elizabetes 24	TLG Hotell	4-star	256	2010

Source: Colliers International

After reaching the bottom in 2009, Latvian tourism market has seen signs of recovery – some 1,373,300 tourists visited Latvia during 2010, which is a 4% increase as compared to 2009. Along with tourism market growth, hospitality market in Riga served almost 780,000 visitors in 2010, which is a 13% increase compared to approximately 689,000 visitors in 2009. Foreign tourists represent majority of hotel visitors, comprising 87% of visitors in Riga in 2010. Number of tourists continued to increase in 2011, reaching around 943,700 (21% increase compared to 2010), and number of overnights increased by 17% in 2011.

As a result of increasing demand, occupancy rate in the hotels of Riga increased to 47% in 2011, compared to historically low level of 38% in 2009, as reported by Colliers International. Despite increase in occupancy rate, downward pressure of prices remains due to competition.

Riga does not have a distinct business district akin to the high-rise clusters in Tallinn, Vilnius and Warsaw. New developments are dispersed across the city, although several areas within the proximity of the City Centre are emerging as destinations of choice – particularly popular are Skanstes/Hanzas and Kipsala/Left Bank areas.

According to Colliers International, during 2010 Class A and B office stock in Riga was increased by approximately 24,700 m². Completion of DnB headquarters with GLA of 13,100 m² contributed most to the office stock additions during 2010. In 2011, only the building of American Embassy was completed, increasing total office stock in Riga to 527,755 m². However, as economy recovers, once suspended projects are being resumed – for example, Z-Towers project, which is expected to be completed by 2014.

The table below summarizes recent and on-going major office developments in Riga:

Project	Location	Developer	Class	Total GLA, m ²	Completion
DnB Headquarters	Skanstes 12	DnB Bank	A	13,100	2010

As the economic environment stabilized, companies were expanding in 2010-2011, which resulted in growing demand for office premises. According to Colliers International, some 39,000 m² of speculative office space was absorbed in 2011. 200-500 m² premises are most demanded. As there were no significant additions to office stock in Riga, vacancy rate of speculative office space fell to 15.8% in the beginning of 2012, compared to 25.6% in the beginning of 2011.

Increasing demand contributed to rental rate stabilization during 2010-2011.

Residential property market

Vilnius County is the largest metropolitan area in Lithuania with population of over 838 thousand people, which represents 26% of the total population of the country. Vilnius County includes Vilnius municipality (population 554,000) and surrounding cities. Vilnius County is a major economic area, contributing more than 38% of Lithuanian GDP. Almost 40% of the residential construction in Lithuania is concentrated in the Vilnius County. The residential stock in Lithuania is ageing similarly to other Baltic countries.

The following table summarizes the development in statistics relating to the property market in Lithuania in 2007-2011:

Supply and demand for residential property

Supply of newly developed residential projects in Vilnius has decreased considerably due to several reasons. First, many developers faced financial problems and were forced to freeze or suspend real estate developments in 2008-2009. Second, due to lack of demand, only developments commenced in or before 2008 were finished in 2009-2010, and the new supply in 2011 has almost dried-out. According to Ober-Haus, there were only 564 new apartments built in 2010 in Vilnius, which is 3 times less than in 2009 and 12 times less than in 2008. However, development activity picked up in 2011, when 737 new apartments were built.

Supply of upscale projects is practically low as majority of new apartments have relative low quality and/or bad location, and are sold without final finishing. Main reason is that residential developments during 2007-2008 were mainly focused on economy class.

The table below summarizes recent and on-going premium residential developments in Vilnius:

Verkiu slenis	Verkių Regional Park	Hanner Real Estate	82	2,172-2,399	November 2007

Considerably lower residential property prices and improving financing conditions contributed to demand stabilization and growth during 2010-2011. Number of transactions with apartments in Vilnius increased 31% in 2010 and 5% in 2011. Significant drop in property prices in 2009-2010 has reduced the demand for property from speculative investors, while people are buying more residential property for their own use.

Availability of credit has improved considerably in Lithuania during 2010-2011. Even though banks are resuming mortgage lending with caution and net mortgage portfolio of Lithuanian banks has not increased, overall borrowing conditions have improved. Interest rates have dropped significantly, reaching 3.7% on EUR and 4.0% on LTL denominated new housing loans in 2011, compared to 5.8% and 7.0% respectively in 2008. In some cases, banks provide up to 85% of the property value financing, especially for purchases of residential property in new developments.

Residential property prices

After a significant drop during 2008-2009, residential property prices have stabilized during 2010 and showed slight improvement in 2011. According to Ober-Haus, prices in Vilnius had decreased by some 40% when compared to the peak in 2007. Stabilization of prices started in the end of 2010 while prices of less expensive apartments increased by 5-10% in 2011 according to Ober-Haus. However, newly built premium apartment prices remained stable in 2011. Apartments in Lithuania are usually sold without final fit-out, which is reflected in the price level.

The construction cost index in Lithuania decreased by 10.6% in 2009 and 4.3% in 2010, mainly due to corrections on labour market and decrease in construction material costs. However, an increase of 3.9% was observed in 2011.

The table below summarizes prices of new and existing apartments in different districts of Vilnius in December 2011:

As retail market was declining during 2009-2010, market conditions for shopping centres were unfavourable, and there were no major new developments in the segment. According to Colliers International, retail stock in Vilnius increased only by 14,000 m² in 2010 and stayed flat in 2011. Only one shopping centre Link Moletu with GLA of 8,800 m² was opened during 2010 in the outskirts of Vilnius. Additionally, the outlet centre Parkas was expanded by more than 5,000 m² in 2010. Total retail space in Vilnius amounts to circa 535,000 m². There are no new shopping centres expected to come to the market in the nearest future as two new projects planned for 2012 were cancelled.

The table below summarizes recent major retail developments in Vilnius:

Shopping centre	Location	Developer	Total GLA, m ²	Completion
Panorama	Saltoniškių street	E.L.L.	52,000	2008
Ozas	Ozo street	ECE	62,000	2009
Link Moletu	Moletu street	Baltishes Haus	8,800	2010

After bottoming out in 2010, retail market in Lithuania has showed positive development in 2011 – retail turnover increased by 14.5%. Growth of average wages in Vilnius by 3.5% in 2011 and significant improvement in consumer confidence contributed to retail market growth.

Following improving retail market environment, demand for retail space has increased. However, only most successful shopping malls feel improvement with close to zero vacancies. Demand in less successful shopping centres at the same time remains quite low. Overall vacancy rates dropped to 3.7% by the end of 2011 from 4.5% in 2010, as reported by Ober-Haus. Currently, retailers are looking for expansion opportunities outside of Vilnius, and further improvement in demand can be expected mainly from newcomers to the Lithuanian retail market.

Space	Rent, EUR/m²
Up to 100 m ²	18-35
150-350 m ²	13-22
Anchor tenants	6-9

According to Colliers International, during 2011 Class A and B office stock in Vilnius was increased by 15,700 m² as two new business centres were opened. Total supply of office space in Vilnius amounts to approximately 351,100 m². Class A offices constitute 32% and Class B offices constitute 68% of the total office space.

The table below summarizes recent and on-going major office developments in Vilnius:

Project	Location	Developer	Class	Total GLA,	Completion
Beta	Jozo Balcikonio 3	Realco	B1	20,000	2010

After reaching record high levels in 2009, office vacancy rates have decreased substantially in Vilnius, from some 18% to 9% by the end of 2011, as reported by Ober-Haus. Class B offices experienced most rapid decrease in vacancy rates. According to Colliers International, almost 45,000 m² of office space was absorbed during 2011. Office space was absorbed mainly by large companies that took advantage of favourable for tenants market environment with low rent levels. Limited new supply also contributed to drop in vacancy rates. Rent levels have stabilized after reaching the bottom in 2009, and have already shown growth during the second half of 2010 and 2011.

Office	Rent, EUR/m²
Class A	11-15
Class B1	8-11
Class B2	6-10

Hotel market in Germany is dominated by 3-star hotels, comprising 43-52% of total hotels in the largest cities of Germany, according to Colliers International.

After a slight decline in German hotel market in 2009, when the number of overnight stays decreased by 0.2%, tourism market revived as the number of overnight stays increased by 3% in 2010 and 4% in 2011, reaching EUR 394 million. As a result of improving demand, occupancy rate in the hotels of Germany increased to 65% in 2011, as reported by STR Global. Average room rates also increased by 1.4% in 2011, reaching EUR 92 per night.

3. STRATEGY

The Group’s vision is to be the leading developer of prime residential and retail real estate in the Baltic States. In order to achieve its vision and strategic objectives the Group normally takes a long term view in relation to properties in its portfolio. Long term perspective and relatively long lifecycles of its development projects provide the Group with a natural hedge against the fluctuations in macroeconomic environment and real estate market.

The Group plans to continue to focus on full cycle of real estate developments starting from acquisitions of appropriate land plots and ending with the sales of properties. The Group believes that its active involvement throughout the project lifecycle allows it to ensure the quality and timing of its developments.

In terms of sectors the Group plans to continue to focus on the residential and retail developments, which have been the Group’s core competence in the past. In addition to that, the Group is planning to be opportunistic in relation to high-quality office and hotel developments.

Residential developments

The Group has been focusing and is planning to focus in the future on large scale premium residential developments, which the Management Board believes to be the segment with significant growth potential across all three Baltic capitals. A typical Group’s development is a full quarter that forms a residential real estate “sub-market” in the respective neighbourhood, allowing the Group to become the price setter and be less exposed to the developments of residential real estate market at large. Moreover, the Group's experience suggests that the premium residential real estate sector is the one that is the least exposed to the fluctuations in the market environment.

As opposed to large scale retail or office developments, residential developments provide the Group with opportunity to develop particular properties in phases while selling the finished or even unfinished apartments, which allows increasing the return on invested equity.

In terms of geographies the Group is planning to continue to focus on Tallinn, Riga and Vilnius as the most attractive locations for real estate developments in the Baltic States. The Group believes that all three Baltic capitals present significant opportunities for development of prime residential properties as there is a fundamental shortage of high-quality developments in all three Baltic capitals. Therefore the Group currently does not envisage expansion of its activities in the second tier cities in the Baltic States or elsewhere.

The Group has obtained significant retail development experience through developments of some of the best known retail properties in Baltic States and wants to utilize this experience in the future.

The Group believes that in addition to good location and convenient planning, the scale is among the most important factors when developing retail properties. A modern shopping mall in the Baltic States can be successful and attract a high-quality tenant mix if its size is at least 40,000m² of GLA and it contains at least 150 shops. These characteristics are used as key inputs in the Group's decision-making as it wants all of its retail properties to exceed the mentioned thresholds.

The Group sees an immediate demand for an additional large shopping mall in Tallinn. In the medium to long term the Group sees market potential across all three Baltic capitals. That is partially related to the timing of the development of major retail properties in the Baltic States. Many of those have been developed in late 1990s or early 2000s and have been operating for more than 10 years now. As a result of that some of those properties are due for fundamental redevelopment in relatively short period of time. The Group believes that its previous experience positions it well to perform redevelopments of some of the existing retail properties in the future.

Hotel developments

In relation to the hotel developments the Group is planning to manage its current hotel portfolio in the medium term in the future. In relation to new developments the Group is not planning to develop standalone new hotels, while some of its new mainly residential developments might have a hotel element included.

In the longer term the Group might consider exiting from some of its existing hotels in case attractive offers will be received.

Office developments

The Group is not planning to focus on office developments in the future as in the Group's opinion those do not generate sufficient returns in the Group's target geographies. Nevertheless some of the Group's other developments (large scale retail or residential property developments) might include an office component in order to make the core function more attractive. Specifically the Group is planning to include a small office component in the retail development of Peterburi Rd. Shopping Centre in Tallinn. Additionally, the Group is managing World Trade Centre Riga office building in Latvia.

4. COMPETITIVE STRENGTHS

The Group has the following key competitive strengths that help it to sustain and strengthen its positions among the leading real estate developers in the Baltic States:

- unique portfolio of prime development land plots. The Group owns a unique land bank that has mainly been acquired in late 1990s and early 2000s when the Group was among the first entrants into the Baltic real estate market. First-comer status has allowed the Group to acquire premium land plots in all three Baltic capitals for reasonable valuations. Most of the land plots have been acquired relatively close to the city centres and have formerly been used as premises for large Soviet era manufacturing enterprises (e.g. VEF in Latvia). Consequently, the above-mentioned land plots are sizeable-enough and perfectly located to allow the development of the large scale premium projects that the Group is specializing on. Most of the Group's land plots are unique, providing the Group with very high development potential. For instance in Riga and Tallinn the Group owns premium water-front land plots in the very centre of the cities;

- strong track record of developments in the Baltic States. The Group has unparalleled track record of developments across the Baltic States. The Group has developed such landmark developments as Kristiine Shopping Centre in Tallinn, Domina Shopping Centre in Riga, residential development of Ilmarine Quarter in Tallinn and others. The development of above-mentioned projects has allowed the Group to obtain unique experience across the Baltic States and across different real estate sectors;
- successful exits from developed projects to high profile investors. The Group has performed numerous successful exits from its developments providing Group's investors with good returns. Most of the residential developments have been sold to private individuals, while major retail developments have been divested to high profile real estate investors such as Citycon that acquired Kristiine Shopping Centre in 2011 and KanAm that acquired Domina Shopping Centre in 2007;
- clear development plans with respect to the portfolio. The Group has specific plans with respect to the development of most of the land plots in its portfolio. The type of real estate to be developed, the indicative development costs, the regulatory process to be followed in the development phase and most of the other planning necessary before the development has been performed by the Group;
- experience throughout the project development lifecycle. Historically the Group has been responsible for the full real estate development project lifecycle, starting from acquisition of the land plot and ending with the divestment of completed property. That has allowed the Group to obtain unique know-how to be utilized in the future, to control the development cycle more thoroughly and to add value throughout the development process;
- experienced management team. Key managers of the Group (CEO Paolo Vittorio Michelozzi, who is a member of the Management Board since 2001, and COO Allan Remmelkoor, who is a member of the Management Board since 2008) have been with the Group for more than 15 years, obtaining unparalleled Baltic real estate development experience. Among other projects, Mr Michelozzi and Mr Remmelkoor have been responsible for the full development of and subsequent exits from Domina Shopping Centre in Riga and Kristiine Shopping Centre in Tallinn. Most of the rest of the management team have also been with the Group for more than 5 years; and
- low financial leverage and robust financials. Historically the Group has been conservative in relation to the usage of debt and financial leverage. Conservative debt levels have allowed the Group to be better positioned to face different cycles of the real estate market. Relatively lower leverage has also allowed the Group to provide its shareholders with relatively more stable returns in comparison to some of the Group's more leveraged peers.

5. OPERATIONS

Overview

The Group conducts majority of its business in Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. Currently the only source of revenue outside of the Baltic States is a hotel management business in Germany. The table below presents the breakdown of the Group's total revenue by geographical segments:

Please read Section 7 “Results of Operations” in Part IX (Operating and Financial Review and Prospects) regarding further information about the segmentation applied by the Group.

In addition to geographical segmentation the Group’s operations can be divided into three key business areas:

- sales of real estate, which mainly consists of the development and sales of apartments in premium residential real estate properties in the Baltic States;
- lease of commercial premises, which mainly consists of the development and lease of premises in retail and office properties in the Baltic States; and
- real estate management, which mainly consists of the management of cash flow generating retail, office and accommodation properties (including hotels) and offering of maintenance services.

Other operations mainly include provision of consulting or other services.

The above-referred business areas of operations are also the main sources of the Group’s revenue. The table below presents the breakdown of the revenue for the three last financial years:

Sales of Real Estate

Development and sale of residential real estate is a core business area for the Group, accounting for 57% of consolidated recurring revenues of the Group in the first half of 2012 and 43% in 2011. The focus is primarily on development of premium residential property for further sale.

Business process of residential developments

The lifecycle of the residential property development projects can be split into four phases: (i) the acquisition of land plots, (ii) planning, (iii) execution and (iv) sales.

The Group has been targeting acquisitions of land plots in premium locations in the capitals of the Baltic States. Focus has been on acquisition of sizeable land plots in order to develop large-scale living environments. Centrally located abandoned Soviet industrial zones have proven to be suitable targets for that matter. During late 1990s and early 2000s the Group acquired various properties with attractive development potential, mainly strategically located land plots and amortized buildings, in Tallinn, Riga and Vilnius. The Group has successfully completed and exited numerous development projects on those properties, while several properties still remain to be developed. The Group has not been actively acquiring new land plots for the last several years as the existing land portfolio has been sufficient for utilizing the Group’s resources. However, should attractive opportunities arise, the Group is ready to acquire additional properties for development.

Strategic planning of each project, including conducting market research, choosing project type, purpose of real estate, size, development timeline and other key elements, is done in-house by the Group’s employees. The planning phase requires close co-operation with the respective municipality in order to obtain necessary approvals and ensure project’s fit in the surroundings from the city planning perspective. The Group commissions detailed planning for the project it intends to develop, which is required for obtaining approvals for building activities from the municipality. The detailed planning forms the basis for land use and building activities on a given territory or land plot. It specifies the division of the territory being planned into land plots, construction rights attaching to each land plot, area that can be occupied by buildings, areas reserved for streets and other infrastructure, environmental provisions for implementation of the plan, etc. The construction rights for each land plot specify its intended use or uses, maximum number of buildings, maximum area under the buildings and maximum height of the buildings.

The preparation and adoption of detailed planning involves several procedural steps and stages, the length and outcome of which may vary. Working drafts of the detailed planning proposal need to be coordinated with various administrative agencies, such as the heritage and environmental protection authorities, and must be made publicly available for comments and objections. Also, public hearings must be held in the course of the procedure. Comments and objections of interested parties are to be taken into account to the extent possible. In some cases, a strategic environmental impact assessment must be prepared as part of the preparation for detailed planning. The municipal authorities can adopt the detailed planning only after all these steps and procedures have been successfully completed.

The detailed planning approval can take up to three years, and sometimes even longer. Given the complexity of the local municipality approval process and its critical importance to the implementation of the project, successful completion of the detailed planning phase is crucial for any development project. After approval of detailed planning the architectural contractor prepares the building design documentation for applying for a building permit for the project. The building permit issued by the municipality is required to commence construction. The building permit can be obtained within approximately six months from completion of the design documentation.

The Group commissions reputable construction and architectural contractors for each project. The contractors are chosen in tenders. Construction is commenced after approval of detailed planning, completion of design documentation and receiving of building permit. Execution of the construction phase is controlled by the Group's in-house team. Professional contractors and the Group's experience in supervising large development projects ensure proper cost control during the execution. After completion of the construction the developer is required to apply to the municipality for a permit for use, which is granted after the inspection of the building by the local authorities.

Under the terms of the construction contract, the main contractor provides a guarantee of construction works as to the quality of the workmanship and materials, the guarantee indicates, that the construction complies with the contract and that the construction is safe and fit for use. The guarantee is granted for a period of at least two years as of the date on which the building is completed. The contractor must correct at its expense and within a reasonable period of time any construction faults or deficiencies that become evident during that period.

The Group commences the sales process during the process of real estate development. A part of residential premises is sold in advance, and advance payments are used to finance project development. Remaining part of apartments is sold after completion of property construction. The sales are carried out by the Group's in-house sales team and external brokers. The Group co-operates with all the major real estate brokers in the region on a success fee basis. Additionally, the Group leases some of its unsold apartments in the period of unfavourable market conditions. Apartments are expected to be leased until market environment improves considerably and an attractive opportunity to sell those apartments appears.

Clients of residential developments

Most of the Group's projects are targeted at middle and upper class households interested in upgrading their living conditions or acquiring their first dwelling. Also foreign buyers form a significant customer base in the business area, especially in developments in Riga. The Group's offering stands out with high building standards and location near the city centre. The Group seeks to develop coherent living environments as opposed to developing a single building, hence attracting clients from upper income tiers.

Residential development project portfolio

Currently the Group's residential development portfolio consists of six projects – Tallinas St. Residential Complex, Klīversala Residential Complex and Zvaigznes Centre located in Riga, Tondi Quarter and Kalaranna Residential Complex located in Tallinn and Šaltīniņi Namai Residential Complex in Vilnus. In addition to that, certain developed real estate (e.g. apartment ownerships in Ilmarine Quarter) is available for sale.

Please also read “Residential Development Projects and Properties” and “Other Properties” in Section 6 (Projects and Properties) of this Part XI (Business).

Financing of residential development projects

The Group’s development projects are usually owned by a special-purpose company established to acquire the land plot and start the process for detailed planning and obtaining building permit. Historically the project vehicle has financed a part of the land acquisition and initial project stages by equity provided by the Group. Another part is financed using short-term bank lending, which is either non-recourse financing secured by the acquired asset or recourse financing guaranteed by the Group. The purpose of using a special-purpose vehicle is mainly due to its ability to limit the Group’s risk to a particular project. When active development of a project starts, a part of financing required for construction is retained from pre-sale of apartments. Therefore, residential projects are developed in phases – it is easier to sell apartments in advance if construction period of a building is rather short.

Please also read “Loan Agreements and related Financing Documents” in Section 9 (Material Contracts) of this Part XI (Business).

Competition in residential development market

Residential projects developed by the Group compete with the projects developed by specialized real estate developers, construction companies or smaller one-project developers. The period of 2008-2009 changed the competitive environment in real estate development markets in the Group’s business geographies. Numerous small- and mid-sized developers have ceased their operations due to liquidity issues, while large established construction companies have remained. Overall, the Management Board believes that currently the situation in the industry has stabilized and the environment will become gradually more competitive. An overview of selected recent and upcoming projects in Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania is provided in Section 3 (Real Estate Market in the Group’s Key Markets) of Part X (Industry Overview).

The following residential real estate developers are considered to be the Group’s main competitors. However, the business activities of the competitors vary to a certain extent as the mix of development projects and investment property is different in each case:

Lease of Commercial Premises

Development, lease and divestment of commercial real estate form another major part of the Group’s business, accounting for 5% of the Group’s total revenues in the first half of 2012 and 24% in 2011. Historically the investment property of the Group is formed from the successfully completed commercial development projects that the Management Board believes is beneficial to continue holding within the Group as cash flow generating objects.

Business process of commercial developments

The lifecycle of the commercial property development projects can be split into five phases: (i) acquisition of land plots, (ii) planning, (iii) execution, (iv) management and (v) divestment.

First three phases of development, namely acquisition of land plots, planning and execution, are similar to respective phases of development of residential properties, and are described above under "Sales of Real Estate" in this Section 5 (Operations) of this Part XI (Business).

However, business processes that follow completion of commercial property construction differ from development of residential real estate. In order to maximize the value of commercial property, the Group is involved in day-to-day management of the property for certain period after completion of construction. The Group finds an appropriate mix of tenants, markets the property to the general public and provides facility management services, thus ensuring development of the project to its full potential. During the period of commercial property ownership and management the Group receives rental income from tenants, which constitutes a significant portion of total revenues. Rental income is affected by two main factors: vacancy of the property and rent level. Whereas market environment has a significant effect on these two factors, successful management of the property is crucial to achieve low vacancy and high rent levels.

After the commercial project is running at full potential, meaning that most of area is leased out and substantial rental income is generated, the Group usually is seeking an opportunity to divest the property. The Group carefully evaluates existing and potential market environment in order to choose the best timing for the sale of property. The divestment process is carried out by the Group's in-house team that has significant experience in exiting numerous projects.

Clients of commercial developments

In the commercial business area, the Group is focused on creating value for customers by selecting retailers that together constitute an appealing merchandizing mix. Thus, customers appreciate ability to do shopping in one place, where all the necessary goods and services are available from high quality providers.

Among other matters the Group is also assessing the credit risk of the client before signing a lease contract. Key terms of the lease contracts such as rental rate, term of the agreement, potential termination and others vary depending on the size and type of the premise.

The Group seeks to divest leased-out and fully developed commercial properties. Such properties are sold to strategic investors or real estate funds when attractive exit opportunity arises.

Commercial development project portfolio

Currently the Group's commercial development portfolio comprises of one project in Tallinn – Peterburi Rd. Shopping Centre.

Please also read "Commercial Development Projects and Properties" in Section 6 (Projects and Properties) of this Part XI (Business).

Financing of commercial development projects

The Group's commercial development projects are usually owned by a special-purpose company, similarly to residential development projects. Historically the project vehicle has financed 50-100% of the land acquisition and initial project stages by equity provided by the Group. The remainder is financed using short-term bank lending, which is either non-recourse financing secured by the acquired asset or recourse financing guaranteed by the Group. Special-purpose vehicles have mainly been used in order to limit the Group's risk to a particular project and to provide flexibility in case the Management Board believes it is beneficial to divest the project.

Competition in commercial development market

Commercial projects developed by the Group compete with other projects developed by specialized real estate developers. The competitive environment in commercial real estate development market is different from residential real estate market. Small- and mid-sized developers play a minor role, mainly being involved in development of smaller-scale office properties. Large international and local developers are main competitors of the Group as scale and know-how are necessary for development of large-scale commercial properties. Overall, the Management Board believes that the environment will become gradually more competitive following stabilization of economic and real estate market environment.

The following commercial real estate developers are considered to be the Group's principal competitors. However, the business activities of the competitors vary to a certain extent as the mix of development projects and investment property is different in each case:

Real Estate Management

Management of real estate accounted for 28% of consolidated revenues of the Group in the first half of 2012 and 27% in 2011. Investment property management compliments the development activity of the Group by generating relatively stable cash flow. The current focus is mainly on operating hotels. However the Group has significant experience also in commercial property management, particularly in management of shopping centres.

Business process of real estate management

The Group has extensive competence in not only development, but also management of retail properties. The multi-staged development of Kristiine Shopping Centre in Tallinn included more than decade of active management of the project. In parallel, the Group levered its expertise by managing Domina Shopping Centre in Riga for about 5 years in total both on its own behalf as well as after divestment representing its new investor. Therefore the Group has gained extensive experience in active retail space management and has a thorough understanding of the market, which can be utilized in future projects.

Prior to the Division of the Company in 2011, the core competence of the Group's investment property business area was international management of hotel property. Currently the Group is involved in hotel operations in Estonia, Latvia, and Germany. Each of the hotels is structured as a subsidiary of the Company and has an independent management for running the day-to-day operations. The Group operates the hotels under a common brand name "PK Hotels".

Although historically most of the real estate in the investment properties business area have been both managed and owned by the Group, the ownership of the property is not a must and in case an attractive opportunity arises the Group is willing to engage in a long-term lease agreement. This particular approach was used with World Trade Centre Riga office building and PK Parkhotel Kurhaus in Bad Kreuznach, Germany.

Revenue in real estate management segment consists of management fees for provision of day-to-day management services, which form a quite stable cash flow to the Group that is less dependent on market conditions than sales of real estate and rental income. In this way the Group is limiting risks related to the industry and general market environment.

Both corporates as well as private individuals form the client base for the properties that the Group is managing. In the hotel management area most of the clients are private individuals and the overall client flow is dependent on general developments in tourism market. In the office management area with World Trade Centre Riga office building the Group is servicing corporate customers and is exposed to general office rental market in Riga.

Property portfolio in real estate management

Currently the Group's investment property portfolio comprises of four projects – PK Riga Hotel and World trade Centre in Riga, PK Ilmarine Hotel in Tallinn and PK Parkhotel Kurhaus in Bad Kreuznach, Germany. As the Group recently divested Kristiine Shopping Centre the current focus of the real estate management business area is on operating hotels and managing office property.

Competition in real estate management

In the commercial real estate management business area the Group's properties under management compete with other major owners of commercial properties in the region, and competition environment in this segment is explained in the section above.

In the hotel management business area the Group competes both with major international and local hotel chains and individual hotels. The competition environment in hotel market is quite intense taking into account large supply and quite high vacancy rates, which has a downward effect on prices. The market is dominated by a large number of small players operating a single hotel. However, international and local hotel chains also represent a significant force in the market. An overview of hotel market in Estonia and Latvia is provided in Section 3 (Real Estate Market in the Group's Key Markets) of Part X (Industry Overview).

Name of the Company	Description	Revenue in 2011, EUR million
Go Hotels OÜ	Operator of a hotel located near to the Old Town of Tallinn	1.2
Barons Hotels OÜ	Operator of two hotels located in the waterfront area and in the Old Town of Tallinn	2.6 ¹⁾

Owing to the fact that Bad Kreuznach is a small town in Germany without a proper hotel market, it is not possible to indicate principal competitors in Bad Kreuznach.

Purchase of the State Company Rīgas eksperimentālā kuģu remonta rūpnīca

On 2 June 1998, SIA "Klīversala RE" and VAS Privatizācijas Aģentūra concluded the Purchase Agreement for the purchase of the State Company Rīgas eksperimentālā kuģu remonta rūpnīca located at Trijādības iela 5, Riga. The territory at Trijādības iela 5, Riga is used for the development of Klīversala Residential Complex. Please also read about the project under "Residential Development Projects and Properties" in Section 6 (Projects and Properties) of Part XI (Business). SIA "Klīversala RE" committed to ensure investments in the territory at Trijādības iela 5, Riga, in the amount of EUR 14,228,718 (LVL 10,000,000), whereas (a) EUR 6,847,142 (LVL 4,812,199) was invested prior to 19 August 2008, (b) EUR 2,134,308 (LVL 1,500,000) had to be invested by 31 December 2011 and (c) EUR 5,247,268 (LVL 3,687,801) has to be invested by 31 December 2013. Out of EUR 2,134,308 (LVL 1,500,000) that had to be invested by 31 December 2011, investments only in the amount of EUR 1,102,539 (LVL 774,869) were made by 31 December 2011 and such amount is still subject to the approval of VAS Privatizācijas Aģentūra. As at 30 June 2012 the amount not yet invested is EUR 6,279,037 (LVL 4,412,932). According to the above-referred agreement, if investments are not made by the specified deadlines, VAS Privatizācijas Aģentūra will be entitled to request a contractual penalty (6% of the non-invested amounts) and after final deadline – all amounts, which have not been invested in the territory according to the agreement. Investments can be made in the form of environmental research of the territory, investments in development of detailed planning, investments in technical designing, investments in construction, etc. Presently, the hindering reason for making investments in due time in compliance with the schedule is a lack of the detailed planning for territory, which is still under development and shall be accepted by the Riga City Council (according to the management of the company - provisionally in autumn 2012).

Pursuant to a guarantee agreement concluded by AS Swedbank and SIA "Klīversala RE" on 7 April 2006, which has later been amended, AS Swedbank has issued a guarantee to VAS Privatizācijas aģentūra, according to which it will pay upon written request any funds due by SIA "Klīversala RE" to VAS Privatizācijas aģentūra. The guarantee of a credit institution has been one of the main requests of VAS Privatizācijas Aģentūra for prolonging the final term until which the investments shall be made (the final date has been prolonged several times). Therefore effectiveness of the Guarantee Agreement along with the obligations to invest the above amount in the territory at Trijādības iela 5, Riga, shall be considered essential for the business of SIA "Klīversala RE".

Management service agreements

The Company has concluded management service agreements with all subsidiaries, except Pro Kapital Germany Holdings OÜ, on the following main terms:

- services include mainly advisory (e.g. marketing and legal), business support (e.g. employees, office place) and accounting services;
- the price is based on the costs related to the provision of services which are determined according to the group transfer pricing principles; and
- agreements have been concluded for unspecified term.

Lease agreements

The Group has started successfully the leasing activities for Peterburi Rd. Shopping Centre premises. Among others, the lease agreement for hypermarket premises within Peterburi Rd. Shopping Centre was concluded on 26 July 2012. Pursuant to such lease agreement, premises with the area of approximately 6,000 m² will be leased to Selver AS, a leading retailer.

The Management Board believes that all of the above agreements have been entered into on an arm's length basis.

10. ENVIRONMENTAL ISSUES

The Management Board is not aware of any material contamination on the properties owned by the Group. However, the environmental condition of each of the Group's properties has not been thoroughly investigated. In the event that residual pollution is found on the land owned by a Group Company, such Group Company may be liable for such pollution as the landowner. A number of laws in Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania directly or indirectly apply to the residual pollution that may be located on the land owned by the Group.

In general, the landowner may be required to clean up pollution located on its land and/or to compensate the damage caused by flammable, radiation, combustible, toxic, caustic or environmentally hazardous substances on the land. When purchasing land, the Group has not always required the seller to warrant that there is no contamination on the land. The historic background of the following project land plots refers to possibility of pollution. According to the Management Board, no environmental investigations have been carried out with respect to the land plots of the following real estate projects not before or after their acquisition:

- property of Tondi Quarter in Tallinn, which used to be part of Soviet army campus;
- property of Ilmarine Quarter, which was partly under former P. Wiegland machine factory;
- property of Peterburi Rd. Shopping Centre, where a slaughterhouse and meat industry used to locate;
- property of Klīversala Residential Complex in Riga, where a ship repair factory was located at Soviet times;
- property of Zvaigznes Centre in Riga, where in the industrial buildings hazardous waste containers were located;
- property of Šaltinių Namai, which was partly under former machinery factory;
- property of Kalaranna Residential Complex, which has historically been a fishing harbour and a market place; and
- property of Tallinas St. Residential Complex in Riga, where a Soviet time textile factory RITMS previously located.

Notwithstanding the above, in case of Klīversala Residential Complex there has been carried out an investigation of soil and ground water quality at the territory of Trijadibas 7, Riga. It is stated in the conclusion of the investigation report that according to testing results and pollution criteria established by law, the intensity of established soil pollution requires rehabilitation measures. However, experts of SIA Vides Konsultaciju Birojs (company, which performed the investigation) suggests to perform detailed environmental investigation for separate sectors of land plot in order to establish amounts and extension of polluted soil and to evaluate rehabilitation possibilities. The investigation did not reveal any pollution of ground water which would exceed limits established by law.

11. INSURANCE

The Group Companies, which are active in real estate projects, are exposed to potential liability for defects in design, construction, materials or quality. In order to mitigate such potential liability, respective Group Company usually requires the general contractor of the project to obtain insurance cover against all construction risks for the whole duration of the project. Such insurance must be made for the benefit of the financier of respective project (the bank), respective Group Company and, if relevant, other Group Companies.

Real estate maintenance and management, where the Group is also active, may bring about additional civil liability towards third parties. The Group Companies operating in these fields usually insure against such liability.

The Group Companies also hold policies covering the building owner's liability in relation to its material buildings. Also the Group Companies hold all risk insurances regarding the assets inside the properties (for equipment, furnishing etc.) and for other property (e.g. building "box" insurance). Additionally, the Group Companies operating hotels insure against business interruptions.

All motor vehicles owned or leased by the Group are covered by the mandatory third party liability insurance and majority of them also with voluntary motor insurance policy (KASKO).

Management Board believes that the Group's insurance policies correspond to the standard industry practices in the respective countries where the Group is active and meet the requirements imposed by the covenants in the Group's financing agreements.

12. LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

Dispute with Aprisco B.V.

Aprisco B.V., a company registered in the Netherlands, filed a claim against the Company who has given a guarantee in the amount of EUR 2,300,000 to secure the rent payments from Serval S.r.l, a company which used to be a subsidiary of the Company until the Division, to Hotel Blijdorp B.V. The claim has been made by the new owner of the hotel – Aprisco B.V. – to whom the rent agreement was transferred. Aprisco B.V. changed its initial claim on 31 August 2011 and claims (i) the payment of caused loss in the amount of EUR 2,300,000 with accumulated interest for default, or in the amount stated by the court; and (ii) as an alternative claim EUR 1,776,000 for overdue rental payments with accumulated interest for default or in the amount of EUR 1,409,000 with accumulated interest for default. The Company claims that the guarantee agreement has not transferred from Hotel Blijdorp B.V. to Aprisco B.V. or alternatively that Aprisco B.V. is entitled to claim only the unpaid rent in the amount of EUR 524,000 and not the damages. The Company made provisions in the amount of EUR 700,000. As of 30 June 2012, this provision was increased to EUR 1,409,000 in relation to this case. The District Court in Rotterdam ruled on 4 July 2012 that the Company shall pay EUR 1,409,265 to Aprisco B.V. For payment of EUR 786,434.70 Aprisco B.V. is entitled to levy execution. Enforceability of the remaining EUR 622,831 has been made subject to the outcome of the proceedings between Aprisco B.V. and Serval S.r.l.

The Management Board of the Company is going to appeal the court judgement. The due date for submitting the appeal is 4 October 2012.

Claim of KanAm against former group company PK Investment SIA

Based on agreement dated 23 July 2007 PK Investment SIA (a former Group Company) sold the Domina Shopping Centre to KanAm for the consideration of EUR 147,000,000. KanAm presented a claim in the amount of EUR 6,837,846 against PK Investment SIA to the Arbitration Institute of Stockholm Chamber of Commerce. On 31 January 2011 the Arbitration Institute of Stockholm Chamber of Commerce ruled that PK Investment SIA shall pay to KanAm EUR 3,770,335 and compensate expenses incurred with respect to the claims of Inexet Latvia SIA and repair wall insulation defects in Domina Shopping Centre. The arbitral award was submitted for recognition and enforcement in Latvia. The first instance court decision satisfied the application of KanAm. The Regional Court of Riga (second instance) denied the recognition and enforcement of the arbitral award. The decision of the Regional Court of Riga mistakenly set out the right to appeal. The Supreme Court has declared that the decision of the Regional Court of Riga is final and appeal cannot be submitted. At the moment there are no court or arbitration proceedings pending between the parties. According to the Management Board, the Company and its subsidiaries have fulfilled all their monetary obligations towards PK Investments SIA and the subsidiary of the Company sold all the shares of PK Investments SIA to third party in 2011.

Claim of Iecere SIA

Iecere SIA has made a claim in the amount of EUR 89,880 against SIA "Hotel Management Services" regarding the termination of the agreement on cleaning services. No litigation proceedings have been initiated yet.

Claims against PK Invest UAB

There are three cases that have been initiated against PK Invest UAB. In two cases the claimants request repayment of advance payments (with interest) that were paid under preliminary agreements for sale of immovable property concluded with PK Invest UAB. The total dispute amount under both cases is EUR 121,176. PK Invest UAB estimates that it will prevail at least in one of the cases, where the dispute amount is equal to EUR 47,887. The claims are secured by attachment of company's funds in the amount of EUR 17,374 and 21/100 part of one real estate object. Third case is submitted by the contractor requesting for the EUR 57,099 and 8.06 % annual interest for the performed works in Šaltinių Namai Residential Complex. PK Invest UAB did not agree with the claim because the works were performed unduly and the deficiencies were recorded by the parties in writing.

Executives has acted as a member of the supervisory, management or administrative body at any time in the previous five years.

- Mr Nurmela was a management board member of Domina Hotels Hungary Kft (operating company of Domina Budapest Hotel), which was declared bankrupt 5 November 2010. One of the reasons for bankruptcy was a change of strategy of Domina hotel chain. It was a decision of the Domina Hotel Group S.p.A. (new business name Serval Srl) to close all hotels, which were operated outside Group properties. Rental agreement was terminated with the owner of the property where the hotel operated. Due to substantial losses earned before the new management board was appointed, including the appointment of Mr Nurmela and termination of business activities of the company, it was decided to file for bankruptcy of the company.
- Mr Nurmela was a management board member of Domina Hotel Holland BV (declared bankrupt on 17 January 2012). Domina Hotel Holland BV was the operator company of Domina Rotterdam hotel. Domina Hotel Holland BV was subleasing the property from parent company Domina Hotel Group S.p.A. (new business name Serval Srl). The main rent agreement between the owner and DHG was terminated due to non-payment of rental fees by DHG and change in strategy (closing all non Pro Kapital property hotels). The reason for bankruptcy was that Domina Hotel Holland BV was ordered to vacate the premises right before the start of the high season (the most profitable season for a hotel by which it recovers the losses of low season). The goal of the management board was to find a compromise with creditors in regards to payment of outstanding amounts (reduction of amounts). As the compromise was not found, it was decided to allow the company to be declared bankrupt.
- Mr Nurmela acts as the liquidator of OÜ Coffee Distribution, a company outside the Group, which is currently under liquidation.

No payments were made to the shareholders in connection with the decrease of the share capital.

On 23 November 2011 the share capital of the Company was decreased in relation to the Division. Please also read "Division of the Company" in Section 9 (Material Contracts) of Part XI (Business) in respect of the terms and conditions of the Division.

5. ISSUE OF OFFER SHARES AND DILUTION

In the Offering the Company offers up to 37,000,000 Offer Shares. The Offer Shares represent approximately 69.57% of Company's share capital immediately prior to the Offering. The Offer Shares will be of the same class as all existing Shares and will also be registered in book-entry form in the ECRS (as maintained by ESCD) under ISIN EE3100006040 (during the Offering, the Offer Shares will have temporary ISIN EE3800046676, which will be changed to the permanent ISIN EE3100006040 after the settlement has occurred and AS LHV Pank has confirmed to ESCD that the investors have paid for the Offer Shares). Please also read Section 2 (Information on Share Capital and Shares) of Part XIII (Information on Company, Shares and Share Capital).

The Offer Shares will be issued and registered in the ECRS pursuant to a resolution of the Management Board to be made after the end of the Offer Period. Subject to conditional increase of the share capital of the Company being registered with the Estonian Commercial register the Management Board will be entitled to resolve to issue the Offer Shares in accordance with a resolution of the General Meeting of Shareholders, dated 14 August 2012, whereby the General Meeting of Shareholders resolved to conditionally increase the share capital of the Company and thereby to enable issue of the Offer Shares. The Company has submitted necessary application for the registration of the conditional increase of share capital to the Commercial Register on 16 August 2012

Following the completion of the Offering assuming that all offered Offer Shares will be subscribed for and issued and none of the convertible bonds issued by the Company has been converted to Shares, the Offer Shares and Over-Allotment Shares will represent approximately:

- 41.67% of Company's share capital assuming that all Over-Allotment Shares will be issued; or
- 41.03% of Company's share capital assuming that none of the Over-Allotment Shares will be issued.

The table below presents changes in net tangible book value per Share following the completion of the Offering after deducting the fees and expenses of the Offering. Calculation assumes that all the Offer Shares will be subscribed for and issued and none of the convertible bonds issued by the Company will be converted to the Shares. Net tangible book value per Share represents the amount of total tangible assets reduced by the amount of total liabilities and divided by the total number of Shares outstanding. Net tangible assets are calculated as total assets less intangible assets and total liabilities. Net tangible book value per share is expected to increase from EUR 1.29 as at 30 June 2012 to EUR 1.53 after the Offering (assuming that all of the Over-Allotment Shares will be issued).

Net tangible book value per share as at 30 June 2012	EUR 1.29
Number of offered Offer Shares	37,000,000
Offer Price (mid-point of the Offer Price Range)	EUR 1.975
Net tangible book value per share after the Offering assuming that none of the Over-Allotment Shares will be issued and none of the convertible bonds issued by the Company have been converted to the Shares	EUR 1.53
Net tangible book value per share after the Offering assuming that all of the Over-Allotment Shares will be issued and none of the convertible bonds issued by the Company have been converted to the Shares	EUR 1.53

6. OPTION RIGHTS, CONVERTIBLE SECURITIES AND SECURITIES WITH WARRANTS

In absence of express authorisation in the Articles of Association, any decision which alters the share capital or number of shares in an Estonian public limited company must be passed by the general meeting of shareholders. Under Estonian law, convertible bonds are the only debt instruments granting a conversion right into the company's shares. The general meeting of shareholders can decide on the issuance of convertible bonds, if such right has been provided for in the Articles of Association.

In addition, upon the decision of the general meeting of shareholders, share subscription rights may be granted to the employees and members of governing bodies of the company or related undertakings. Such subscription rights may be granted also in connection with the preparation for a merger. The Company's Articles of Association allow the Company to issue convertible bonds upon the decision of the General Meeting of Shareholders.

The Company has not issued any convertible bonds or option rights, securities with warrants, capital loans or other securities or instruments convertible into or exchangeable for Shares other than the following convertible bonds:

Name of the convertible bond	ISIN	Number of convertible bonds
Pro Kapital Grupp convertible bond PKG1 13.08.2013	EE3300104033	1,164,807
Pro Kapital Grupp convertible bond PKG2 20.01.2014	EE3300106574	382,304
Pro Kapital Grupp convertible bond PKG3 10.08.2014	EE3300108711	840,184
Pro Kapital Grupp convertible bond PKG4 16.09.2014	EE3300109248	536,012

The total number of issued convertible bonds is 4,025,758. Each convertible bond referred to above can be converted by its holder to one Share. Thus, up to 4,025,758 new Shares may be issued to the bondholders of the above-referred convertible bonds. In accordance with a resolution of the General Meeting of Shareholders, dated 14 August 2012, each such convertible bond is convertible to a Share based on a notice by respective bondholder, which must be submitted to the Company 10 business days before the conversion.

Assuming that all 37,000,000 Offer Shares will be subscribed for and issued and all Over-Allotment Shares will be issued and all above-referred convertible bonds will be converted to the Shares, the Company's share capital would be EUR 19,042,236 and the Shares issued as a result of conversion would represent 4.23% of the share capital of the Company.

Terms and conditions of the convertible bonds

The General Meeting of Shareholders approved the terms and conditions of convertible bond issue by the Company on 13 April 2009. Such terms and conditions have been amended by the division plan for the Division of the Company. Please also read "Division of the Company" in Section 9 (Material Contracts) of Part XI (Business) in respect of the terms and conditions of the Division. The General Meeting of Shareholders also resolved on 13 April 2012 to clarify that each convertible bond is convertible to one Share with the nominal value of EUR 0.2 and therefore, the share capital of the Company will be increased upon exchange of convertible bonds by up to EUR 805,151.6. The General Meeting of Shareholders also resolved to amend the terms and conditions for the conversion of the convertible bonds on 14 August 2012.

Such terms and conditions are applicable to all above-referred convertible bonds. Pursuant to the terms and conditions of the convertible bonds (as amended):

- the issue price for each convertible bond was EUR 4.5 (whereas EUR 1.7 of such purchase price has been transferred to AS Domina Vacanze Holding in the course of the Division);
- the interest payable for each convertible bond is 7% p.a. (whereas until 9 December 2011 such interest accrued on the amount of EUR 4.5 and thereafter from the amount of EUR 2.8);
- each convertible bond of the Company entitled its holder to convert such bond to one Share at any time before the redemption of such bond, if the holder notifies the Company thereof at least 10 (ten) business days in advance;
- each convertible bond, which has not been converted to a Share will be redeemed by the Company against a payment by the Company of EUR 2.8 to the bondholder.

The convertible bonds that have not been converted to the Shares will be redeemed as follows:

Name of the convertible bond	ISIN	Number of convertible bonds	Redemption Date

7. SHAREHOLDER RIGHTS

General meetings of shareholders

Under the Estonian Commercial Code, shareholders exercise their power to decide on corporate matters at general meetings of shareholders. The general meeting of shareholders considers, among other things, the annual report and the distribution of profits. Resolutions may be adopted at either annual or extraordinary general meetings.

In accordance with the Estonian Commercial Code, an annual general meeting of shareholders must be held within six months after the end of a financial year. An extraordinary general meeting of shareholders may be convened whenever the management board deems it appropriate. However, the management board is obliged to convene an extraordinary general meeting in cases set forth by the Estonian Commercial Code, for example, if the equity capital decreases below the legally required minimum equity, if the supervisory council, the auditor of the company or shareholders whose shares represent at least one-twentieth of the share capital (one-tenth in case of non-listed companies) - make such a request to the management board, or if this is clearly in the interests of the company. If the management board does not convene an extraordinary general meeting within one month following the receipt of a request of one or more shareholders, the supervisory council or the auditor, the person or the persons who have submitted the respective request are entitled to convene an extraordinary general meeting themselves. The Articles of Association of the Company do not set forth any additional cases in which the Management Board is required to convene an extraordinary General Meeting of Shareholders.

In accordance with the Estonian Commercial Code, notices to convene annual general meetings of shareholders must be given at least three weeks prior to the meeting (one week in case of extraordinary general meeting of a non-listed company). Notices to convene a general meeting of shareholders must be sent to shareholders by registered mail to their registered addresses (being the address of the shareholder entered in the shareholders' register of the company as maintained in the ECRS). If the company is aware or should be aware that the address of a shareholder is different from the one entered in the share register, the notice must be sent also to such address. Notices may be sent also by unregistered mail or fax provided that the letter or fax is accompanied by a notice requesting the recipient to immediately return the confirmation of receipt to the management board. However, if the company has more than 50 shareholders, notices need not be sent to shareholders, but must be published in at least one national daily newspaper in Estonia. A listed company must additionally publish the notice via methods that ensure fast access to the information contained therein, using media that can be assumed to effectively transmit information to the public within the entire European Union.

The supervisory council of the company usually determines the agenda of the general meeting of shareholders. If, however, the shareholders or the auditor convene a general meeting of shareholders, they also determine the agenda of that meeting. The management board or one or more shareholders whose shares represent at least one-tenth of the share capital of the company - one twentieth in case of listed companies - are entitled to request that items be included on the agenda of a general meeting of shareholders, if such a request is made not later than 15 days before the day of the general meeting. If, upon convening a general meeting of shareholders, the requirements of law or the articles of association have been materially breached, no decision may be adopted at the meeting unless all shareholders participate or are represented at the meeting. Resolutions adopted at such meeting are void unless the shareholders with respect to whom the procedure for calling the meeting was breached approve the resolutions.

If an extraordinary meeting is called at the request of the auditor or the shareholders, the auditor or the shareholders who have submitted the respective request may also request items to be included on the agenda of the general meeting, concurrently with the request to convene the meeting.

An item that was not previously included on the agenda may be included at the approval of at least nine-tenths of the shareholders participating in the general meeting, if their shares represent at least two-thirds of the share capital of the company, except shareholders participating in the general meeting via mail or electronic voting.

In order to have the right to attend and vote at a general meeting of shareholders, a shareholder must be registered in the shareholders' register on the cut-off date which is seven days before the meeting. Voting rights may not be exercised by a shareholder whose shares are registered in the name of a nominee unless the nominee account holder has given a power of attorney to the shareholder.

A general meeting of shareholders is capable of passing resolutions if more than one-half of the votes represented by shares held by the shareholders are present at the meeting. If the meeting has no quorum, the management board must call a new general meeting of shareholders for a date not later than within three weeks but not earlier than seven days after the date of the original meeting. There are no quorum requirements for the newly called general meeting.

Voting rights

The Company has one class of Shares. Each Share entitles the holder to one vote.

Pursuant to Estonian Commercial Code, a shareholder may attend and vote at a general meeting of shareholders in person or by proxy. At a general meeting of shareholders, resolutions generally require the approval of a majority of the votes represented at the meeting. However, certain resolutions, such as amending the articles of association, increasing or decreasing the share capital and, in certain cases, resolutions relating to a merger, division, reorganisation or liquidation of the company, require a majority of two-thirds of the votes represented at the general meeting of shareholders. Any issuance of new shares on terms other than in accordance with the existing shareholders' pre-emptive subscription rights requires a majority of at least three quarters of the votes represented at the general meeting. Issuing a different class of shares requires amendment of the articles of association by a two-thirds majority of votes represented at the general meeting.

The rights attaching to any class of shares may be amended only by a decision of the general meeting of shareholders which is supported by a qualified majority of four-fifths of all votes and nine-tenths of the shareholders whose rights are proposed to be amended.

Shareholders' right to information

Shareholders have the right to receive information on the activities of the Company from the management board at the general meeting of shareholders. The management board may refuse to give information if there is a basis to presume that this may cause significant damage to the interests of the Company. If the management board refuses to give information, the shareholder may demand that the general meeting of shareholders decide on the legality of the shareholder's request or to file, within two weeks after the general meeting of shareholders, a petition to a court by way of proceedings on petition in order to oblige the management board to give information.

The above-referred rights also belong to the shareholders of the Company.

Dividends and other distributions

Under the Estonian Commercial Code, a general meeting of shareholders may authorize the payment of dividends on the terms and conditions set out in the profit distribution proposal presented by the management board. The supervisory council has the right to make changes to the proposal of the management board before submission to the general meeting.

Dividends, if any, should be paid in cash or, if the shareholders consent, in other property. The shareholders decide annually the dividend amount and procedure of payment on the basis of the approved annual report (the decision may, however, stipulate that the dividends are to be paid out in several instalments). As a general rule, no interim dividends may be paid in respect of a financial period for which an annual report (together with the audited financial statements) has not yet been approved by the general meeting of shareholders. However, the articles of association may provide that the management board has the right, upon the consent of the supervisory council, to make advance payments to the shareholders on account of the estimated profit after the end of a financial year but before the approval of the annual report, provided that such advance payments do not exceed one half of the amount that may be distributed among shareholders. The Company's Articles of Association do not provide for such right of the Management Board.

Dividends may only be paid out from net profit or undistributed profit from previous financial years, and from which uncovered losses from previous years have been deducted. Dividends may not be paid to the shareholders if the net assets of the company, as recorded in the approved annual report of the previous financial year, are less than or would be less than the total of share capital and reserves, which, pursuant to applicable law or the articles of association, may not be distributed to the shareholders.

Dividends of listed companies are paid only to those shareholders (or their nominees) who are entered on the list of shareholders (shareholders' register) as maintained in the ECRS on the respective record date. If a general meeting of shareholders adopts a resolution that relates to rights attached to the shares (for example, the declaration of payment of dividends), the record date may not be earlier than the tenth trading day after the date of the relevant general meeting of shareholders.

All existing Shares rank pari passu with regard to dividends and other distributions of the Company (including distribution of assets in the event of dissolution). The Company's Articles of Association do not provide for different rules in respect of dividend payments as compared to those set out in the Commercial Code and described above.

Pre-emptive subscription rights

Under Estonian law, existing shareholders of a public limited company have pre-emptive rights to subscribe for new shares in the company, in proportion to their existing shareholding. A resolution waiving pre-emptive rights must be approved by at least three-fourths of all votes represented at the general meeting of shareholders. Such pre-emptive right is also attached to the Shares.

Right to acquire own shares

A public limited company is entitled to acquire its own shares only if all the following conditions are met:

- the acquisition occurs within five years after the adoption of a resolution of the general meeting of shareholders which specifies the conditions and term for the acquisition and the amounts to be paid for the shares;
- the sum of the nominal value of the shares held by the company does not exceed one-tenth of its share capital; and
- the shares are paid for from assets excluding the share capital, reserve capital and premium.

However, a public limited company may acquire its shares by inheritance. A public limited company may also acquire its shares by a resolution of the supervisory council without requiring a resolution of the general meeting of shareholders if the acquisition of the shares is necessary to prevent significant damage to the company. In such case, the shareholders must be informed of the circumstances and details of the acquisition of the company's own shares at the next general meeting of shareholders.

In the event that the shares acquired contribute to more than one-tenth of the share capital, such excess shares must be disposed of within three years of their acquisition. In the event that the public limited company acquires its own shares in violation of the law, such shares must be disposed of or cancelled (by decreasing the share capital) within one year of acquisition.

The rules regarding the acquisition of a company's own shares are also applied to the acquisition of a parent company's shares by the subsidiaries. In the event that a subsidiary acquires the shares of its parent company, the parent company shall be regarded as the acquiring party.

Pursuant to the Estonian Commercial Code, the management board is required to submit to the Estonian Commercial Register, together with the approved annual report, a proposal for profit distribution, a sworn auditors' report and a list of shareholders holding more than 10% of the votes as at the date of the approval of the annual report by the general meeting of shareholders. This requirement is also applicable to the Management Board. See "Estonian Securities Market - ECRS and Registration of Shares" for a description of other instances when information concerning the shareholders is accessible to the public.

Squeeze-out rules

The Commercial Code provides that a shareholder whose shares, together with the shares of its parent undertaking and its subsidiaries, represent at least 90% of the share capital of a public limited company, is entitled to make an offer to acquire the remaining outstanding shares of the company for fair monetary compensation. Such an offer must be presented to the general meeting of shareholders and, if at least 95% of the votes represented by the shares of the Company are cast in favour, the offer will be binding on all shareholders. These squeeze-out rules are also applicable to the Company.

According to the Estonian Central Registry of Securities Act (the "ECRSA"), nominee accounts can be set up for the purpose of administering securities held for the clients of the owner of the nominee account (i.e. the nominee). Nominee accounts are used to only hold the securities, which the nominee acquires in its own name but for the client under a mandate or in other similar legal relationship, as well as securities gained, including in dividends or as a result of replacement or exchange of securities and other securities received on account of such securities. Therefore, the Shares held by a nominee in the nominee account for the investors, are held in the name of such nominee but for the benefit of the investors.

According to ECRSA the securities, which have been acquired for the client but in the name of the nominee under a mandate or other similar legal relationship or have been transferred to the nominee under a contract or otherwise shall be regarded vis-à-vis the nominee and its creditors as the securities of the client. Therefore, the Shares, which a nominee holds in the nominee account for the investors, shall be regarded vis-à-vis such nominee and its creditors as the securities of the investors for whom the Shares are held by such nominee.

According to ECRSA where the nominee holds on its payment account any funds for and on behalf of a client for the nominee account purposes, the nominee shall keep account of such funds held on its account per each client individually. The nominee shall dispose of the funds held on such payment account according to the mandate or other instructions given in a similar legal relationship. The funds held for the client on the payment account for the nominee account purposes shall be regarded vis-à-vis the nominee and its creditors as the funds of the client. Therefore, if the Company pays any dividends and if respective funds are paid to a nominee in relation to the Shares held by that nominee in the nominee account for the investors; such funds shall be regarded vis-à-vis such nominee and its creditors as the funds of the investors.

According to ECRSA, the securities and funds of a client referred to above cannot be seized or attached in execution proceedings brought against the nominee and are to be exempted from the nominee's bankruptcy estate. The restrictions and limitations on transfers applied in respect of the nominee as the measures securing an action brought against the nominee do not extend to include the securities held on the nominee account or the funds on the related payment account.

According to ECRSA, the rights attaching to, and the obligations arising from, the securities (e.g. the Shares) held on the nominee account shall be exercised and performed by the nominee. The nominee shall exercise the voting and other rights attaching to the securities (e.g. the Shares) in accordance with the client's (i.e. investors') instructions. Upon request of the client the nominee shall issue to the client a proper authorisation for the exercise of the rights attaching to the securities held by the nominee. The nominee may exercise the voting rights attaching to the securities (e.g. the Shares) in accordance with the instructions received from the client (e.g. investors for whom the Shares are held in the nominee account).

PART XIV. ESTONIAN SECURITIES MARKET

The following describes certain provisions of Estonian laws regulating the legal status and management of public limited companies. The following description does not constitute an exhaustive description of the subject matter. It is based on the laws of Estonia as in force on the date of this Prospectus, and is subject to changes as a result of any future amendments to Estonian laws.

The information presented in this Section is provided for the general background purposes only. Therefore, investors should obtain an opinion of their own legal advisor concerning the provisions of law related to the acquisition, holding and disposal of Shares.

1. INTRODUCTION TO ESTONIAN COMPANY LAW

Under Estonian law, limited liability companies are divided into two main categories – private limited companies (osaühing, OÜ) and public limited companies (aktsiaselts, AS). Shareholders of private limited companies and public limited companies are generally not personally liable for the obligations of the companies. The two types of companies mainly differ in their requirements for capital and management structures. Public limited companies have greater capital requirements and can issue more classes of shares than private limited companies, and are required to register their shares with the ECRS. Please also read “ECRS and Registration of Shares” below under Section 3 (Tallinn Stock Exchange and the Estonian Securities Market) regarding the functions of the ECRS.

A public limited company organized under Estonian law must be registered with the Estonian Commercial Register and its shares have to be registered with the ECRS. A public limited company acquires legal capacity upon its registration in the Estonian Commercial Register. The Estonian Commercial Register is maintained by the registration departments of the courts of first instance.

Public limited companies must have a minimum share capital of EUR 25,000. A public limited company's share capital must be fully paid-up as a condition of registration in the Estonian Commercial Register. Shares must be paid up in cash, unless the company's Articles of Association allows payment by means of a non-monetary contribution. The valuation of non-monetary contributions must be confirmed by the auditor.

Shares of public limited companies may be issued as shares with nominal value (a nominal value of 10 cents each or a full multiple thereof) or shares without nominal value. The simultaneous issue of both types of shares is prohibited. An equal part of the share capital shall conform to all shares without nominal value. Book value of shares without nominal value (i.e. the part of the share capital corresponding to one share without nominal value) is established by dividing the share capital by the number of shares. Shares are freely transferable, but the company's Articles of Association may confer a pre-emptive right on shareholders. Dividends must be distributed to shareholders pro rata, based upon the nominal value or book value of the shares held by each shareholder. A public limited company may issue different classes of shares, whose owners enjoy different rights upon distribution of profits and upon distribution of remaining assets in case of liquidation of the company. A public limited company may issue non-voting shares, which grant a preferential right to receive dividends and to participate in the distribution of the remaining assets of the company upon dissolution (preferred shares). The Articles of Association may prescribe that a preferred share shall grant the right to vote on the adoption of certain resolutions (restricted voting right). The sum of the nominal values of preferred shares may not be greater than one-third of the share capital.

2. CORPORATE GOVERNANCE

Under Estonian law, the control and management of a public limited company is divided among the general meeting of shareholders, the supervisory council and the management board.

General meeting of shareholders is the highest authority in a public limited company and makes the most important decisions in the company, such as amending the articles of association, increasing and reducing share capital, approving the annual report and distributing profit. Please also read Part XIII (Information on the Company, Shares and Share Capital) for further information on the tasks and procedures related to the general meeting of shareholders.

The supervisory council engages in oversight and longer-term management activities, such as supervising the management board and devising business plans. The supervisory council must have at least three members, who are elected by the general meeting for a period of five years, unless a shorter period is prescribed in the Articles of Association. The supervisory council reports to the general meeting. A member of the supervisory council may not simultaneously serve as a member of the management board of the same company, or any of its subsidiaries.

The management board is an executive body in charge of the day-to-day management of the company, and it represents the company in relations with third parties, for example, in entering into contracts on behalf of the company. The management board is elected by the supervisory council for a term of three years, unless the Articles of Association prescribe another term, which, however, may not be longer than five years. The management board must adhere to the lawful orders of the supervisory council. Members of the management board may not simultaneously serve as the members of the supervisory council of the same company.

Members of the supervisory council and management board have a number of general obligations towards the company, such as a fiduciary duty of loyalty, the obligation to act with due diligence and sufficient skills and to the maximum benefit of the company. They must inform the company about any material facts related to the performance of their duties. Members of the supervisory council and management board are subject to a strict confidentiality obligation that applies to any information that they learn in connection with the discharge of their duties that the company has a legitimate interest to keep confidential, and above all, information relating to the trade and business secrets of the company. The confidentiality obligation continues after the management board or supervisory council member's term of service expires, to the extent necessary to protect the company's justified interests. Exceptions to the confidentiality obligation arise where the company authorizes disclosure, or where the law requires disclosure. Unauthorized disclosure of business secrets may result in criminal sanctions.

Under the Estonian Commercial Code, a public limited company is required to engage an auditor who must be appointed by the general meeting of shareholders. The general meeting of shareholders also determines the principles of remuneration of the company's auditors. The auditors may be appointed for a specified term or for a single audit.

A public limited company is required to have its annual report audited. After the end of the financial year, the management board must prepare the annual accounts and activity report and present them to the auditor for review. The management board presents the annual report (comprising the annual accounts and management report), the sworn auditor's report and a proposal regarding the distribution of profit to the general meeting of shareholders for approval. The supervisory council has the right to make amendments to the profit distribution proposal before it is presented to the general meeting of shareholders. In addition, the supervisory council must review the annual report and prepare a written report thereon, which must, among other things, indicate whether or not the supervisory council approves the annual report. This report must be presented to the general meeting of shareholders together with the annual report.

Shareholders whose shares represent at least one tenth of the share capital of the company may demand from the company that the auditor who prepared the sworn auditor's report participates in the making of the decision regarding the approval of the annual report, and provides explanations concerning the auditor's report. Such a request must be submitted to the company in writing at least five days before the general meeting of shareholders.

3. TALLINN STOCK EXCHANGE AND THE ESTONIAN SECURITIES MARKET

Tallinn Stock Exchange and the ECSD are the leading securities market infrastructure operators in Estonia. Herein is a summary of the information concerning the Estonian regulated securities market and certain provisions of Estonian law and current securities market regulations in effect on the date of this Prospectus.

Tallinn Stock Exchange

The Tallinn Stock Exchange is the single stock exchange operating in Estonia. It is operated by NASDAQ OMX Tallinn AS, a public limited company whose principal shareholder is NASDAQ OMX Nordic OY, a company controlled by NASDAQ Stock Market Inc. which is the world's largest exchange company. The Tallinn Stock Exchange is a self-regulated organisation, issuing and enforcing its own rules and regulations consistent with standard exchange operating procedures, but is licensed and supervised by the Estonian Authority. The Rules of Tallinn Stock Exchange are established by NASDAQ OMX Tallinn AS, the operator of the Tallinn Stock Exchange, in order to ensure the regular and lawful operation of the stock exchange. The operator may unilaterally amend the Tallinn Stock Exchange Rules, though the Estonian Authority must approve such amendments. The rules and regulations of the Tallinn Stock Exchange regulate the listing of securities and trading in them on the Tallinn Stock Exchange and the performance of the obligations arising from securities transactions performed on the Tallinn Stock Exchange. The Tallinn Stock Exchange Rules are established by the management board of the Tallinn Stock Exchange. The Tallinn Stock Exchange Rules are binding on the members of the Tallinn Stock Exchange and the issuers whose securities are listed or admitted to trading on the Main List or the Secondary List which is a separate market also regulated by the Tallinn Stock Exchange. The activities of, and trading on, the Tallinn Stock Exchange are subject to two tiers of regulation. Laws and government regulations comprise the basic regulatory framework, which is then supplemented by the Tallinn Stock Exchange Rules. The principal laws governing the activities of, and trading on, the Tallinn Stock Exchange are the Estonian Securities Market Act and the Estonian Central Register of Securities Act.

ECRS and Registration of Shares

The ECRS is a public register established, among other matters, for the registration of shares and other securities stipulated in the ECRSA and transactions executed with such securities (including pledges). The ECRS is operated by ECSD. The ECSD is organized as a public limited company, and its shares are fully owned by NASDAQ OMX Tallinn AS. The ECSD's primary functions include clearing and settling securities transactions, maintaining records of share ownership and pledges, and providing securities-related services to issuers and investors. The ECSD is the responsible body for the only securities settlement system (SSS) in Estonia, which settles stock exchanges and over-the-counter trades. The Estonian Central Bank acts as a settlement bank of the netted cash position of the participants in the SSS.

The public has access to certain information, and has the right to obtain extracts and transcripts of documents from the ECRS, concerning the issuer (its name, seat and registry code) and the securities (the type, nominal value and amount of securities) registered with the ECRS. If shares are quoted on the stock exchange, the information concerning the shareholders is also accessible to the public. The ECRSA stipulates further circumstances when additional information registered with the ECRS is accessible to third parties.

A securities account can be opened in the ECRS by any Estonian or foreign person. The opening of the account takes place through an account operator (custodian). Account operators are institutions that qualify under Estonian law as professional participants in the securities market, such as credit institutions, investment firms, and other persons specified by law. In certain cases, foreign persons may act as account operators. Under certain conditions, a nominee account can be opened in the ECRS, in which case a notation is made in the ECRS indicating the nominee status of the relevant account. Shares held in the nominee account are deemed to be the client's shares, and not the shares of the account owner, and thus cannot be brought into the bankruptcy estate of the owner of the nominee account. The person who is entitled to exercise the rights arising from shares held in the nominee account is the account owner. In the exercise of voting rights and other rights arising from a share, the owner of a nominee account must follow the instructions of the client. At the request of the client, the owner of a nominee account must grant authorization in the required format to the client for the client to represent the owner in the exercise of rights arising from the shares.

Listing on the Tallinn Stock Exchange

In order to list shares on the Main List of the Tallinn Stock Exchange, among other requirements, a sufficient number of such shares must be held by the public. As a general rule, this condition is fulfilled if at least 25% of the share capital represented by the shares to be listed is held by the public, or taking into consideration the number of shares and their distribution among the public, the market would also operate properly at a lower percentage of shares held by the public, or such level of distribution is expected to be achieved shortly after listing. The Tallinn Stock Exchange Rules set out certain specific criteria as to determining whether shares are held by the public.

Trading on the Tallinn Stock Exchange

The trading system of the Tallinn Stock Exchange is open for trading to its members. Trading on the Tallinn Stock Exchange takes place on each business day from 10:00 a.m. to 3:55 p.m. (Estonian time). From 3:55 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. on the Tallinn Stock Exchange, the pre post-market trading is carried out. From 4:00 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. the Tallinn Stock Exchange carries out post-market trading. The Tallinn Stock Exchange uses the trading system INET, which in addition to Estonia is used by exchanges in Sweden, Finland, Denmark, Iceland, Latvia, Lithuania, and by exchanges of NASDAQ Group in the United States of America. The official trading currency of the Tallinn Stock Exchange trading system is euro. Transactions can be concluded on the Tallinn Stock Exchange either through automatic matching or through manual trades. In the case of automatic matching, the buy and sell orders are matched by the trading system automatically according to price and time priorities. Automatically matched transactions are settled on the third day after the transaction (T+3), unless agreed otherwise. Manual trades are negotiated between stock exchange members outside the system and brokers must enter the deal in the trading system as soon as possible, but not later than three minutes after its conclusion. Manual trades may have a settlement day between T+1 (inclusive) and T+6 (inclusive). Generally, member firms may agree on a different settlement date of the transaction than the one provided in the previous sentence only on the consent of the Tallinn Stock Exchange.

The operator of the Tallinn Stock Exchange is required to ensure constant access on its website to information on the securities traded on the market, including the acquisition and transfer prices of the securities, recent prices, price changes, the highest and lowest prices and the volume and number of transactions. According to the Estonian Securities Market Act such information must be accurate, clear, precise and complete. The Tallinn Stock Exchange operates an electronic trading system that provides real-time stock quotes, distributes issuer announcements and displays information regarding executed transactions, statistics and other such data. The operator of the Tallinn Stock Exchange must record at least the following regarding transactions concluded on the exchange: (i) the time at which the transaction is concluded; (ii) information regarding the market participant who concluded the transaction; (iii) the securities which served as the object of the transaction; and (iv) their number, nominal value and price. In accordance with the Tallinn Stock Exchange Rules, the operator of the Tallinn Stock Exchange has the right to request additional information regarding a transaction for the purposes of recording the transaction.

The Listing and Surveillance Committee of the Tallinn Stock Exchange has the right, for the purpose of ensuring sufficient liquidity of a security, to demand that the issuer concludes a market-making agreement with a member of the Tallinn Stock Exchange with respect to the securities to be listed.

Supervision of the Tallinn Stock Exchange

Activities of the Tallinn Stock Exchange are supervised by the Estonian Authority, which is a body carrying out the supervision of all Estonian financial institutions including banks, insurance companies, investment and pension funds and the securities market. Compliance with the Tallinn Stock Exchange Rules by its members is monitored by the Listing and Surveillance Committee of the Tallinn Stock Exchange. The operator of the Tallinn Stock Exchange exercises supervision over the exchange with respect to the prices of securities traded on the exchange and the conduct and execution of transactions for the purpose of detecting and reducing transactions conducted on the basis of inside information, market manipulation and other violations of the law. The operator of the Tallinn Stock Exchange also supervises the disclosure of adequate information to the investors, protection of the interests of the investors as well as their fair and equal treatment. The operator of the Tallinn Stock Exchange can apply contractual penalties, full or partial suspensions of up to 30 days, suspension of the listing of or trading with the security of up to 30 days, termination of membership of the exchange, or permanent termination of the listing or trading with the security. The operator is under an obligation to notify the Estonian Authority immediately of any violation of law. The Estonian Authority also has specific supervisory obligations for monitoring transactions concluded on the exchange.

4. DISCLOSURE OF TRANSACTIONS AND OWNERSHIP

A person who has acquired in an issuer, either directly or indirectly, individually or together with persons operating in concert, a qualifying holding and in connection therewith or thereafter has acquired or increased the number of votes owned by such person over 5%, 10%, 15%, 20%, 25%, one-third, 50% or two-thirds of all votes represented by the shares of the issuer, must immediately, and in any event by no later than four business days thereafter, notify the issuer and the Estonian Authority of the number of votes owned by such person. The same notification requirements also apply in case the holding falls below the prescribed levels. Moreover, the notification obligation also applies if the number of the person's votes in the issuer of shares reaches, exceeds or falls below the specified amounts due to an event changing the breakdown of the voting rights.

The notification must contain at least the following information:

- breakdown of voting rights according to the situation at hand;
- where possible, information concerning the controlled companies through which the securities related to such voting rights are actually held;
- the date of reaching or exceeding the corresponding limit amount;

- information concerning the shareholder, including in the case where the shareholder has no right to perform the voting right, and information concerning the person who has the right to perform the voting right on behalf of such shareholder.

If more than one person has the notification obligation, such persons may submit a joint one-time notice. The submission of a joint one-time notice does not release any of the persons from compliance with the obligations related to the notice of such person.

With respect to voting rights represented by issuer's shares which a person has the right to acquire on the basis of the securities held by him or her directly or indirectly only on own initiative and on the basis of a binding arrangement pursuant to the law applicable thereto, the person holding the securities must total all the securities related to the underlying the same issuer's shares and must correspondingly give notice thereof.

The above notification obligation does not apply to:

- shares which are acquired only for settlement purposes within a short settlement cycle (maximum three trading days following the transaction);
- shares held by a person providing the service of safekeeping of shares, within the limits of its authority to provide such service, provided that such service provider is permitted to perform the voting rights represented by such shares only in writing or based on instructions received through electronic media;
- a 5% holding acquired or transferred by a market-maker within its market-making authority, provided that the market-maker does not interfere with the management of the issuer or influence the issuer to buy the shares held by the market-maker or to guarantee their price;
- voting rights represented by the shares included in the trading book of the credit institution or investment firm, provided that such voting rights do not exceed 5% of all the voting rights represented by the shares issued by the issuer and the credit institution or investment firm guarantees that such voting rights are not performed or used to interfere in the management of the issuer.

Upon demand of the Estonian Authority or the issuer of the share, the person who notified of the number of votes based on the notification requirement described above is required to provide certification concerning the number of votes directly or indirectly owned thereby, and on the size, acquisition, possession or transfer of the holding.

The issuer must organise the publication of the information received on the basis of the above described notification requirements without delay but not later than within three trading days after receiving the notice, unless the information is published by the Estonian Authority within three trading days after receiving the notice.

If the issuer of shares acquires or transfers the shares itself or through a third person acting in its own name but at the expense of the issuer, and as the result the proportion of its shares in the voting rights reaches, exceeds or falls below 5 or 10%, then the issuer is required to make public such proportion without delay but not later than within four trading days after the acquisition or transfer of the shares. The proportion of own shares is calculated on the basis of all the voting rights represented by the shares issued by the issuer.

The Estonian Authority has the right to make exemptions from such notification requirements in certain circumstances.

The issuer is also required to ensure that shareholders holding more than 5% of the shares of the issuer disclose, through the issuer, all the significant provisions of all the agreements made with other shareholders or third parties which are aimed at restricting the free transferability of the shares or which may have a significant effect on the price of the shares.

In order to ensure that disclosure obligations established by law are also fulfilled in respect of shareholdings held by nominee accounts, the operator of a nominee account is required to enter into written agreements with the clients on whose behalf the operator holds securities. These agreements must, among other requirements, require the client to notify the issuer and/or the competent supervisory body (the exact person to whom the notification must be submitted may vary depending on a particular transaction) if a holding in a company exceeds the threshold established by law or to obtain the permission of the competent supervisory body for the holding to exceed the threshold established by law (such permission is required, for example, in the case of the acquisition of a holding above a certain level in financial institutions, or in the case of an acquisition subject to concentration control by competition authorities).

5. MARKET ABUSE

Estonian law prohibits market abuse, which, within the meaning of the Estonian Securities Market Act (the “ESMA”), is misuse of inside information and market manipulation. Restrictions established for the misuse of inside information also apply to financial instruments that are not admitted to trading in Estonia or in a Member State of the EEA but the value of which depends on a financial instrument that is admitted to trading in Estonia or in an EEA Member State.

Inside information is precise information which has not been made public, relating, directly or indirectly, to the financial instrument or its issuer and which, if it were made public, would be likely to have a significant effect on the price of the financial instrument or on the price of related derivative financial instruments. The law establishes additional conditions under which information may qualify as inside information.

Misuse of inside information comprises, among other actions, the trading on the basis of inside information, unauthorized disclosure of inside information, and the making of recommendations on the basis of inside information for the acquisition or disposal of financial instruments to which that information relates.

An insider who, directly or indirectly, on its own account or on the account of a third party, acquires or transfers a financial instrument to which the inside information relates or a derivative security related to such financial instrument or who makes recommendations to third parties or influences third parties to acquire or transfer such financial instrument or derivative security, commits a criminal offence, and may be subject to fines or imprisonment up to three years. The ESMA also provides under certain circumstances the right to demand directly from the issuer of the financial instrument traded on the Estonian market compensation of damages arising from the failure to disclose the information.

Issuers of publicly-traded securities and other individuals or entities that have regular access to inside information are required to establish internal rules and procedures to prevent the disclosure of such information.

The ESMA contains a non-exhaustive list of actions including price fixing, dissemination of rumours and false news and other methods that are deemed to constitute market manipulation. Credit institutions, investment firms and others providing investment recommendations must disclose any conflicts of interest they may have when providing investment advice. Under the ESMA, market manipulation may be punishable as a misdemeanour offence with a fine of up to EUR 1,200 in case of individuals and with a fine of up to EUR 32,000 in case of legal persons. Under the Estonian Penal Code, certain actions of market manipulation conducted by shareholders of the issuer or persons related to the issuer due to their employment or work duties may be subject to fines or imprisonment up to three years. Additionally, under the Estonian Penal Code a legal person may be punished for market manipulation with a fine up to EUR 16,000,000.

The Tallinn Stock Exchange Rules also restrict transactions involving an issuer’s securities by certain officials of the issuer and by persons connected with such officials, to avoid profiting from short-term price fluctuations of the issuer’s securities and during restricted periods (in particular, after the end of a financial period but when the financial results of the issuer have not yet been made public). The Listing and Supervisory Committee of the Tallinn Stock Exchange has the right to make exemptions from the requirement to abstain from trading during a restricted period if the Committee is of the opinion that the transaction will not be executed on the basis of confidential information.

6. MANDATORY TAKEOVER BIDS

Mandatory takeover bid rules are provided in the ESMA where the rules stipulated in the Takeover Directive have been transposed. Pursuant to ESMA, the Estonian law applies in matters relating to the information to be provided to the employees of the offeree company and in matters relating to company law, in particular the percentage of voting rights which confers control and any derogation from the obligation to launch a bid, as well as the conditions under which the board of the offeree company may undertake any action which might result in the frustration of the bid.

A person, who has gained, either directly or together with other persons acting in concert, a dominant influence over a company whose shares are listed on a stock exchange, is required to make within 20 days a takeover bid for all the outstanding shares of such issuer. Exemptions from the obligation to make the mandatory take-over bid may be granted by the Estonian Authority in case of certain specific circumstances provided by law.

For these purposes, a “dominant influence” is a situation where a person: (i) owns the majority of votes represented by the issuer’s shares; or (ii) being a shareholder of the company, has the right to appoint or remove majority of the members of the supervisory council or management board of the company; or (iii) being a shareholder of the company, controls simple majority of the votes represented by the company’s shares on the basis of an agreement entered into with other shareholders.

The ESMA requires that the purchase price payable for the shares which are the object of the mandatory takeover bid must be fair. The ESMA furthermore contains detailed provisions of how the fairness of the purchase price is determined, as well as regulating the overall course and preconditions of the entire takeover process.

7. ANTITRUST LAWS

Under Estonian law, a concentration is deemed to arise where previously independent undertakings merge or parts of undertakings are merged or where an undertaking acquires control of the whole or a part of another undertaking, or of several undertakings or parts thereof, also where undertakings jointly acquire control of the whole or a part of another undertaking, or of several undertakings or parts thereof.

Further, a merger is deemed to arise where a natural person already controlling at least one undertaking acquires control of the whole or a part of another undertaking, or of several undertakings or parts thereof or where several natural persons already controlling at least one undertaking jointly acquire control of the whole or a part of another undertaking, or of several undertakings or parts thereof.

A concentration will be subject to control by the Estonian Competition Authority if, during the previous financial year, the aggregate turnover in Estonia of the parties to the concentration exceeded EUR 6,391,200 and the aggregate turnover in Estonia of each of at least two parties to the concentration exceeded EUR 1,917,350. However, a concentration is not controlled by the Estonian Competition Authority if the concentration is subject to control pursuant to Council Regulation 139/2004/EC on the control of concentrations between undertakings (the “Council Regulation”), unless the European Commission appoints the Estonian Competition Authority as the authority competent to exercise control over the concentration.

The Estonian Competition Authority must be notified of a concentration subject to control before the entry into force of the concentration and after the conclusion of a merger agreement or the performance of a transaction or other act for acquisition of parts of the undertaking or after the performance of a transaction or other act for acquisition of control or after the performance of a transaction or other act for acquisition of joint control or after the announcement of a public bid for securities.

The Estonian Competition Authority may be notified of a planned concentration subject to control also before a transaction or act for such merger or acquisition of control is performed or a public bid is announced, if the parties to the concentration prove their intention to perform such act or transaction or if, in the case of a public bid, the parties to the concentration have publicly announced their intention to carry out such a bid.

The requirements regarding concentration control also arise from the Council Regulation on the control of concentrations between undertakings. This regulation governs the concentrations with so-called Community dimension. Concentrations with a Community dimension are subject to notification of the European Commission before they are executed.

Concentrations with a Community dimension are defined as those where either: (i) the combined aggregate worldwide turnover of all undertakings concerned is more than EUR 5 billion; and (ii) the aggregate turnover in the European Community of each of at least two undertakings concerned is more than EUR 250 million unless each of the undertakings concerned achieves more than two-thirds of its aggregate turnover in the European Community in the same member state.

Concentrations with a Community dimension are also defined as those where either: (i) the aggregate worldwide turnover of all the undertakings concerned is more than EUR 2 500 million; (ii) in each of at least three member states, the combined aggregate turnover of all undertakings concerned is more than EUR 100 million; (iii) in each of at least three member states, the aggregate turnover of each of at least two of the undertakings concerned is more than EUR 25 million and (iv) the aggregate turnover in the European Community of each of at least two undertakings concerned is more than EUR 100 million, unless each of the undertakings concerned achieves more than two-thirds of its aggregate turnover in the European Community within one and the same member state.

8. ENFORCEMENT OF CIVIL LIABILITIES IN ESTONIA

European Council Regulation (EC) No 44/2001 on jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in civil and commercial matters sets forth a requirement that judgments of the courts of the member states of the European Union (except for Denmark) should be recognized and enforced in Estonia.

Recognition and enforcement of judgments of all other foreign courts in Estonia is regulated by the Code of Civil Procedure. Pursuant to the Code of Civil Procedure, each judgement in a civil matter made by a foreign state other than a Member State of the European Union is subject to recognition in Estonia, except in the case where: (i) recognition of the decision would be clearly contrary to the essential principles of Estonian law (public order) and, above all, the fundamental rights and freedoms of persons; (ii) the defendant or other debtor was unable to reasonably defend the rights thereof and, above all, if the summons or other document initiating the proceeding was not served on time and in the requisite manner, unless such person had a reasonable opportunity to contest the decision and the person failed to do so within the prescribed term; (iii) the decision is in conflict with an earlier decision made in Estonia in the same matter between the same parties or if an action between the same parties has been filed with an Estonian court; (iv) the decision is in conflict with a decision of a foreign court in the same matter between the same parties which has been earlier recognised or enforced in Estonia; (v) the decision is in conflict with a decision made in a foreign state in the same matter between the same parties which has not been recognised in Estonia, provided that the earlier court decision of the foreign state is subject to recognition or enforcement in Estonia; (vi) the court which made the decision could not make the decision in compliance with the provisions of Estonian law regulating international jurisdiction. Unless otherwise provided by law or an international treaty, a court decision of a foreign state is subject to enforcement in Estonia only after the decision has been declared to be subject to enforcement by the Estonian court.

Estonia is a party to the 1958 New York Convention on recognition and enforcement of foreign arbitral awards. Therefore, Estonian courts are legally bound to enforce decisions of foreign arbitration courts notwithstanding in which country such award has been adopted (i.e., whether a convention member state or not).

PART XV. TAXATION

1. ESTONIAN TAX CONSIDERATIONS

The following summary is based on the tax laws of Estonia as in effect on the date of this Prospectus, and is subject to changes in such laws, including changes that could have a retroactive effect. The following summary is not exhaustive and does not take into account or discuss the tax laws of any jurisdiction other than Estonia. Each person is encouraged to consult its own professional tax advisors as to the Estonian or any tax consequences in relation to Shares. Each person who may be affected by the tax laws of other jurisdictions should consult their own tax advisors with respect to the tax consequences applicable to their particular circumstances.

Corporate income tax

The Estonian Income Tax Act (Tulumaksuseadus) provides that the accrued profit of a legal entity resident in Estonia, such as the Company, is not subject to corporate income tax at the moment the profits are generated, but corporate income tax is charged on dividend and other profit distributions (e.g. payments from the equity, non-business expenses, gifts and donations and fringe benefits). Estonia applies also transfer pricing taxation principles.

In particular, pursuant to the Income Tax Act, corporate income tax is applied on:

- dividends;
- payments made by the Company upon reduction of share capital or share buy-back as well as liquidation proceeds;
- non-business expenses;
- fringe benefits granted to employees and the management;
- gifts, donations and costs of entertaining, catering, accommodation and transportation of guests which exceed tax exempt limits.

The corporate income tax at a rate of 21/79 has to be paid on the net amount of dividend or other profit distributions made by the Company (which equals 21% of the gross amount of distribution). The corporate income tax has to be paid and declared by the tenth day of the month following the month in which the payment was made.

In case of redistribution of dividends the Income Tax Act provides specific exemptions from the corporate income tax. In particular, dividend payable by an Estonian resident company is exempt of corporate income tax, if the dividend is payable on the account of dividend income received from a company being a resident of a state belonging to the European Economic Area or Switzerland (except companies located in low tax rate territories) and the holding belonging to the Estonian resident company upon receipt of dividends is at least 10%. Dividends payable on the account of profits attributable to a permanent establishment located in the European Economic Area or Switzerland are also exempt of corporate income tax. Certain other exemptions apply.

Dividends

Estonia does not apply withholding income tax on dividends. Nevertheless the corporate income tax on profit distributions is applied based on the above-mentioned principles.

Capital Gains

The Estonian legal persons do not pay corporate income tax on capital gains received from the sale or exchange of Shares until distribution.

As a general rule, income tax is not charged on gains realized also by non-residents (whether legal persons or individuals). However, Estonian income tax is charged on the capital gain realized from the sale or exchange of Shares of a “real estate company” if the non-resident's holding exceeds 10%. A “real estate company” for these purposes is a company, contractual investment fund or other pool of assets of whose property, at the time of the transfer or during a period within 2 years before transfer, more than 50% was directly or indirectly made up of immovable properties or structures as movables located in Estonia.

As at 30 June 2012, immovable properties or structures as movables located in Estonia constituted directly or indirectly less than 50% of the assets of the Company.

In case of Estonian individuals capital gains received from the sale or exchange of Shares are subject to taxation even if the company is not a "real estate company".

The income tax is charged on the gains realized from the sale or exchange of a shareholding, with the gains being equal to the difference between the acquisition cost and the sale price/exchange value of the relevant shareholding. A shareholder is entitled to deduct documented expenses directly related to the sale or exchange from the amount of the gain as well. Realized capital gains are currently subject to income tax of 21%. The tax return is due by 31 March following the year the gain was received. After the tax return is submitted, income tax has to be paid: non-residents have to pay income tax by 30 June and resident individuals by 1 October.

Payments made by the Company upon reduction of share capital or share buy-back as well as liquidation proceeds are, as a general rule, subject to taxation at the level of the Company. Under certain conditions tax consequences may follow also to a non-resident (whether legal persons or individuals) or resident individual shareholders.

Exemptions or more favourable tax consequences may be available to non-residents under double taxation treaties. In general, the double taxation treaties provide that capital gains from the alienation of immovable property located in Estonia or shares in a company the assets of which consist mainly of such property may be taxed in Estonia. The double taxation treaty with the Netherlands, on the other hand, precludes Estonian taxation on the sale or exchange of shares in a "real estate company".

Stamp Duty and Other Transfer Taxes

There are currently no stamp duties or other transfer taxes payable on the transfer of Shares. However, fees and charges are generally levied by the operators of securities accounts in the ECRS on transactions in the Shares which are cleared and settled through the ECRS.

2. LATVIAN TAX CONSIDERATIONS

The following summary is based on the tax laws of Latvia as in effect on the date of this Prospectus, and is subject to changes in such laws, including changes that could have a retroactive effect. The following summary is not exhaustive and does not take into account or discuss the tax laws of any jurisdiction other than Latvia. Each person is encouraged to consult its own professional tax advisors as to the Latvian or any tax consequences in relation to Shares. Each person who may be affected by the tax laws of other jurisdictions should consult their own tax advisors with respect to the tax consequences applicable to their particular circumstances.

Corporate income tax

The Latvian Corporate Income Tax Act (likums Par uzņēmumu ienākuma nodokli) provides that taxable income of a legal entity resident in Latvia is subject to corporate income tax at a flat rate of 15%.

Taxable income is the company's annual net income adjusted by a range of non-deductible expenses, tax-exempt fractions of income and other items.

The corporate income tax is payable by the 15th date of the month following the date on which the company's annual financial statements are approved. During the taxation year, the company is required to make monthly tax advance payments.

Latvia applies also transfer pricing taxation principles.

Dividends

Dividends payable by one Latvian resident company to another Latvian resident company are exempted from any taxation.

Dividends payable by a Latvian resident company to a non-resident company are subject to a 10% withholding tax in Latvia. However, no withholding tax is applicable if the recipient of dividends, e.g. the Estonian resident company:

- under the terms of any double taxation treaties with third states, is not considered to be a tax resident outside the EU and European Economic Area; and

- is subject to corporate income tax in Estonia, without the possibility of an option or of being exempt from the above tax.

Dividends received by individuals – tax residents in Latvia – will be subject to personal income tax in Latvia at a flat rate of 10%. The tax is payable by filing the annual income tax return which is due by the 1st of July of the post-taxation year.

Capital Gains

Capital gains from the sale of shares received by Latvian resident companies will be exempted from corporate taxation as from 1 January 2013 (currently capitals gains are taxable at a standard rate of 15%).

Capital gains from the sale of shares in a Latvian resident company received by Estonian resident company are not subject to taxation in Latvia. However, if 50% or more of the Latvian company's total assets in which the shares are sold consist of real estate (also in the form of shareholdings in other real estate companies), the sale of such shares to a non-resident is subject to a 2% withholding tax in Latvia.

Capital gains from the sale of shares received by individuals – tax residents in Latvia – will be subject to personal income tax in Latvia at a flat rate of 15%. The taxable capital gains are calculated as the difference between the sales price and the costs associated with the purchase of the shares. The tax is payable either on a monthly or a quarterly basis depending on the volume of the capital gains derived.

Stamp Duty and Other Transfer Taxes

There are currently no stamp duties or other transfer taxes payable on the transfer of Shares. However, fees and charges are generally levied by the operators of securities accounts in the ECRS and Latvian Central Depository on transactions in with the Shares which are cleared and settled through the ECRS and Latvian Central Depository.

3. LITHUANIAN TAX CONSIDERATIONS

The following summary is based on the tax laws of Lithuania as in effect on the date of this Prospectus, and is subject to changes in such laws, including changes that could have a retroactive effect. The following summary is not exhaustive and does not take into account or discuss the tax laws of any jurisdiction other than Lithuania. Each person is encouraged to consult its own professional tax advisors as to the Lithuanian or any tax consequences in relation to Shares. Each person who may be affected by the tax laws of other jurisdictions should consult their own tax advisors with respect to the tax consequences applicable to their particular circumstances.

The summary of certain tax implications related to the holding or disposal of shares, as presented below, is based on the provisions of the Republic of Lithuanian Law on Corporate Income Tax and the Republic of Lithuanian Law on Personal Income Tax.

Dividends

Dividends paid by a Lithuanian company to a natural person (a resident or non-resident of Lithuania) are subject to the personal income tax at a rate of 20%.

Dividends paid by a Lithuanian company to a Lithuanian or foreign legal person are subject to the corporate income tax at a rate of 15%.

If a shareholder (a Lithuanian or foreign legal person) controls at least 10% of all voting shares at the general meeting of shareholders of a Lithuanian company for an uninterrupted period of at least 12 months (including the moment of distribution of dividends), the dividends paid to such a shareholder are not subject to the corporate income tax.

Lithuania applies also transfer pricing taxation principles.

Capital Gains

Capital gains received from the transfer of shares are subject to corporate (personal) income tax. In this case, the gains are equal to the difference between the acquisition cost and the sale price of the relevant shareholding.

Natural persons

Capital gains received by an individual from the transfer of shares are subject to the personal income tax at a rate of 15%. Capital gains are not taxed if the person transfers his shares not earlier than 366 days after the date of their acquisition and if the individual had not held more than 10% of the shares in the Company for three years preceding the end of the calendar year during which the shares were transferred. This exemption does not apply if the buyer of the shares is the issuer of the shares, i.e. the Company, or if the income is received from the liquidation of the Company.

Capital gains received by a non-resident of Lithuania from the transfer of shares are not subject to personal income tax, except where the person operates in Lithuania through its permanent establishment.

Legal person

Capital gains received by a Lithuanian legal person from the transfer of shares are subject to the corporate income tax at a rate of 15%. The tax shall not apply if a shareholder (a Lithuanian or foreign legal person) has been in control of more than 25% of voting shares at the general meeting of shareholders of the Company for an uninterrupted period of at least two years (and if the shares have been transferred subsequent reorganisation or transfer of an entity, at least three years). This tax incentive does not apply if the shares are transferred to the company that issued such shares. This tax incentive does not apply if the income is received from the liquidation of the Company.

Capital gains received by a foreign legal person from the disposal of shares are not subject to the Lithuanian corporate income, personal income or other taxes, except where a foreign legal person operates in Lithuania through its permanent establishment.

Stamp Duty and Other Transfer Taxes

There are currently no stamp duties or other transfer taxes payable on the transfer of Shares. However, fees and charges are generally levied by the operators of securities accounts in the ECRS and Lithuanian Central Depository on transactions with the Shares which are cleared and settled through the ECRS and Lithuanian Central Depository.

4. PFIC CONSIDERATIONS

A corporation organized outside the United States generally will be classified as a “passive foreign investment company” (a “PFIC”) for U.S. federal income tax purposes in any taxable year in which either (i) 75% or more of its gross income is “passive income” or (ii) 50% or more of the average gross value of its assets are attributable to assets that produce “passive income” or are held for the production of passive income. In arriving at this calculation, the Company must also include a pro rata portion of the income and assets of each corporation in which it owns, directly or indirectly, at least a 25% interest. Passive income for this purpose generally includes dividends, interest, royalties, rents and gains from commodities and securities transactions.

The Company has not evaluated whether it is, or is likely to be, or whether any of its subsidiaries is or is likely to be, a PFIC. Further, because the tests for determining passive foreign investment company status are applied as of the end of each taxable year and are dependent upon a number of factors, some of which are beyond the control of the Company or its subsidiaries, including the value of its assets, the market price of its ordinary shares, and the amount and type of its or their gross income, the Company cannot state with certainty that it is not and its subsidiaries are not a PFIC or will not be a PFIC in the future.

If the Company or a subsidiary of the Company is treated as a PFIC, United States Holders will be subject to the PFIC provisions of the United States federal income tax law with respect to the Company's stock or the subsidiary's stock, as the case may be. The PFIC provisions impose interest charges on gains from the sale of, and “excess distributions” with respect to, shares of a PFIC owned directly (or deemed to be owned directly or indirectly under certain attribution rules) by a United States Holder. In general, an excess distribution is any distribution to a United States Holder that is greater than 125% of the average annual distributions received by the United States Holder (including return of capital distributions) during the three preceding taxable years or, if shorter, the United States Holder's holding period for the shares and gains on the disposition of shares.

Under these rules (i) the gain or excess distribution would be allocated rateably over a United States Holder's holding period for the Shares, (ii) the amount allocated to the taxable year in which the gain or excess distribution was realized would be taxable as ordinary income, (iii) the amount allocated to each prior year, with certain exceptions, would be subject to tax at the highest rate in effect for that year, and (iv) the interest charge generally applicable to underpayments of tax would be imposed in respect of the tax attributable to each such year.

United States Holders can avoid the interest charge by making a "mark to market" election with respect to the Shares, provided that the Shares are "marketable" within the meaning of U.S. Treasury Regulations during each calendar quarter. Such election cannot be revoked without the consent of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service unless the Shares cease to be marketable. A United States Holder that makes a mark to market election generally would be required to take into account the difference, if any, between the fair market value and the adjusted tax basis of the Shares at the end of a taxable year as ordinary income (or, subject to certain limitations, ordinary loss) in calculating its income for such year, subject to certain limitations. In the case of a mark to market election, gains from an actual sale or other disposition of the Shares will be treated as ordinary income. Any losses incurred on a sale or other disposition of the Shares will be treated as an ordinary loss to the extent of any net mark to market gains for prior years. It is unclear whether the "mark to market" election would have any effect with respect to any subsidiary of the Company if such subsidiary were a PFIC.

If the Company were to agree to provide the necessary information, United States Holders could also avoid the interest charge imposed by the PFIC rules by making a qualified electing fund election (a "QEF election"). A United States Holder making a QEF election generally would be required to include in income on a current basis its pro rata share of the ordinary income and net capital gains of the Company. However, the Company does not expect to provide United States Holders the information that would be necessary in order for a United States Holder to make a QEF election with respect to the Shares.

THE ABOVE PFIC CONSIDERATIONS IS NOT INTENDED TO CONSTITUTE A COMPREHENSIVE ANALYSIS OF ALL THE TAX CONSEQUENCES RELATING TO THE ACQUISITION, OWNERSHIP OR DISPOSITION OF SHARES. PROSPECTIVE INVESTORS SHOULD CONSULT THEIR OWN TAX ADVISERS CONCERNING THE TAX CONSEQUENCES TO THEM IN LIGHT OF THEIR PARTICULAR SITUATIONS.

PART XVII. INDEPENDENT AUDITORS

Pursuant to the Estonian Commercial Code, the General Meeting of Shareholders decides the number of auditors and elects the auditors. Pursuant to a resolution dated 13 April 2012, the general meeting of shareholders of the Company appointed AS Deloitte Audit Eesti (address: Roosikrantsi 2, Tallinn 10119, Estonia) as auditor of the Company for one year (until the next annual General Meeting of Shareholders). AS Deloitte Audit Eesti is a member of the Estonian Auditing Board. The auditor of the Company for the financial years ended 31 December 2009, 2010 and 2011 was also AS Deloitte Audit Eesti.

The Special Purpose Combined Financial Statements (i.e. special purpose consolidated combined financial statements of the Company for the three years ended 31 December 2011), which have been prepared in accordance with the IFRS-EU as described in Note 2 thereto, have been audited by AS Deloitte Audit Eesti, as set out in their report.

The consolidated condensed interim financial information of the Company for the six months ended 30 June 2012 included in this Prospectus has not been audited. AS Deloitte Audit Eesti conducted an examination of the un-audited adjusted financial information of the Company for the six months ended 30 June 2011 contained in the consolidated condensed interim financial information of the Company for the six months ended 30 June 2012 and issued a report, included elsewhere in this Prospectus.

The audit reports issued with respect to Financials Statements have not included qualifications. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the independent sworn audit report regarding AS Pro Kapital Grupp Financial Statements for the Year ended 31 December 2010 included the following qualifications: (a) the auditors were unable to obtain sufficient audit evidence for consolidated other income in the amount of EEK 31,052,933 (EUR 1,984,644) and expenses in the amount of EEK 30,601,956 (EUR 1,955,821) arising from Multiservice S.l.r (a subsidiary at that time) and (b) as of 31 December 2010, the Management Board had not performed the impairment test on the financial investments into subsidiaries at their cost value of EEK 2,137,460 (EUR 136,609). Please also see auditor's report appended to AS Pro Kapital Grupp Consolidated Financial Statements for the Year Ended 31 December 2010, a document that is incorporated hereto by reference.

The AS Pro Kapital Grupp Financial Statements for the Year ended 31 December 2009 included an emphasis of matter. Without qualifying its opinion, attention was drawn to the matter that the real estate markets where the Group Companies operated were influenced by the global financial crisis and economic downturn, which caused insufficient liquidity and very passive purchase demand. The deterioration of the real estate market created an uncertainty as to the fairness of valuation of the of the Group's assets (investment properties, inventories and long term receivables). The value of respective assets presented in the consolidated annual accounts is based on the management's estimates as of the consolidated annual accounts' preparation date. Thus, the final net realizable value of the recorded assets may differ from the estimates used. Please also see auditor's report appended to AS Pro Kapital Grupp Consolidated Financial Statements for the Year Ended 31 December 2009, a document that is incorporated hereto by reference.
